ASSAIL F. D. R.'S 'INDIFFERENCE' IN RAIL STRIKE

War Hit, Loss Soars in Suburb Tie-up.

BY CARL WIEGMAN.

Wages lost—$161,000.

Revenue lost—$387,000.

Gasoline wasted—Thousands of gallons.

War work delayed—Thousands of war workers subjected to hardships, delays, and inconvenience.

This was the balance sheet yesterday of the strike that has tied up two electric railroads here for 11 days in spite of the elaborate federal laws, boards, and bureaus designed to make railroad strikes an impossibility.

As the strike went into its 12th day, the worried strikers and the hard pressed railway lines were near the ends of their ropes, and both looked to Washington for a solution. But scores of telegrams sent to President Roosevelt by public officials and civic groups have not been even acknowledged.

502 Strike; Many Laid Off.

The strike began at 4 a. m. on Nov. 10 when the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen called out 502 motormen, conductors, and collectors employed by the Chicago, North Shore, and Milwaukee railroad [North Shore Line] and the Chicago, Aurora, and Elgin railroad. As a result of the strike, the railroads have laid off most of their 1,521 nonoperating employes, who are not on strike.

Tempers of officials and citizens in the Chicago suburbs served by the two lines continued to rise yesterday as no sign of a settlement of the dispute appeared. Mayor Claude Van Auken of Elmhurst issued a proclamation for a protest meeting Friday night, when petitions addressed to the President, senators, and congressmen will be signed.

Mayor Andrew J. Carter of Aurora described the situation as "deplorable" and said his community had been damaged. L. M. Doolen, head of the Aurora Chamber of Commerce, said he could not understand the government's indifferent attitude toward the strike.

"Public Is Goat," Says Langum.

Dr. I. G. Langum, mayor of St. Charles, said he was still waiting for a reply to a telegram sent to the President, and added: "As usual, the members of the public are the goats."

Mayor Joseph B. Garnett of Highland Park also was waiting for Mr. Roosevelt to act. The mayor said Congressman Ralph Church had informed him that he had begged action by the war and navy departments and the President.

George Crawford, Waukegan editor and chairman of the city's war price and ration board, said it was ridiculous to say that the war effort was not involved in the strike. In Waukegan, countless gallons of gasoline have been issued to war work-

PARIS UNION CLEARS MAURICE CHEVALIER OF COLLABORATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 21.—Maurice Chevalier, whose reappearance on the Paris stage had been held up pending investigation of an accusation that he collaborated with the Germans, was given a clean bill of health today by Variety Artistes union. The union said its inquiry showed that the actor sang only once at a German prison camp, and that by doing so, without pay, he obtained the release of 10 prisoners. It found that he broadcast on the Paris radio only 11 times, "the minimum in consideration of the great number of broadcasts he was urged to give and which he was in no position to be able to refuse outright." The union also reported that Chevalier halted all artistic activity at the beginning of 1943.

State Fires 3 in Stolen Car Title Racket

BY ROBERT HOWARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 21.—Secretary of State Richard Yates Rowe said today he had discharged three holdover Democratic employes who had been providing phony certificates of title for second hand dealers acting as fences for stolen automobiles.

In the midst of that investigation, Rowe also discovered five cases where two-numeral and three-numeral automobile license tags, in demand among many Illinois motorists, have been issued in duplicate.

Rowe became secretary of state in June by appointment of Gov. Green upon the death of Edward J. Hughes, a Democrat, who had held the office since 1933. Rowe said the mishandling of certificates did not start until Hughes' prolonged illness.

Titles Precede Licenses.

Illinois requires automobile owners to obtain certificates of title before cars are licensed. When cars are sold the certificates must be turned in and reissued. All the work is handled by the secretary of state's automobile department.

Rowe did not name the three Democratic employes and said the investigation, still incomplete, had not reached the stage where formal charges could be filed. It was reported the scheme involved collaboration between field investigators and men in the statehouse office. Field investigators are traveling employes of the secretary of state, whose duties include supervision of cases where motor numbers are changed.

It was said field men would help arrange a change or defacement of car, factory, and dealer's numbers of stolen cars, to be followed by issuance of a new certificate of title. Some fairly large auto dealers were reportedly involved in the "hot market" for titles. Stolen cars could be sold at inflated prices.

Firing Stirs Protests.

It was reported suspicions were aroused when an employe was discharged, with protests coming from political sources and auto dealers. Discharges and transfers have blocked further mishandling of titles, it was announced. Rowe said he did not announce the discharges during the election campaign because the action might have been interpreted as political propaganda.

Political pressure from persons who insist on having low auto numbers presumably was responsible for the issuance of the same number to two persons, Rowe said.

Rowe asked legal advice about the proper procedure. Meanwhile, he did not announce the duplicated numbers. It was understood duplicated numbers went to persons living in different parts of the state.

One Number Listed.

When numbers were duplicated only one was listed in the annual directory printed by the secretary of state and issued to police departments and other law enforcement agencies.

Composition license plates for passenger cars are manufactured by the American Decalcomania company of Chicago. Rowe said the manufacturer, as a matter of routine, is asked to duplicate lost plates, and that no suspicion would have been aroused when two sets of the same number would be ordered.

Under Hughes the automobile department was headed by John J. Nash of Chicago, chief clerk. He was discharged when the office came under Republican control and Rowe promoted George Moore, a veteran employe, to succeed him.

Roosevelt Son Linked to G.I. Street Brawl

New York, Nov. 21 [Special].—An early morning brawl on Broadway, in which Col. Elliott Roosevelt, second son of the President, allegedly came to the aid of four soldiers battling with a civilian and enabled the G. I.'s to make a getaway before the arrival of military police, was investigated by an army provost marshal today.

The civilian, who filed a complaint, was Max Huddle, 30, floor manager of Honeymoon Lane dance hall, in midtown. He said he had just entered a taxi at 4:30 a. m. today in Broadway, near the dance hall, when four soldiers crowded up to the machine.

"Two got in the cab and dragged me out," Huddle related. "They had been drinking and were feeling a little tough. They said they wanted the cab. I didn't choose to give it up under force. the four then started to slug it out with me."

Huddle Slugs It Out.

Huddle, a square-built former cabaret bouncer and once a National Guardsman—rejected for war service because of stomach ulcers—stood his ground.

"They battled with me for 20 minutes," he said. "Quite a crowd collected, but the only help I got was that spectators occasionally would jump in and pry some of them off when they clinched with me. My cab driver had gone looking for M. P.'s.

"I was still holding my own when a taxi drove up and two officers got out. One was Col. Elliott Roosevelt and the other was a major whose name I haven't learned.

Told G. I.s to Scram.

"This major took hold of me, while Col. Roosevelt pushed the soldiers aside and told them to scram. I moved toward the colonel to protest, but the major put his hand on my shoulder and said I was under arrest. Just then some one in the crowd yelled, "Here come the M. P.'s!"

"The colonel got into his cab after a quick word with the major, leaving the major with me. When the M. P.'s arrived I heard the major say 'keep this quiet. A son of the President is involved.' Then the major got away—fast."

The G. I.'s having departed and Huddle not having their names, the M. P.'s told the dance hall manager there was nothing they could do. Huddle went to Roosevelt hospital and got treatment for facial bruises, a scratched right eyelid and puffed lip.

Then he went to the police, who said it was a military matter and sent him to the provost marshal.

5 KILLED, 12 INJURED IN EXPLOSION OF GAS TRUCK AFTER CRASH

Denison, Tex., Nov. 21 [Special].—Five persons were killed and 12 others critically burned late today in an explosion following a collision between a butane gas truck and an automobile in northwest Denison.

The explosion, which Police Chief Paul Borum called the worst in the city's history, demolished a small grocery store, burned one residence to the ground, started fires in two others, and shook houses three blocks away.

Most of the victims were waiting at a near-by bus stop or walking in the vicinity when the truck and car collided, causing the butane gas to spill out on the street. Jeff Whitefield of Denison, driver of the truck, said he leaped out and warned the people of the danger, but the explosion came too quickly for them to escape. Police believe sparks from a passing train or exhaust from a car ignited the gas.

SMOKE-HUNGRY G. I.S REMINDED SHELLS COME 1ST

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21 (AP).—Priority of ammunition movement was advanced by army authorities today as one explanation of the cigaret shortage in France.

With the present big push developing, shells were unloaded instead of smokes, resulting in a "certain piling up" of shipping, it was explained. Fag-frantic G. I.s have been wondering why post exchanges in England and in French areas back of the front have to hold off on sales for a while to all except air forces. Officials here gave assurances that it was only temporary.

"Sufficient cigarets have been going over. There is no question about that," they said.

Brooklyn Uses Coward's Own Label: Coward

New York, Nov. 21 [Special].—Brooklyn today gave the lie to Noel Coward, British author, playwright and actor, in reply to his recent "contemptible" aspersions on the valor of Brooklyn fighting men.

Wounded and maimed war veterans—some with limbs missing, a gold star mother of a war hero, the borough president and city council representatives gathered at city hall and expressed contempt for the Englishman.

They used Coward's own words about himself in previous writings to indict him for having faked illness to evade military service and to label him "a coward, a spineless creature, unable to cope with anything more formidable than a row of footlights."

Urge New York Ban.

The occasion was a meeting of a committee of the city council to consider a resolution recommending a New York ban on Coward's books and plays. After hearing from a number of speakers, the committee deferred action until next week.

The resolution was introduced last week by Brooklyn council members wrathful over a passage in Coward's new book, "Middle East Diary" in which he wrote he was little impressed at Salerno "by some of the mournful little Brooklyn boys lying there in tears amidst the alien corn with nothing worse than a bullet wound in the leg or a fractured arm."

Councilman Walter Hart read to the committee from Coward's book, "Present Indicative," published in 1937, to show that the author feigned illness to obtain his release from the British army in the last war after bribery and his influence had failed.

Own Needs First.

"The needs of my king and country seemed unimportant," Hart quoted Coward as having written, "compared with the vital necessity of forging ahead with my career."

Brooklyn war veterans were introduced by Hart to refute Coward's statement about Brooklyn fighting men.

First Lt. Joseph Ferry, 26, army airman, an empty sleeve dangling from his right shoulder, said he considered Coward's remarks "decidedly unfair." Ferry lost his arm during a mission over Germany. Lt. [j. g.] Anthony Candiotti, 23, of the navy, who said he was the first American to hit the Normandy beachhead June 6, said, "All the boys are frightened going in to the beaches, but they go in and do the job."

DELAY 'BIG 3' PEACE PARLEY; CAUSE MYSTERY

Stalin's Showdown Is Put Off.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—Plans to submit the Dumbarton Oaks postwar peace enforcement project to the senate soon after the new congress convenes on Jan. 3 were upset today when it became known that the prospective meeting of the big three—President Roosevelt, Prime Mininster Churchill, and Dictator Stalin—has been postponed.

The meeting, originally planned for this month or next, may not be held until February, unless the war in Europe should end within the next few weeks.

The reasons for the postponement are not entirely clear. Mr. Roosevelt would give no explanation at his press conference this afternoon beyond the statement that the delay is due to operational difficulties. He said the meeting would be held as soon as possible.

Reason Is Obscure.

It was not clear whether the operational difficulties pertained to transportation of the President to Moscow where Stalin has been insisting that the conference be held or to the launching of the new winter offensive by the Russians against Germany, which Stalin said would make it impossible for him to leave the soviet capital, inasmuch as he is the actual director of the operations of the Red armies.

Because of the physical condition of the President it is highly undesirable to subject him to long and arduous ocean and air journeys and exposure to health hazards as on his trip a year ago to Cairo and Teheran where he picked up the germ that caused his long illness. Such considerations prompted the hope that the meeting could be held in Washington or no farther distance than Quebec. Mr. Churchill wanted it in London, while Stalin was holding out for Moscow tho indicating a willingness for the near east.

Stalin Plans Considered.

Inasmuch as Stalin left Moscow for the Teheran conference at the height of the Russian offensive against Germany last winter, many officials here discount any suggestion that the new current operations on the eastern front are keeping Stalin away from the meeting with Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill. It is deemed entirely possible that Stalin is intent upon delaying any showdown on political questions affecting the Russian sphere of influence in Europe and Asia and on his attitude toward the Dumbarton Oaks peace plan.

Despite Secretary of State Hull's optimistic report that the Moscow conference had opened the way to collective security, both Churchill and Stalin appear to be relying for national safety less on leagues to enforce peace than on the old balance of power principle.

Stalin's Operations.

Stalin is perfecting a Russian hegemony in eastern Europe and western Asia. He has absorbed Bessarabia and the eastern half of Poland into the soviet union. He is annexing the Baltic states as fast as he drives out the Germans. He is insisting on the organization of pro-Russian governments in the new Poland, Finland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary, and Jugoslavia. He is promoting communist domination of Greece, Italy, and France.

Viewing the creation of a Russian sphere of influence in eastern Europe, Mr. Churchill has been making gestures toward the formation of a pro-British bloc of states in western Europe by way of effecting a balance of power.

The plans for a post-war peace league also have been stalled by Stalin. His insistence on the power to veto any effort by the new league to crack down on Russia as an aggressor on Poland or other nations left the Dumbarton Oaks conference unable to agree on the procedure for enforcing peace.

ONCE STARVING ATHENS A FREE CITY OF JOY NOW

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Nov. 21.—Greece today is like a condemned prisoner who unexpectedly has received a full pardon. The entire country is in the grip of a hysterical reaction which has followed liberation from the horrors of long years of German and Italian occupation.

This reaction, which began when the first British Tommies parachuted into Greece more than a month ago upon the heels of the retreating Germans, has reached its greatest height in the capital city, Athens.

Twenty-four hours a day the streets of this ancient city are jammed with shouting, laughing, singing crowds, apparently eager for anything but settling down once more to a normal life. Passage of every military convoy is treated as a parade, and the occasional appearance of a British tank blocks the street with people for hundreds of feet in every direction.

City Lighted Nightly.

For the first time in eight years the Greeks find themselves able to do much as they wish to do. Since early 1941 the Nazis and Italians had ruled them with an iron hand, and prior to that they had been held down by the Metaxas dictatorship, which came into power in 1936 and which closely resembled the axis occupation government, except that it was friendly toward England.

One would never think, from quick tours of this city, that war ever had touched it. Nightly its lights glow brightly; its coffee shops and sidewalk cafes exhibit the most fanciful sweets and pastries; its cabarets clamor like Chicago's on New Year's eve. Movie houses now show American and British pictures, far outdated, but welcomed ecstatically by amusement hungry civilians.

Business Brisk—Prices Up.

You can buy anything—if you are willing to pay the price. Dozens of shops sell Swiss watches and finest German made cameras at twice their cost in the United States. Leather goods of all kinds, including the finest shoes, sell for three times what they are worth. Good Scotch whisky is $10 a bottle, and Greek beer and wines flow freely. Black market gasoline, at $8 for four gallons, is no problem to find.

Food markets are stuffed with meats, cheese, eggs, fruit of all kinds, and sweets. But tremendously inflated prices force 90 per cent of Athens' citizens to sustain themselves on much the same menu as they did during the Nazi occupation—black bread, cheaper vegetables, and poor tea.

It is only when you get to know the people that the true horror of their existence under the Germans comes out. They will talk about 1941 in hushed, stricken voices. That was the bad year—the year when people silently dropped and died of starvation on the streets of Athens—the year when babies died before they had had a chance to

REPORT THRUST BEHIND VOSGES UP TO COLMAR

Enemy Flees Before U. S. 7th Army.

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, Nov. 21 (AP).—French and American troops of the 6th army group battled into the citadel city of Mulhouse and drove well beyond Sarrebourg to within 27 miles of Strasbourg on the Rhine today in great encircling movements which threatened to pocket the entire German 19th army with its back to the river.

French 1st army armored forces speared into Mulhouse in a race northward from their footholds on the French side of the Rhine near the German-Swiss-French border to cut off the Germans between the Vosges mountains and the river. Unconfirmed reports said the French already had continued on to Colmar, 22 miles north of Mulhouse.

Push North of Belfort.

The French 1st army, besides its great drive up to Mulhouse and possibly beyond, which was announced proudly by Gen. De Gaulle, cleared a large area northwest of Belfort and pushed on north four miles to Giromagny and Vescemont.

Field dispatches said the great fortress of Belfort, historic guardian of the Belfort Gap, was completely occupied by the French except for the southern section.

The French continued to pour troops thru Belfort gap.

[An Associated Press dispatch from Switzerland said French artillery already had laid waste a six mile stretch of Germany's Rhineland north from the Swiss frontier, smashing villages and railway installations on the German side of the stream from Weil to Isteis.]

Pass Nazis Trying to Flee.

The French said that their armored units which swept past abandoned German tanks arrived on the west bank in time to see German troops attempting to swing across the stream, swollen by rains. They said one ferry sank under the weight of Nazis who climbed aboard with quantities of loot, including household silver and radios.

United States 7th army troops some 75 miles northward drove due east thru the Vosges, captured Sarrebourg and thrust six miles farther and took Mittelbronn, near the entrance to the Saverne gap that leads thru the forested mountains to the Rhine plain. The 44th division led that push in action so fluid that front dispatches said a definite front could not be defined from moment to moment.

Abandon Much Equipment.

Field dispatches said the Germans were abandoning much equipment as they fled toward Strasbourg and the Rhine, 27 air line miles away.

[The Bern (Switzerland) radio reported that "it has just been announced that the Americans are in the suburbs of Strasbourg." There was no confirmation of the Swiss report. The broadcast was recorded in New York.]

Thru the mountains from the Saverne gap down to Mulhouse the Germans were reported putting up only a disorganized rearguard resistance.

Another new 7th army division, the 100th infantry, crossed the Muerthe river and advanced more than two miles in the Raon l'Etape area. The 3d infantry division also crossed that stream and captured La Voivre and Hubache, north of St. Die. The 36th division, operating south of St. Die, advanced two and one-half miles, taking Clefcy at the mouth of Bonhomme pass and sending patrols eastward several miles thru the pass.

French 2d Armored Gains.

Sandwiched among the Americans, the French 2d armored division drove thru German defenses southeast of Sarrebourg to Abreschwiller, 30 miles from Strasbourg.

Seventh army troops pushing eastward from the Blamont area reported the Germans were falling back so rapidly they did not plant the usual mine fields.

The fiercest enemy resistance on Lt.

Gen. Patton's 3d army front was in the area of Merzig, four miles inside the German Saar, where the 10th armored division repulsed a Nazi counter-attack and then pushed on another mile against heavy enemy fire. At last report Patton's tanks were about three miles inside Germany at this point and within a mile of Merzig, which is on the east bank of the Saar river.

3d Gains Up to 3 Miles.

The 3d army merged its holdings inside Germany to a continuous 11 mile front running southeast from near Besch, solidifying its hold on some 25 square miles of enemy soil despite heavy artillery fire and masses of road blocks, mines, and anti-tank ditches.

Southeast of Metz Patton's infantry registered gains described in field dispatches as up to three miles, with the 26th division overrunning Falkenburg [Falquemont] in the old Maginot line 20 miles southwest of Saarbrucken. The 35th division closed in on Hellimer, 10 miles east-southeast of Falkenburg. Troops who took Lelling, east of Falkenburg, were within nine miles of the Saar border.

At Metz, Fort Queleu on the southwest surrendered with its garrison of 200 Nazis, but two island pockets and six other forts around that pierced fortress city of France continued to hold out.

Some of the 3,100 prisoners captured in the Metz area reported that about 600 Germans still were holding out in Fort Driant, on the west bank of the Moselle south of Metz, but said they were running short of supplies.

Farther north, where the Nazis were fighting on their own soil with their backs to the Roer and the Saar rivers, the enemy was hurling in armor and artillery in a desperate effort to stem the advances of the American 1st and 9th armies and the British 2d.

Stolberg Completely Cleared.

Floundering forward thru a steady rain and deep mud, Lt. Gen. Hodges' 1st army completed the clearing of Stolberg, five miles east of Aachen; fought its way deeper into the heavily mined city of Eschweiler, seven miles northeast of Aachen; cleared the village of Rohe, just west of Eschweiler, and pushed into Hehlrath, a village a mile northwest of Eschweiler.

Fighting was raging from house to house in Hehlrath and Hodges' doughboys beat off a Nazi counter-attack near Heistern, three miles southeast of Eschweiler and drove a half mile beyond.

The American 9th army to the north surged within sight of the Roer river in an advance of 2½ miles that enveloped nine towns in 24 hours, including Laurenzsbert, Engelsdorf, Ederen, and Merzenhausen. They were a little over a mile from the Roer.

There were some signs of enemy withdrawal on the 9th's southern front, but on its north flank resistance was ferocious. German counter-attacks were repulsed in the Lindern area, and there was hard fighting near Langendorf as the 9th knocked out seven German tanks during the day.

Beat Off Counter-Attacks.

Northeast of Geilenkirchen, 10 miles north of Aachen, British troops drove thru strongly defended Siegfried line positions almost to the outskirts of Wurm, 3½ miles from Geilenkirchen, after beating oc two German counter-attacks.

Other British outfits, picking their way thru a maze of mines and slush in southeastern Holland, beat forward within 5½ miles of the German Maas [Meuse] river bastion of Venlo and moved steadily forward on a seven mile front.

Despite bad weather all along the fronts, the allied tactical air forces were out in moderate numbers supporting the ground attack. They encountered German fighters in somewhat unusual strength. Sixteen American Thunderbolts tangled with 60 Messerschmitt 109's in the Dusseldorf area and downed 10 for a loss of one American.

YANKS DOWN 74 NAZIS; BOMB 3 OIL REFINERIES

LONDON, Nov. 21 (AP).—Seventy-four Nazi planes were destroyed in the air and six more wrecked on the ground today as the largest aerial escort in history, more than 1,100 American fighters, fought a series of sky battles to protect a fleet of 1,250 Fortresses and Liberators which hit three vital German oil refineries with 4,000 tons of bombs.

Forty United States heavy bombers and 17 fighters were missing from the attack, altho an announcement said some of them may have landed in friendly territory.

The American armada flew thru temperatures as low as 43 degrees below zero in order to pound the refineries at Hamburg and Harburg and the large Leuna synthetic oil plant at Merseburg.

The United States bulletin said the Germans sent up more than 250 interceptors, but the tremendous escort engaged the Nazis so thoroly that only one bomber formation was actually attacked. In this conflict a bomber gunner shot down one enemy plane.

Anti-aircraft fire was described as "very intense" over the target areas.

About 200 R. A. F. Lancasters blasted a synthetic oil refinery at Homberg in the Ruhr, while a small force of Italy based heavies of the 15th air force pounded objectives in Yugoslavia.

GIRLS WELCOME BISHOP TO METZ AS CANNON ROAR

Guns Fired at Door of Cathedral.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 3D ARMY TROOPS IN METZ, France, Nov. 21.—Fort Queleu, German stronghold southeast of Metz, surrendered today, with a garrison of 200 giving as their reason a lack of food and medical supplies. Other German forts are still holding out west and northwest of the city, altho a couple are willing to listen to surrender overtures.

In the city itself resistance has dwindled to a very few points, one of which gave up today when American guns threw 3 inch shells into the basement of the prefecture, where a handful of defiant Nazis were shaken into a reasonable mood.

Citizens of Metz thronged the main streets today in welcome to Pierre Rebourset, newly appointed prefect of the department of Moselle, and Msgr. Heinz, bishop of Metz, who was returning to his bishopric for the first time since eviction by the Nazis four years ago.

Girls Jam Square.

While guns fired into the prefecture from positions immediately in front of the cathedral, some hundred persons, including freshly scrubbed French girls in freshly laundered peasant costumes, jammed the square behind it in welcome to lay and clerical dignitaries.

The surrender appeal by the Americans to Fort St. Blaise, west of Metz, was reluctantly rejected, according to Capt. Karl Kittstein, Livingston, N. J., who with Pvt. Roy T. Fisher, Battle Creek, Mich., walked right under German guns, bearing a white flag.

Blindfolded by Nazis.

The captain and private began waving their flag on the outskirts of the town of Augny, and nearly hit the dirt several times when fired on before the Germans recognized the truce signal. Then the Americans walked up to the fort, where they were met by a German non-com who blindfolded them and led them inside.

There a German lieutenant said he was unable to surrender because he was ordered to hold out, but would give up the fort if granted safe conduct for himself and his men to German lines. This naturally was refused.

Outside Metz today we met Pvt. Dominic Siragusa, 24, of 456 N. May st., Chicago, Pvt. Joseph Langer, 27, of 2048 W. 13th st., Chicago; Pvt. James B. Neal, 19, Connersville, Ind., and Pvt. Paul Kramer, 19, Manitowoc, Wis.

104th Division in Action; Terry Allen in Command

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS NEAR THE DUTCH-BELGIAN BORDER, Oct. 26 [Delayed]—(AP).—The American 104th infantry division under the command of Maj. Gen. Terry Allen of 1st division fame in North Africa and Sicily moved into the line on this front the night of Oct. 24 under Canadian army command. Allen's troops were the first division to be shipped from the United States directly to Cherbourg. The general took command of the division in October, 1943.

KISS AND SHOOT! SUCH IS LIFE IN 'FREED' BELFORT

French Dodge Nazi Shells and Bullets.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELFORT, France, Nov. 21.—German shells were cracking into Belfort from the countryside today as French armor and foot troops hastened along the thorofares. German bazooka and small arms fire was coming from the eastern semi-circle of forts. There still were small centers of enemy resistance within the citadel town.

Yesterday's bulletin announced Belfort as liberated. After hours of dodging into buildings and viewing wounded civilians and soldiers and knocked out tanks, it seems that French authorities, in intimating they had won full control of Belfort, are as premature as they were when Marseille was first entered two months ago.

Nazis Cling to Forts.

It is true that the backbone of German resistance in Belfort and the surrounding area has been broken, but it is still a very hot place. The enemy's self-propelled guns are roving thru near-by woods and hills in hit and run tactics. Small groups of German soldiers, who take their "fight to the death" orders seriously, are in at least three of the forts, Dalin le Chateau, the strongest and most intricately constructed, on the eastern limits of Belfort, and in La Miotte and La Justice, northeast of Le Chateau.

Also from isolated houses other Germans, reënforced by the milice [French collaborators with the Germans], are holding out. Any civilian, allied soldier or vehicle turning a corner into the open draws a stream of fire from the desperate enemy. As in Marseille, some of the milice prefer to perish in battle rather than be captured and executed for treason by patriotic countrymen.

At the city hall and in the big central square near the palais de justice and Bartholdi's famous statue commemorating the sieges Belfort withstood [in the Napoleonic wars and in the Franco-Prussian war], groups of Belfort citizens gathered during the day to welcome French infantrymen and tank crews. Flags of the allied nations were broken out and there were shouts of welcome as well as gestures and oaths concerning the Germans.

Receptions Short Lived.

But none of these receptions was extended. Incoming fire was never silent for long. A soldier who might be kissing a pretty girl one moment, would be shoving her aside the next and scooting down an alley for a shot at a fort or a sniper in a house. And the tankman, after accepting flowers to bedeck his Gen. Sherman, might turn his tank a moment later and send it roaring down the road with gun atilt.

The Lion of Belfort, another of Bartholdi's noted sculptures, which stands near Le Chateau, had annoyed the Germans. They placed a swastika banner near this monument which is dedicated to Lt. Col. Denfert-Rochereau and his men who had held Belfort against the Germans for 103 days in 1870-'71. A middle-aged civilian today braved fire from Le Chateau to tear down the German symbol.

In an adjoining street some French girls, who had been intimate with the Germans, were being herded into maquis [patriot] headquarters. A French soldier tried to intervene for a particularly attractive lass, but the townsfolk would have none of it and barred him from her. The lightest penalty these girls can expect is shearing their hair.

Lingers Too Long with Girl.

Among German prisoners brought in was one who said he was the son of a wealthy industrialist. He had lingered to accompany a Belfort girl with whom he was in love. He was seized in her aunt's home but the girl got away to Mulhouse.

Belfort doesn't have many scars of war. The French had not put much artillery fire into the city proper for they were concentrating on the forts. The damage in the industrial and residential districts—mostly broken glass—came from the concussion of blasts and not direct hits.

Belfort residents said the Germans had maintained a garrison of about 12,000 to 15,000 here in recent months. There had been food rationing but no real pinch.

Removed Artillery Pieces.

The mystery as to why Belfort and her fortifications were not used by the Germans for a long and full scale defense against the French was being cleared up. In the western forts the big gun emplacements gaped impotently.

When the Germans took Belfort in 1940 they apparently figured they would never have to stand a siege here. So, according to the citizenry, the Germans removed the artillery pieces, some of which were obsolete, and took them elsewhere. The Germans also scrapped the cable system thru which the forts had communicated for the interlocking defense.

Gen. De Tassigny, commander of the French 1st army, in explaining some of the factors in the successful offensive, said: "It was launched at a time and in a sector where nobody could expect it. I had exacted the utmost secrecy and got it. We had proof when reading the diary of a German general commanding a division against which we were fighting. He was killed during the battle.

Notes in General's Diary.

"There were indications in his diary such as this, 'French divisions are spread over an enormous front. There is no sign of action. It is impossible for them to take the offensive. There is no likelihood of our being attacked.'

"In this way the enemy admitted he was surprised and had no time to bring his reserves into the forts. We were also helped by the weather. Our offensive was launched in such a snowstorm that the Germans couldn't possibly imagine we would have the audacity to spring upon them in front of Belfort gap in such unfavorable atmospheric conditions."

HODGES SWINGS A GIANT SCYTHE ON ESCHWEILER

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

WITH U. S. 1ST ARMY TROOPS ASSAULTING ESCHWEILER, Germany, Nov. 21.—Against dogged German resistance, Lt. Gen. Hodges' forces drove forward thru the mud, rain, and bone chilling cold today. The day's biggest advance was about 2,000 yards [more than a mile] and carried the American spearhead from the captured town of Hehlrath into the crossroads village of Durwiss, where fighting was raging at nightfall.

There was close quarter fighting up to Eschweiler, which once had a population of 50,000 and nestled quietly for years in this picturesque rolling valley.

The fight from the south was being directed by Maj. Fred Neeham, Auburn, Cal. Other units were driving from the west toward the heart of the city, which has been under heavy artillery and air bombardment for weeks.

Like a Giant Scythe.

Our grip around the town was like a giant scythe and was further strengthened by the advance to Durwiss. The village of Rohe fell before the 1st army advance, with 100 prisoners.

Doughboys closing in on the heart of Eschweiler were hampered by mines, snipers, and rearguard machine gunners. Lt. Richard H. Weil, 200 E. Chestnut st., Chicago, who drove his jeep expertly around piles of rubble spewed into the street, said this is just another case of digging out the Germans room by room with rifles.

"They've mined and booby trapped the town from one end to the other," he said. "But we're moving along slowly. It could be a lot worse. At least it's stopped raining."

Occasional shells went over as the enemy fired upon the only road leading into the town from the south. The fighting was too close for the Germans to shell the town altho the sound of mortar shells echoed dully a few blocks ahead.

Chicagoan an Aid Man.

At a forward first aid station on the lower floor of a battered cottage Pvt. Jack B. Williams, 3305 N. Springfield av., Chicago, a former premedical student at Northwestern university, waited with his squad for a call to pick up casualties. He said the Nazis are ignoring Red Cross arm bands and shooting upon first aid men whenever they are in the open.

"After we get calls from runners the trouble begins in trying to find the wounded man, but we've never come back without bringing him with us," Williams said.

This is a thickly populated industrial region with a chain of slag piles along the highway marking entrances to coal mines. Doughboys told us to be careful of these heaps because many have been found to be mined.

The enemy already has paid dearly for his stubborn resistance. We are killing more than taking prisoner and their losses are heavier than ours. In one case alone 132 enemy bodies were counted around one position upon which American artillery had poured a concentration.

BERLIN RADIO TELLS NAZIS OF REVERSES ON WESTERN FRONT

LONDON, Nov. 21 (AP).—The Berlin radio today broadcast a sombre account of German armies yielding ground before an allied offensive "which has not yet reached its peak."

Most of the German accounts emphasized the danger to the reich represented by the Belfort breakthru. The situation along the Rhine usually was described cautiously as still "too fluid" for conclusions on its ultimate importance, but Martin Hallensleben, German news agency correspondent, said flatly it "might well place the Germans in a precarious situation."

Transocean's commentator, Ludwig Sertorius, said the Belfort breakthru could not yet "actually be termed critical," but admitted that it offered an opportunity to the allies to destroy the Germans' entire Vosges line by rolling up its rear with an advance northward along the Rhine.

F. D. R. SAYS JOB QUITTERS COST LIVES OF YANKS

Officials Echo Army Plea for Supplies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—President Roosevelt said today that war workers who are quitting their jobs to get into peace time work are costing the lives of American soldiers. He said he was reechoing the plea of Gen. Eisenhower for continued production of ships and shells at a high level.

Mr. Roosevelt opened his press conference with a discussion of the current critical shortage in heavy artillery shells, tanks and heavy trucks, and asserted the shell situation has become so acute the American forces have to ration the shells to be fired at the enemy. He said this is caused in part by persons quitting their jobs.

He said the defection of experienced workers from war plants to other jobs has resulted in the smashing of valuable machines by new employes because they were so everlastingly inexperienced.

Promises Post-War Jobs.

The primary reason these persons are quitting war jobs is the fear they will not have work after the war, Mr. Roosevelt said, and he asserted they may be assured that not only government but industry as well is trying very hard to assure post-war jobs, not only for returning service men but for those who have been turning out the munitions of war.

The President's plea to war workers was similar to those made by other administration and military leaders concerned with the shortage of certain war needs, particularly heavy shells.

War Mobilization Director Byrnes last week told of shells being shipped while they were still hot but asserted faulty planning or mistakes were not the cause. He said the situation was the "product of our successes," because the advance in Europe and the Pacific have moved at such an accelerated pace that munitions intended for use in 1945 now are being used.

Krug Tells of Shortages.

WPB Chairman Krug in an address here today said that while 40 per cent of the monthly output of 5½ billion dollars in war material is behind schedule, the lag was chiefly the result of a stepped up demand for certain items. He said one of the most critical shortage items is heavy trucks to carry munitions to the front. The production need is 8,000 trucks a month, but only about 6,600 are being made monthly. A recent Detroit strike, he said, cost the program 2,000 trucks.

Of the behind-schedule program, Krug asserted 28 per cent is critical, meaning that "if we had more we would use it; if we had more it would improve our chances for early success and save American lives."

Of the overall lag he said 22 per cent is directly attributable to labor.

Blames Changes in Design.

He laid 26 per cent of the lag to changes in design and introduction of new models to assembly lines; 12 per cent to bottlenecks in plant facilities, and the biggest share, 40 per cent, to suddenly increased demands of the military which could not be met immediately.

A war department spokesman said the closing of some small arms and ammunition plants a year ago in no way contributed to the shortage of heavy artillery shells, and recalled that the war department last December stated that the 1944 delivery of war supplies would have to exceed that of 1943 and that the "requirements now foreseeable for 1945 do not indicate any major reduction in production of needed military supplies."

The army ordnance department said the plants closed a year ago generally were making small arms and high explosives and were shut down "because our reserves of those items were at that time sufficient for foreseeable needs."

Plants Still Closed.

None of the small arms plants placed on a standby basis have been returned to production. Some of the closed ammunition plants were converted to the production of war material including signal corps equipment and heavy artillery, and the rest were placed on a standby basis or used for storage or repacking work, the spokesman said.

WMC Chairman McNutt issued a statement tonight saying a man power situation of the "utmost seriousness" confronts the nation.

He reported a critical need for 100,000 workers in certain kinds of output and said another 100,000 are needed in other urgent war work. He mentioned specifically seven "must" production lines as presenting critical man power.

He listed them and the workers needed as: Foundries and forge shops, 17,000; shipbuilding, 50,000; heavy artillery ammunition, several thousand; radar, 6,000; cotton duck and tent twill, 3,100; dry cell batteries, 2,000; heavy field artillery and gun carriages, an unstated number.

McNutt also disclosed that top man power referral priorities will be reserved for war plants behind schedule on critical items.

Among points where needs are greatest he listed Chicago, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Springfield, Ill., and Decatur, Ill.

The senate war investigating committee is looking into the man power situation. Rudolph Halley, committee counsel, said he has had agents in the field checking in both critical and surplus labor areas and that hearings will be opened in two or three weeks.

All Must Fight to Win Peace; Let's Do It, Says Eisenhower

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, Nov. 21 (AP).—Gen. Eisenhower, supreme commander of the allied forces in western Europe, declared today that there had been some reason to believe Germany might have cried quits after the battle of France, but that Hitler and his Gestapo had managed to maintain their pistol in the back control of the reich and that the war had become a fight to the death for the German people.

"To get peace we've got to fight like hell for it," Eisenhower told a press conference. "Now, let's do it."

Eisenhower implied strongly that he expected the German command to try to fight out the present battle west of the Rhine rather than retreat voluntarily to the east bank.

Any soldier probably would be forced to that decision once he had so much of his force west of the river, Eisenhower said, pointing out that allied air power was so great that any full scale withdrawal across the river was bound to prove costly, even in bad weather.

Asks More Supplies.

Returning from a tour that took him to all sectors of the front, Eisenhower said that the great power of allied armies had been thrown into the present campaign to force Germany to surrender or be destroyed. His plan, he said, was to hammer the Germans with increasing force and without a lull from now on.

"Unless every one all the way thru the nation—those at the front and those at home—keeps on the job everlastingly and with mounting intensity, we are only postponing the day of victory," he asserted.

For this last great effort, he said, he wanted, and was confident that he would get, more men and—most of all—more supplies.

"I want more supplies than we are getting and I think the soldier wants more than he is getting, both now and in the future," the general stated.

He made plain that he intended no criticism of previous or present home front efforts, but was simply making a forthright appraisal of the needs of the intensifying allied effort.

"There is a job here for every man fit for battle that we can bring in, and it's up to every man back home to give him everything he needs—that is my prescription for victory," Eisenhower said.

General Is Optimistic.

He declined to make a guess as to how soon victory would come, but said that even the Nazis were human enough to break under sufficient pressure. "I am optimistic, myself," he said, and added with a chuckle, "I do hope to prevent myself from becoming complacent."

In response to an inquiry whether the situation was brighter at present than had been anticipated for this distance from D-day, he said it was decidedly brighter in one respect, as no one on D-day would have believed that the allies by November would have been massed before the Siegfried line in such strength as they are.

He conceded, however, that on D-day most persons would have doubted the German ability to keep fighting after such defeats as they have suffered.

Germany is being stripped bare to continue the fight, he said, and the people's army is capable of very effective combat when put behind fortifications or in trenches, despite poor equipment and lack of training.

1,200 WHO ATE AT N. Y. HOTEL BECOME ILL

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—Ernest L. Stebbins, New York City health commissioner, said today approximately 1,200 persons became slightly ill after eating turkey dressing at two dinners in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel last Wednesday but that "all recovered promptly."

Stebbins said investigation "revealed that the cause of these illnesses was apparently turkey dressing which was held without adequate refrigeration." He reported the hotel was coöperating on plans to guard against any possible repetition.

Frank Ready, manager of the hotel, said in a statement that "we received some reports indicating illnesses which might be attributed to food recently served here," but declared that "independent chemists," analyzing the food, have not yet reported finding anything wrong with it.

ARTILLERY PLAYS DECISIVE ROLE IN IKE'S OFFENSIVE

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, Nov. 21.—Artillery, whose function in this war according to theories held by many would be largely taken over by air power, has come back into its own in the allied offensive on the western front. Ever since D-day it has increasingly proved its importance in reducing enemy strong points from St. Malo to St. Lo, Carentan, Cherbourg and Brest, where air power failed to accomplish its purpose.

The battles now in progress indicate artillery is more essential than ever to victory, due to new uses to which it can be put, plus flexibility and mobility not even dreamed of in the last war. Since the fighting started on the beaches of Normandy it has played decisive roles in both attack and defense.

Ike Stresses Importance.

The importance of this weapon was emphasized by Gen. Eisenhower recently when he disclosed that in the capture of Aachen alone the 1st army used up more than 300,000 rounds of 105 millimeter ammunition and that now 5,000 rounds of ammunition are being fired every minute against "the massive crust of armor" surrounding Germany's inner defenses.

When the 1st and 9th armies began their offensive in the narrow arc thru the Siegfried line, more than 1,000 big guns had been in action for a solid hour. They raked enemy positions, strong points, troops, and armor concentrations within a radius up to 25 miles. This did not include the fire power from hundreds of tanks, firing 75 and 76 millimeter guns far superior to the old French 75s which played such a vital role in World War I.

Maj. Gen. H. B. Sayer, chief of ordnance for European theater of operations, has said that American armies not only are equipped with a greater variety of artillery weapons than the enemy, but also hold superiority over the Germans in every category. The Germans' biggest mobile gun is the 170 millimeter weapon and they have very few of those. They were first seen in action at Cherbourg. Later these guns were used at Aachen.

3 Big Weapons on Wheels.

The Americans have three heavier artillery weapons on wheels—the 240 millimeter howitzer, the 8 inch gun and the 8 inch howitzer. The 250 millimeter gun, known as "Big Slugger," weighs 35 tons. It can be moved at from 20 to 25 miles an hour on good roads. The 8 inch gun, known as the "Big Tom," weighs 20 tons. All travel along on pneumatic rubber tires, pulled by 12 wheel caterpillar tractors.

A new 190 millimeter gun, just brought into use and far superior to the German 170, can roll along at 60 miles an hour.

Our 8 inch gun effectively throws a 200 pound projectile more than 35,000 yards; the Big Slugger has effective range with a more than 350 pound projectile of 15 miles, while the 8 inch howitzer has an effective range, with a 240 pound shell, of more than 10 miles.

The "Big Slugger" and the 8 inchers are manned by crews of 24 men. Besides being extremely mobile, they can be set up and in action within one hour's time after their arrival at new positions.

Develop New Tactics.

Americans have developed two new artillery tactics in this war. First is the famous T. O. T.—time on target—method, which synchronizes the arrival of shells from many dispersed points on a target at the same time. This method prevents the enemy from taking cover when he hears the first shell coming over.

Another method is that of interspersing artillery weapons. No longer does one find light artillery up front, medium artillery in the center, and the heavies bringing up the rear. All guns often are near the same position, laying down barrages or knocking out strong points or communications in and behind enemy lines. This is made possible by extreme mobility, which permits artillery to advance up to the front lines and follow closely behind the infantry.

Usually the "Big Tom" and "Big Slugger" are used to knock out bridges, enemy concentrations, or strategic points behind enemy lines, where other guns are unable to reach. Both have been extremely valuable in hitting targets which the air force has been unable to get.

Near Metz, for example, one bridge more than 10 miles from our lines had been attacked time and time again by bombers without results. A "Big Slugger" was brought up and with two shells demolished a river crossing which was of extreme importance to the enemy.

FIND NUBBINS, 3, HAS 10% CHANCE FOR RECOVERY

Denver, Colo., Nov. 21 (AP).—A Denver urologist said tonight after an examination that Forest [Nubbins] Hoffman, 3, Cheyenne, Wyo., boy who celebrated Christmas Sunday because it was feared he might not live until Dec. 25, has a "10 per cent chance of recovery," from his dread illness.

The doctor, who declined to have his name mentioned, described Nubbins' ailment as a congenital obstruction at the neck of his bladder, with the result that one kidney had been totally destroyed and the other was badly damaged.

The doctor said the boy's bladder had been drained tonight, and further progress in the case depended upon whether the kidneys would recover enough for an operation in three or four weeks, at which time the obstruction could be removed.

New York, Nov. 21 [Special].—A two pound gas mask, which will fit 97 per cent of all American war dogs, has been adopted by the United States chemical warfare service. Officially designated as "Mask, Gas, Dog, M6-12-8," it affords protection against chlorine, phosgene, and other choking gases.

FISH ASKS QUICK DEMOBILIZATION AFTER WAR ENDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—Legislation requiring the release from military service of all draftees so requesting it "at the earliest possible date" after Germany and Japan are beaten was introduced in the house today by Rep. Fish [R., N. Y.].

Fish said he was proposing the measure so that congress can make its position clear in view of statements in New Deal circles that drafted soldiers and sailors might be kept in uniform for a time after the fighting has stopped. Maj. Gen. Hershey, draft director, stated publicly a few weeks ago that such a policy might be wise.

"We should put a stop to the idea prevailing in some parts of the nation that it is the intent of the administration to keep our sons under some kind of militarized WPA all over the world," Fish told the house.

The measure states specifically that no one who so volunteers would be prevented by the bill from continuing in military service overseas or elsewhere.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 22 [Wednesday]—(AP).—British warships attacked a German convoy last night near the Island of Kering off Marstand on Sweden's west coast and it was believed at least one German ship was sunk, dispatches from Goteborg to the newspaper Dagensnyheter said.

YANKS BEAT OFF JAPS' ATTACK TO RELIEVE LIMON

Road Block South of Town Holds Foe.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HDQ., Philippines, Nov. 22 [Wednesday]—(AP).—American troops loosened the Japanese hold on northern approaches to the Ormoc valley today despite miserable weather and an apparent Japanese decision to sacrifice an entire division if necessary to hold the village of Limon.

Units of the 24th infantry division yesterday repulsed the third determined enemy attack on the road block which the Americans now hold across the Ormoc highway south of Limon, made in an effort to free the Japs at Limon.

The Japanese in Limon clung stubbornly to their positions, which Gen. MacArthur noted included elaborate trench systems and heavy fortifications; and the Daily bulletin said Gen. Yamashita had apparently decided to commit the 1st Japanese division to hold the town.

Piecemeal Destruction.

"The rugged terrain of the mountain pass, ideally suited to defense, compels time consuming, piecemeal destruction of enemy pillboxes, entrenchments, and pockets of resistance in order to minimize our losses," said MacArthur.

The bulletin said fresh troops of the 32d division were maintaining steady frontal pressure against Limon, reducing the enemy works piecemeal when necessary. The 24th infantry units were still holding the positions on the slopes which they occupied 10 days ago.

May Be Major Attack.

There were indications that the use of the entire first Japanese division was intended as a major counter-attack to retake American positions on the north coast of Leyte.

Some Japanese units have filtered thru weak or unoccupied points in the American line. Some succeeded in cutting across American rear communication lines and in staging hit and run raids against command posts.

Associated Press correspondent Elmont Waite reported that a Japanese party succeeded Monday in throwing a machine gun commanded bloc across the American supply road between Carigara and Pinamopoan. American light tanks and infantry, however, pushed the enemy off the road and surrounded them on a beach Monday night. Today they were being methodically destroyed.

FILIPINOS BUILD UP AN ARSENAL BY KILLING JAPS

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

WITH THE GUERRILLAS ON SAMAR ISLAND, P. I., Nov. 21.—The Samar guerrillas wasted no time when, just before the invasion of Leyte, Gen. MacArthur broadcast that the time to strike had arrived. Take the town of Borongan for instance!

Borongan is a village of about 4,000 inhabitants, midway up the eastern Samar coast. It had been occupied spasmodically by the Japs. At the time of the invasion the enemy garrison numbered 40.

In October the Borongan guerrillas had 15 rifles. Five of those were homemade affairs fashioned from gas pipes. The other 10 were Lee Enfields of the last war. They also had six grenades they had saved for a year.

Kill Five Japs.

They scoured the country for guns but found none. However, they did waylay a Jap patrol of five infantrymen and by killing them increased Borongan's arsenal.

On Oct. 31 the Jap garrison burned a large former military school the enemy had used as a barracks and moved into a large house in town. Borongan's guerrillas decided they had to act at once.

They surrounded the house. Whenever a Jap appeared in a window they fired. Three times the guerrillas crept up to the house and tossed in grenades. Only three grenades were allotted to the attack. The guerrillas thought they might have to fight later and they didn't want to be caught without munitions. Time and again their homemade shells didn't fire. Occasionally a gun blew up.

Kill 12 Inside House.

Thru the night the guerrillas continued sniping. At dawn they closed upon the house. They met no response. In the house they found 12 bodies.

Behind the house they found tracks where the other 28 had fled to the beach during the night.

Two guerrilla officers—one a colonel and the other a major—smiled happily.

"Good," they said. "Now we can get them one by one when they come into the woods."

WATER BUFFALO CARRY THE MAIL TO LEYTE YANKS

Christmas Packages Are Arriving.

BY WALTER SIMMONS.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LEYTE ISLAND, P. I., Nov. 21.—Over roads made bottomless by rain, two ack-ack gunners rode native water buffalo into town today and calmly loped into the island's army postoffice.

"We have come for our battery's mail," they announced.

They got it, of course. Lashing it to one beast, they climbed upon the other and went happily on their way. The mail was going thru, regardless of the weather.

16 Days for Mail.

Three midwest soldiers assigned to the army postal service related this story as illustrative of the esteem in which mail from home is held. The men are Privates Raymond Petrie, 1121 Schubert av., Chicago; Alfred Miller of Decatur, Ill., and Francis Canney, Antigo, Wis.

Air mail from the midwest states now requires about 16 days to reach fighters in the Philippines. This is expected to be cut to 10 days when more direct routes are fully set up. Many letters already have made faster time. Sgt. Jack Kenna of San Francisco, Cal., chief clerk of the army postoffice here, received one in a record five days.

Christmas Parcels Arrive.

Registered Christmas parcels already have started arriving, and ordinary gift packages are on ships waiting to be unloaded.

Mail out of the Philippines now runs to an average of 100 bags daily. But that isn't all the soldiers send home.

Sgt. Hilbert Borschke of 1433 N. Wolcott av., money order clerk, was frantically busy at his window.

"Twenty thousand dollars has been our biggest day," he said, "but the guys haven't been paid yet. I hate to think of the end of the month when they draw two months' pay. I'll have a line here a mile long."

Yank Battles Hand to Hand with Monkey

LEYTE, P. I., Nov. 21 (AP).—Rifle in one hand, telephone in the other, Corp. Mills H. Stephens, from Raleigh, N. C., called his command post from a water filled foxhole south of Ormoc: "There's something outside my hole. . . ." The sound of a scuffle came over the phone. "Something hit me on the shoulder. I grappled with it, then it jumped off," Stephens resumed. "I knew it was too fast for a Jap, and I took another look. It was a monkey."

JAP DEATHS IN MARIANAS AND PALAUS 63,338

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Nov. 21 (AP). — American troops cleaning up the Marianas and Palau Islands have increased Japanese deaths in those areas to a grand total of 63,338.

A bulletin by Adm. Nimitz today covering Japanese casualties thru Nov. 13 reported that 3,267 prisoners had been captured.

The figures disclosed that 6,962 Japanese have been killed since the last officially reported totals, released Oct. 11.

In the same period, American troops have captured an additional 1,857 prisoners.

BERLIN REPORTS NEW RED DRIVE ON CZECH LINE

LONDON, Nov. 21 (AP).—A new Russian offensive in Czechoslovakia and northeast Hungary has torn several holes in the German defenses while a strong drive in southwest Latvia ripped for the third day into the Nazis pocketed around Ventspils and Liepaja, Berlin reported tonight.

Moscow ignored both sectors, the night Russian war bulletin telling only of a small gain in a line straightening operation west of Eger in northeast Hungary and the virtual clearance of the Baltic Island of Saare. The Germans said the new Red drive in the south was between Ungvar and Tokaj.

Five towns were captured in Hungary, the principal one being the railway station of Verpelet, eight miles southwest of Eger, the soviet announcement said.

It said nothing of the continuing siege of Budapest from points south and southeast of the Hungarian capital, and said there were no changes on any other fronts except in the narrow southern peninsula of Saare [Osel] Island, covering the entrance to the gulf of Riga.

There the sudden Russian attack took 18 populated places and compressed the isolated enemy into a "vest pocket 4½ miles deep which is being shelled from all points, Moscow announced. The Germans admitted withdrawing to the southwest tip of the island.

German broadcasters said the Russians had ripped thru the Nazi defenses above Vainode, 35 miles southeast of Liepaja and that "medium strength" soviet forces were being used in the drive on Liepaja and Ventspils, 70 miles north of Liepaja.

Hint New Battles Expected.

Unofficial Moscow dispatches intimated that new battles might soon be expected on the stalemated fronts in East Prussia and around Warsaw.

While Moscow said nothing of the drive southwest of Ungvar, the Romanian war bulletin gave some confirmation to the German reports by announcing that fighting in northeast Hungary west of Tokaj was going on "with undiminished violence," with soviet and Romanian troops on the offensive.

The Germans said the strength of the attacking forces was seven to eight divisions and that infantry supported by armor had succeeded in making several holes in German defenses between the Ung and Latorica rivers.

54 NATIONS TURN TO LAST TASKS IN AIRWAY PARLEY

The international civil aviation conference moved rapidly yesterday toward completion of the work it hopes to accomplish here, altho there were indications that some of the knotty problems which have divided the meeting for more than 20 days may be by-passed and left for future consideration.

A preliminary draft of a permanent world aviation organization, submitted Monday night by the United States, Canada, and Great Britain, left unanswered two major questions which have puzzled delegations of the 54 allied and neutral countries since the conference began.

These are whether aircraft of all nations shall be allowed complete freedom to fly any place in the world, and whether there shall be any restriction on traffic, thru quotas or other formulas, so that a dominant air power such as America will be forced to share her international air traffic with carriers from other countries.

The tri-partite document is expected to be submitted to a plenary session of three conference committees at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

UNRRA Asks Volunteers from 'WACs' of Britain

SUPER FORTS DOWN 20 JAP PLANES IN RAID ON OMURA FACTORIES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21 (AP).—American B-29 Super Fortresses engaged in their first big air battle over Japan today as they bombed Omura, giant aircraft center, for the third time in less than a month.

At least 20 enemy planes were certainly shot down, 16 others probably destroyed, and an additional 19 damaged in the fighting. A bulletin from 20th air force headquarters said it was too early to report on American losses, since there had not been time for all planes to complete the flight.

[Imperial Japanese headquarters asserted today that 63 Super Fortresses were shot down or damaged over Kyushu and China, while returning from western Kyushu Tuesday. The Japanese said two of their planes failed to return. None of the Jap claims met any confirmation in allied quarters.]

While one B-29 task force carried out this strike, others hit warehouse and transportation facilities at the enemy-held Chinese cities of Shanghai and Nanking.

Hunt for Two Who Fled State Training School

Two young men who escaped from the Illinois State Training school near St. Charles were being sought last night. They are Harry Kelly, 17, of Memphis, Tenn., who was committed from Mercer county 11 months ago for automobile theft, and Frank Farkas, 16, of 557 E. 92d pl., who was committed two months ago for burglary. They scaled a door grating in a cottage, Richard Eddy, managing officer, said.

Doctor Fined for Driving to His Club to Play Golf

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 21.—A Brighton court today fined Dr. Geoffrey Garland $40 after he was found guilty of misusing gasoline by driving four miles from his home to play golf on two Sundays in September. Garland admitted playing golf, but said he went to the club to treat the professional for boils on his neck. The professional testified he gave the doctor three golf balls as his fee.

He suffered fractures of both legs and the right arm in the crash and was flown here in 57 hours.

MARINES TEACH MUSIC; IT'S O. K. WITH PETRILLO

New Orleans, La., Nov. 21 [Special].—James Ceasar Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, today repudiated a letter reportedly sent under his name to marine corps headquarters in Washington protesting against marine corps band members giving music lessons in their off hours.

Petrillo, who is attending the American Federation of Labor convention here, said his union has no regulations prohibiting marine corps members from teaching. He said the international union office had received a complaint from a local union and that the official who replied had probably sent a copy to the marine corps in the usual routine.

"It is possible that the marine corps misinterpreted the reply and may have construed the letter as a ban against teaching," he said. "There is no such ban."

A statement from marine corps headquarters in Washington said Petrillo's protest had been received and that a marine legal officer was drafting a reply.

DEMANDS PROBE ON SLUR AGAINST SAIPAN YANKS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21 (AP).—The house was asked today to investigate a Pacific battle after which one American general relieved another of his command.

Rep. Fay [D., N. Y.] introduced a resolution calling for the military affairs committee to make the investigation, particularly regarding activities of the 27th [New York National Guard] army division in the fight. He said reports had been circulated giving the false impression that the 27th lacked courage.

Fay said the incident he wants investigated occurred during the battle of Saipan in June and July, when Marine Lt. Gen. Holland M. Smith replaced Army Maj. Gen. Ralph Smith with another officer.

Fay's resolution directs the military committee to determine "the extent to which, and the circumstances under which, false or misleading reports have been published and circulated."

JAP PURPOSE IN CHINA IS SEIZING U. S. AIR FIELDS

Intend to Hold Gains, Says Col. Lanza.

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA.

Since mid-September, there have been important political and military changes in China. The political events developed first. They were caused by the military situation.

China has been at war with Japan since July, 1937. At that date the Communist party wanted a war with Japan. They had a sure plan by which the Japs could be defeated in next to no time. They were going to retreat to the hills. The Japs were to rush after them. Then trained Communist troops, hidden in the hills, would dash down and exterminate the Japs. The only thing wrong with this plan was that it wouldn't work.

Ever since, the war has been dragging in China. According to their own figures, the Chinese armies outnumber the Japs at least 4 to 1. Part of several millions of Chinese troops have at times defended places which the Japanese attacked. Not every time, but usually, the Chinese were badly beaten. In seven years, China has not staged a real campaign to drive the Japs out.

Keep China Going.

For the last five years the Japs on their part have not done much to occupy additional areas. They were content to hold the key points which they had seized during the first two years of the war. They believed that in time the government of Chiang Kai-Shek at Chungking would fall thru economic pressure.

Due to support by the United States, and Great Britain particularly, in furnishing lend lease supplies, the Chungking government has been kept going. The allies appear to have had a vague hope, that if arms and ammunition were furnished, China would attack Japan. Should this occur, the task of the allies in the Pacific would be lightened, due to Japan's necessity for maintaining large armies in China. However, nothing happened. Except in the few places where the Japs took to the war path, China was peaceful.

Late in August Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley and Donald M. Nelson were sent from Washington to Chungking. What they said to the generalissimo hasn't been made public. According to American correspondents at Chungking, they read the riot act, and threatened to stop lease-lend supplies, unless China undertook real fighting against the Japanese. They suggested an American general to lead the Chinese armies, and naturally proposed Gen. Stilwell.

Japs on War Path.

Most Chinese are anti-foreign. They have a strong dislike of even appearing to accept foreign advice. It is easy to see that regardless of its being fully justified, the American proposition would antagonize many Chinese. The few reports available indicate that there were several hot sessions. The outcome was the relief of Gen. Stilwell.

Charges and counter-charges have been made concerning this incident. Stilwell, a four star general, has been replaced by a two star general.

The reduction in rank of the American commander may indicate that there is not much hope of obtaining a large Chinese army which would seriously menace the Japanese.

The Japanese have been on the war path this year. Their mission has been to destroy the air bases of the 14th American air force. This is the one military command in China which is aggressive and unusually successful. It has caused the Japanese heavy losses on land and at sea. It is easy to understand why the Japanese have undertaken a major effort to capture the fields from which the American planes flew, and drive them back into the interior of China.

Capture U. S. Air Fields.

One Japanese campaign started last May and went southwest thru Hunan, following the Siang and Kwei rivers which flow thru fertile valleys. The second Japanese campaign started in June, and went west up the Si [west] river from Kwantung. On Nov. 10, two Jap main forces got together in Kwangsi by capturing on the same day Liuchow and Kweilin. These two Chinese cities were the last places left in this part of China where the 14th air force had fields.

Seeing it was about to fall, the Kweilin field was abandoned a month ago. But Liuchow, doing the work of six fields, has been an extremely busy airport until just a few days before it fell.

It must be admitted that the Japs have scored a success. The American planes were not lost. But they had to fly off in a direction away from Japan.

Build Hard Roads.

The total Japanese advance in six months of good summer weather has been 500 miles for the north column, and 250 for the south column, which only used five months. No one knows whether the Japs intend to keep on going. The next presumable objective beyond Liuchow is Kweiyang, 250 miles away. From that place it is another 250 miles either to Chungking, which lies to the north; or under 300 miles to the Burma road near Kunming to the southwest.

The Japs are building hard surfaced roads behind their advance. This gives the impression that they certainly intend to hold on to what they have captured. If they do propose to go ahead they may not do so immediately. They may wait, maybe until spring.

CARRIER PILOTS FIND ONLY GHOST SHIPS AT MANILA

100 Vessels Sunk or Listing in Bay.

ABOARD U. S. CARRIER FLAGSHIP OFF LUZON ISLAND, Nov. 19 [delayed]—(AP).—A ghost fleet of 100 war crippled Japanese ships rests in the waters of Manila bay.

Carrier pilots sweeping over the crowded harbor today found few targets worth bombing. Most of the ships were small craft already strafed into uselessness by repeated United States carrier attacks.

"The inner harbor is pretty much of a wreck," said Lt. David Caldwell of Kailu, Oahu. "The ships are all down by the stern or bow, all the way down, or listing."

Attacking pilots found at least three usable ships and added them to the wreckage.

Hit Floating Drydock.

Ensign J. H. Morey, Leominster, Mass., and Ensign Richard Reynolds, Royal Oak, Mich., poured new bombs into a previously damaged floating drydock between Cavite naval base and Manila.

Dive bomber Lt. [j. g.] W. J. Enis, Jackson Heights, N. Y., returned undamaged—for a change—after bombing and strafing a small cargo ship. In the last three times out on raids on Luzon Island, the 21 year old pilot has been forced to land on the water twice and crash land on the deck once as a result of anti-aircraft hits.

Twenty-six Japanese planes were shot down during the day, eight of them around the carrier force.

Carry Their Bombs Back.

The last of the Japanese raiders attacking this sea force headed back to Luzon, still carrying their bombs.

The Japanese threw their heaviest raid at the 3d fleet late in the day. Destroyers in the outer screen knocked off four. Air patrols got eight. A few flew within range of the heavy anti-aircraft fire of carriers and battleships, which apparently chased them away.

Lt. [j.g.] John G. Mycilwee, Brookline, Mass., who shot down one, later joined an attack against Batangas field south of Manila. Returning to the carrier, the flyer strafed five luggers loaded with oil. Mycilwee said all five blew up.

Indianan's Plane Hit.

Ensign Robert L. Heck, Indianapolis, Ind., had a close squeak. A 5-inch shell pierced his fighter's fuselage and wing, but didn't explode.

"It was a lucky dud," he said.

The blockade of Japan has begun, Vice Adm. John S. McCain said today. The commander of this carrier task force said, "We are constructing in the waters around Japan a partial blockade."

McCain declined, of course, to say whether future strategy called for a complete blockade of Nippon's home islands. He said, however, that his carriers can "go anywhere in the world."

ESCORT VESSEL BUILT IN CHICAGO SINKS NAZI SUB

A Chicago-built patrol craft escort vessel launched by the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company in Lake Calumet harbor last year has been credited with sinking a German submarine while on convoy duty with the British navy, the company said yesterday. The ship is the H. M. S. Kilmarnock.

An account of her convoy experiences was given in a letter received by Pullman-Standard from the ship's commander.

"Since leaving Chicago H. M. S. Kilmarnock has done a good service," the British officer wrote. "We calculate to have steamed over 50,000 miles in the last year and to have convoyed many hundreds of merchant ships. We are allowed now to reveal the fact that we destroyed a U-boat last May. Details cannot, of course, be given."

LECCA, FUGITIVE ROMANIAN FOE OF JEWS, SEIZED

Recaptured in Home of Chauffeur.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Romania, Nov. 20 [Delayed].—Radu Lecca, Romania's chief anti-Semitic and rated as a war criminal, who had escaped his guard last Saturday, was recaptured last night in his chauffeur's house, it was announced today.

Lecca was Premier Marshal Antonescu's commissar for Jewish questions and worked closely with the Gestapo. Until Saturday, he had been under arrest while a Bucharest court investigated irregularities in his administration of Jewish affairs. He was alleged to have amassed a huge fortune by selling exemption from compulsory labor and other oppressive measures to Jews.

Eludes Guard at Tavern.

While being returned to prison after questioning, Lecca persuaded his guard to visit a tavern for lunch. After a few drinks, he excused himself to go to the washroom but walked out a rear door, leaving the guard holding his hat and coat. Complicity of the guard in the escape was said to have been established.

Last night, acting on a tip, the police caught Lecca hiding in his chauffeur's house in a poor district of Bucharest.

Among items found when police searched Lecca's home were several hundred visiting cards from prominent Germans and Romanian Fascists, all thanking Lecca for presents. Typical examples: "Thanks for the 10 kilograms of butter." "Thanks for the five bottles of French perfume." "Thanks for the fine caviar."

Convicted as Nazi Agent.

Ten years ago Lecca was convicted as a German agent in Paris. After his return here he became a high official of Romania's secret police. Later, with the support of Baron Manfred von Killinger, German minister here, Lecca was made chief of all Jewish affairs. He quickly became rich.

Lecca was so hated for his brutalities that he was beaten in Vacaresti prison three weeks ago by fellow prisoners under the leadership of a Jew. As a result, Lecca was hospitalized and unable to undergo questioning for more than a week.

FIND CHICAGO RESIDENTS LEAD IN AIR TRAVEL

More Chicago citizens travel by air each year than do the residents of any other large city in the country, according to three surveys just completed by the civil aeronautics authority in Washington, D. C. Figures for 1939 show that one out of 138 Chicagoans was an air passenger, and in New York one out of 174 traveled by air.

Latest figures compiled by the air authority show that in 1941, 23,529 Chicagoans were air passengers, while 56,906 New Yorkers traveled by air. However, Chicago's population in 1940 was only 3,396,808, while New York's was 7,454,995.

From November, 1939, thru March, 1941, Chicago's air passengers numbered 85,430, while those who traveled by air out of New York numbered 176,409.

The surveys show that New York originated one air passenger for every 42 residents, and Chicago produced an air passenger for every 39 residents.

NELSON DRAWS DESK SPACE AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21 (AP).—President Roosevelt has awarded cabinet rank to Donald M. Nelson.

Donald M. Nelson.

The former WPB chairman moved his desk into the White House offices and assumed his duties as "personal representative" to the President before leaving on a second economic mission to China, it was disclosed today.

A Presidential letter informing Nelson of his new status, effective last September 20, was released by the White House after its import had been disclosed by the Associated Press.

"You will attend cabinet meetings," the letter said, "and are empowered to obtain such assistance as you may require from existing government agencies."

Nelson arrived in Chungking last week with a group of steel and alcohol experts to assist in revitalizing China's war production.

ITALIAN BATTLE BOGS IN SNOW, MUD, AND FOG

ROME, Nov. 21 (AP).—The Italian land campaign was bogged in the mud, snow, and fog of the Apennines and the lower Po valley today. Only a few minor engagements were reported.

American Havoc attack bombers attacked one of the few crossings of the Po river left to the Germans—a pontoon bridge near Ostiglia on the main road between Modena and Verona about 50 miles north of the front lines below Bologna. Planes cruised over the crossing all night, bombing occasionally and strafing enemy traffic moving over the bridge.

On both the 5th and 8th army fronts activity was confined mainly to patroling. Eighth army troops moved in after a strong artillery attack and took buildings at Zuccherificio, about two miles south of Ravenna. The Germans made an unsuccessful counter-attack on the American 5th army front along the Florence-Bologna highway south of Bologna near Pedere la Fabrio.

BETTER than ever THANKSGIVING FEAST at Ricketts CLARK AT DIVERSEY

SECOND GENERAL NOMINATED FOR CHAPLAIN CORPS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21 (AP).—The army chaplain corps will have two generals for the first time if nominations submitted today by President Roosevelt are approved by the senate.

Brig. Gen. William R. Arnold of Cleveland, O., chief of chaplains, was nominated to be a major general, and Col. George F. Rixey, who will be deputy to Arnold, was named for promotion to brigadier general. Chaplains never have been headed by a major general, and it took a special act of congress to permit this promotion.

Gen. Donovan Nominated.

Mr. Roosevelt also nominated Brig. Gen. William J. Donovan of the cavalry reserve, head of the office of strategic services, to be a major general; Maj. Gen. Wilhelm D. Styer of the engineers to be a lieutenant general, and David Sarnoff, colonel in the signal corps reserve and chairman of the board of the Radio Corporation of America, to be a brigadier general.

Officers from Chicago nominated for promotion are William H. Arnold, to major general, and Emil Lenzner, to brigadier general. Others from Chicagoland recommended for promotions are Russel B. Reynolds, Dundee, Mich., and Carl A. Hardigg, Evansville, Ind., to major general, and the following nine to brigadier general: William F. Campbell, Urbana, Ill.; Harold A. McGinnis, Jacksonville, Ill.; Lewis T. Ross and Ford L. Fair, both of Gary, Ind.; Robinson E. Duff, Wolcott, Ind.; Ralph J. Caine, Terre Haute, Ind.; Harry Baird, Neenah, Wis.; Morrill W. Marston, Ames, Ia., and Carroll A. Powell, Ann Arbor, Mich.

UP THRU RANKS.

Gen. Reynolds, who commands the army's 6th service command, with headquarters in Chicago, came up thru the ranks as a private in the Michigan National Guard, in which he enlisted in June, 1916. He was born in Dundee, Mich., is 49 years old, and prior to taking over his new post here Oct. 30 had been director of military personnel of all army service forces.

Gen. Lenzner, 45, attended the University of Chicago while preparing for his West Point examinations in 1920. His brother, James Lenzner, a glass merchant, lives at 4904 Magnolia av.

ARMY LETS JAPS BACK ON COAST, ANDERSON SAYS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21 (AP).—More than 800 Japanese have been allowed to return to their west coast homes by the western defense command, Rep. Anderson [R., Cal.] said today.

Under present war department policies, he explained, Japanese evacuees are allowed to return where mixed marriages are involved or where some member of the family is in military service, if loyalty to this country is proved.

While reiterating to reporters his opposition to the return of Japanese to the west coast, Anderson said that if military authorities permitted such returns, the American born Japanese were entitled to their "full rights" as citizens under the Constitution.

"I am afraid it is going to create a difficult situation," he said. "Sentiment is running high in California against the Japs."

Line Forms at Recruiting Office; Ends in Iceland.

BY FRANK CIPRIANI.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEEKS FIELD, Iceland, Nov. 21.—The boys here used to call themselves the F. B. I., but they don't any longer. To them F. B. I. meant the "Forgotten Boys of Iceland."

Now, under a rotation policy, they are eligible for home and duty elsewhere after 18 months, and every week sees a fresh batch of G. I. Joes saying farewell to this remote island base.

"We were pretty much alone at the start," said Corp. James Burns, 23, Boston, Mass., who has been in Iceland 19 months, and is now waiting to go home under the rotation system. He was seen coaching a Chicagoan, Staff Sgt. Elmer W. Fletcher, 24, of 4515 Magnolia av., on the ways and manners of Icelandic life. Fletcher has been here four months.

No Place Like Home.

"Those of us at the start had work to do besides our regular duties," Burns said. "It was seven days a week, but we didn't mind it. Food is good, and people are pleasant, but there's no place like home."

Sgt. Fletcher allowed that he wasn't unhappy to be in Iceland, but he wouldn't mind seeing Michigan avenue.

"It doesn't get real cold here," he said, "but I'd hotfoot it back to Chicago's zero any time. But not right now, really. We all feel we're needed here, and the people of Iceland are grand to us Joes."

Tech. Sgt. William V. Franklin of Louisville, Ky., has spent 15 months here and previously 12 months in Greenland. He prefers Greenland because of what he calls "its mystic beauty." All these boys are attached to the air transport command.

Chicagoan Here 16 Months.

Another Chicagoan here is Corp. Samuel Kadorian, 11824 Lowe av., formerly at Wesley hospital, who is on duty as a signal corps cameraman. He has been here 16 months, enjoys it, and wants his mother, Mrs. Peter Arakelian, to know he is well.

Among other Chicagoans are Pvt. Casper Weiland, 6348 S. Richmond st., who thinks Iceland is "pretty good"; Pvt. Edward Bohling, 10236 Avenue J, a cousin of Ald. Bohling [7th], and Sgt. Sylvester Malinski, 1832 Mohawk st.

The men live in barracks made of quonset huts, long, warm, and comfortable inside. Each barrack is cased in, to a height of three to four feet, with sandbags and rocks to hold it against the 100 mile gales which often sweep the base. Now and then one topples over, but not often.

Girls for Dancing.

Iceland is of volcanic origin, and boulders and stones litter the fields and camp. Highways in camp are covered with ice now, which makes footwork risky at night.

In the ATC camp—as well as in others—provision is made for entertainment by the special services. Reading material is most popular, with radio and movies next in order. G. I. bands do the musical honors at the dances supervised by the Red Cross girls, and pretty, blonde and friendly Icelandic girls are escorted in each dance night. The soldiers may not take them home. They come and go by bus in company of a driver and noncommissioned officer.

Post canteens supply many material wants at low prices. Cigarets of all popular brands are available at 5 cents a package, two to a customer.

Ball Games at Midnight.

The G. I. Joes have opportunity for outdoor sports such as skating, at this time, fishing and at times hunting. In the summer, when the sun is high, a popular outdoor sport is softball. Games often start at midnight, and run to seven innings before darkness interferes.

Winter probably is the more difficult season. The days are short now and in another month will total hot more than a few hours sunlight. Then the athletic must turn to indoor sports. At present, Staff Sgt. Everett Pierce of Stamford, Conn., a special services officer, said, there is a need for softballs and other light athletic equipment.

Those who save their "kronur," worth about 15 cents each, can travel by bus around the bay to Reykjavik. Inflation has hit Iceland, however, and desirable goods are relatively expensive.

Few "Unfortunate Incidents."

In general, the everyday soldier likes Iceland and its people. Each is a diplomat in town. There have been very few "unfortunate incidents," as one Icelander termed it. Discipline under Maj. Gen. William S. Key, in command of the Icelandic base command, and his subordinate executives is wisely strict, but tolerant. Thus all enlisted men exhibit a sense of freedom, but all within proper bounds of military formalities.

Food is constantly good, and each ship arriving means fresh vegetables at mess. Here is the menu for Thanksgiving dinner as prepared by Lt. Col. Henry Holsinger, supply officer:

Roast young turkey, sage dressing, snowflake potatoes, candied sweet potatoes, fresh asparagus, fresh kernel corn, giblet gravy, cranberry sauce, lettuce and tomato salad, Russian dressing, stuffed olives, hearts of celery, sweet mixed pickles, fresh butter, hot rolls, mince pie, pumpkin pie, ice cream with fresh strawberries, oranges, pears, coffee, tea, cocoa, mixed nuts, assorted candies, and cigarets.

CALLS FOR IRISH MILITARY PACT WITH ENGLAND

United Ireland Party's Chief Makes Plea.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

DUBLIN, Eire, Nov. 21. — Gen. Richard Mulcahy, opposition leader in the dail eireann, created a stir in political circles here today when he urged his United Ireland party to make the securing of a post-war defensive military agreement with Britain a new plank in the party's platform.

Eire's national security, Gen. Mulcahy told the annual party convention, "is inseparable from international coöperation. It is particularly inseparable from an agreement with our countrymen in six counties [Northern Ireland] and with the people of Great Britain."

Points to Modern Arms.

Pointing to the development of modern armaments, the general said: "Everything we have seen in this war should convince us that our security can only be planned in combination with some powerful ally or a combination of allies competent to shield us with their power and guarantee to our man power, in time of war, equipment such as weapons of defense as the evolution of war methods require and which we cannot hope to provide from our own resources."

He told how Eire's interests were closely entwined with those of Britain geographically, economically, socially, and politically. He said the security of Britain and Eire would be completely interdependent in any future war.

In considering joint defense arrangements with Britain, Mulcahy observed: "It will help us if we consider the extent to which both the United States and Great Britain have come to realize their mutual defense interests and how far they appear prepared to plan to secure them."

Expresses Misgivings.

Finally he asked the party delegates to consider whether a post-war defense agreement with Britain would not be the key to national security, unity and prosperity.

Altho Mulcahy was elected party president it was evident that the convention was none too comfortable about this new post-war policy.

Gen. Sean Maceoin who, like Gen. Mulcahy, won renown in the fight against the British, described his leader's speech as statesmanlike but expressed his misgivings. It was true, Maceoin said, that the policy might not get the political support it deserved. He said time would show that Mulcahy's policy would have to be followed if the country was to retain its freedom.

Britain Plans Yule Parties for Evacuated Children

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The ministry of health has sanctioned the expenditure of up to 20 cents a child to provide Christmas parties for 600,000 evacuated children, it was announced today. Cost of the parties is to be paid by boroughs from which the children originally were removed. The ministry of food has authorized extra rations of sugar, milk, margarine, and jam for children's parties.

Six Get Medals

Six heroes—five coast guardsmen and a sailor—were decorated yesterday at the Navy pier where the navy's sixth war loan exhibit, "Pacific Theater," is showing daily from noon to 10 p. m. free to the public.

Vice Admiral Randall Jacobs, chief of the navy bureau of personnel, decorated Raymond Woodcock, 19, Philadelphia, Pa., with the bronze star for heroism on the Normandy beach.

Vice Adm. Russell R. Waesche, commandant of the coast guard, pinned a silver star on Gene Oxley, 20, Indianapolis, Ind., who later was married to Connie Majors, 19, of Indianapolis, Ind.

Gustave A. Gehlert, 19, San Francisco, Cal., received the navy and marine corps medal for rescue work, and Raymond J. Macht, Waukesha, Wis., received the Purple Heart.

Coast guard silver life saving medals were awarded to Jules Friedman and Philip Rapiner, both of New York, for rescuing a navy flyer who last January crashed into Lake Michigan.

Today will be women's services day at the "Pacific Theater," and a demonstration of aerial evacuation of war wounded also will be held in Treasury center, 72 W. Adams st.

TWO LAME DUCKS TO HANDLE HUGE WAR SURPLUSES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21 (AP).—President Roosevelt set in motion today machinery for the disposal of 100 billion dollars of surplus war properties under a three member board headed by Robert A. Hurley, former Connecticut governor who was defeated Nov. 7 in a race against Republican Gov. Baldwin.

The President sent the nomination of Hurley and Lt. Col. Edward Heller of San Francisco to the senate shortly after it recessed for the day but held up the expected nomination of Sen. Gillette [D., Ia.] until the end of the year.

Senate attaches said no member could be appointed during the life of his term to an office created by legislation passed during his membership. Gillette was defeated for reëlection by Gov. Bourke Hickenlooper, Republican.

It will be the board's duty to direct the disposition of property and goods declared surplus by the war and navy departments and other government agencies.

The prospective selection of Gillette, often a critic of the administration and once, in 1938, reëlected to the senate after being placed on the White House "purge" list, drew the approval of Democratic and Republican senators alike.

He ran Nov. 7 with President Roosevelt's blessings.

GREEK JOY OVER FREEDOM STILL A DAY LONG AFFAIR

live—the year when thousands of Greeks first tasted of steel whips in concentration camps, such as grim Haedare on the outskirts of the city, or died under the rifles of firing squads as the Germans taught the ways of the new order. That was the year in which the cemeteries of the city began to overflow.

Greeks Show Their Gratitude.

Probably it is the memory of those months when horror was greatest that makes the Greeks, unlike the often sullen and defiant Italians, so honestly grateful to the allied forces which have set them free. Altho some of the early demonstrative spirit fortunately has worn off, and a Briton or American can no longer run much danger of being kissed every time he steps into the street, he still is treated with almost unbelievable courtesy.

I had not walked 100 yards on my first stroll thru Athens before a cafe owner hurried out to invite me for coffee. When I returned to my hotel I found a dentist who had returned to Greece after many years in the United States awaiting me. He was Dr. Anthony Blase, educated at Northwestern University and a dentist in the Masonic Temple building in the loop until 1923. An American soldier in World War I., he now commands the Athens American Legion post. Hearing a correspondent for THE TRIBUNE was in town, he had dropped in to see me. His brother, Nickolas, lives at 3038 Wentworth av.

Greeks Extremely Courteous.

Courtesy reached unbelievable proportions when I visited Undersecretary of Finance Angelopoulos. The elevator leaving for his office was filled when I arrived, but three men promptly stepped out to give me their places. Upstairs, Angelopoulos' secretary took one look at my uniform, then hurried me into his private office.

At least 20 elderly, well dressed men sat there, conferring with him, but they promptly were ushered out to wait so I could carry on my certainly unimportant business. I asked Angelopoulos who they were.

"Oh, they are all bank presidents," he replied. "I can finish with them later. Now, what can I do for you, young sir?"

CHURCHILL PUTS SON-IN-LAW IN BRITISH CABINET

LONDON, Nov. 21 (AP). — Prime Minister Churchill tonight placed responsibility for rehousing Britain's bombed-out population on the shoulders of his son-in-law, Duncan Sandys. He announced the king had approved the appointment of Sandys to succeed Minister of Works Portal, whose resignation Churchill requested and received.

"I have come to the conclusion that the office of minister of works must at this juncture be held by a minister in the house of commons," Churchill said in a letter to Portal.

"The housing situation in regard to prefabricated dwellings and bomb damage repairs is so important that the house will require to have necessary statements and explanations made to them by a minister in their midst who is actually responsible for having the work done."

BRITISH FORCED TO WITHDRAW IN BURMA FIGHTING

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, Nov. 21 (AP).—British troops driving southward along the Myitkyina-Mandalay railway on the right flank of the allied Burma offensive to clear a land route to China have been forced to withdraw slightly, Adm. Mountbatten's command announced today.

The withdrawal was made by the British 36th division after a day of heavy fighting north of Pinwe, which is eight miles south of captured Mawlu and seven miles above Naba junction, next important goal in this sector.

On the left wing of the allied drive, Chinese troops in heavy fighting repulsed a counter-attack in the southern sector of encircled Bhamo.

DEMOCRATS ACT TO BALK QUIZ ON PEARL HARBOR

Barkley Leads Fight on Ferguson's Plan.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—The proposal of Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] for a searching senate investigation of the Pearl Harbor disaster ran into Democratic opposition immediately after it was introduced today.

Majority Leader Barkley [D., Ky.] warned that public attention should not be diverted from the war, altho he insisted he is anxious to find out what happened at Pearl Harbor.

Sen. Hatch [D., N. M.] voiced opposition to any investigation "which might inpede the war effort."

Indicating unwillingness to wait longer for the army and navy to make public the results of their investigations ordered by congress but still secret, Ferguson called today for a 10 man committee of congress to make a separate inquiry, that the American public may know what happened at Pearl Harbor and who is responsible.

State Their Objections.

Ferguson's suggestion that his resolution be referred to the senate judiciary committee, which has already approved his resolution to extend the statute of limitations on the court martial trials of the Pearl Harbor commanders, brought Barkley and Hatch to their feet.

Barkley said the investigation proposal should go either to the military affairs or naval affairs committee or to both, and then he and Hatch began stating objections to the inquiry.

After professing his interest in finding out what happened at Pearl Harbor, Barkley said:

"I think it would be unfortunate if public attention should be diverted from the great task which the country faces now of winning the war by super-imposing on that task the effort to obtain by an investigation of the senate or by joint investigation the facts with respect to what occurred at Pearl Harbor, which cannot be changed. Certainly, it is more important now to win the war than it is to find out what happened at Pearl Harbor."

Too Many Investigations.

Barkley then complained that investigations in general are taking too much of the senate's time, and pleaded that a least the institution of another inquiry be deferred until the new congress convenes Jan. 3. He is "hesitant," he said, about giving his approval to another investigation.

Hatch asserted he wants all the facts on Pearl Harbor, and expressed the belief they can be obtained only by a congressional investigation, but said he was "not at all sure" he would support the Ferguson resolution.

Goes to Military Group.

The resolution was finally assigned to the military affairs committee.

The administration has consistently opposed a public investigation of the Pearl Harbor catastrophe. Its critics have charged that such an inquiry or court martial trials would place the blame upon the administration and exonerate the Pearl Harbor commanders, Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short.

The congressional extension of the time in which the commanders may be tried will expire Dec. 7, but prompt action is expected upon the proposed new six months extension.

"Now that they've made a pet of him it looks like we'll have pot roast for Thanksgiving after all."

AIRCRAFT PLANT OUTPUT LAGGING; NEEDS WORKERS

BY CHARLES BALLENGER.

As dusk gathered over an army flying field just behind the front lines in France, a sweaty, tired bunch of soldiers finished unloading the huge C-54 transport plane. Immediately a group of medical corpsmen began reloading the plane—but this time its cargo was seriously wounded American soldiers waiting to be flown home for medical treatment.

Four days later the wounded men were resting in the Gardiner General hospital in Chicago.

This scene was described in a letter from a soldier received recently by officials of the Douglas aircraft plant, Higgins and Mannheim rds., designers and builders of the four engined transport.

C-54 Is a Life Saver.

"The importance of this plane, the only long range transport plane available, in the war cannot be stressed enough," Lt. Col. A. R. Holladay, plant representative for the army air forces, said. "Not only does it fly all kinds of equipment to battlefronts, but many a gravely wounded soldier owes his life to speedy air evacuation in a C-54."

The bombing of Japan by the B-29 bomber would be impossible if it were not for the C-54, which hauls bombs, spare parts, and personnel to the inaccessible bases from which the big bombers operate, Col. Holladay pointed out. Army air chiefs, he said, have declared that increased production of this cargo plane is more important than almost any phase of war production for the air forces.

Behind in Contract Schedule.

A shortage of man power, however, has forced the Douglas plant to drop far behind its contract schedules, John C. Buckwalter, plant manager, said yesterday. The accelerated schedule demanded by the army and navy, he said, calls for almost three times as many planes as the plant now is producing.

The company will hire any one possessing mechanical skill and will teach them the aircraft business. At least 1,200 workers are necessary for the plant to maintain full production.

Douglas wages vary from 80 cents to $1.65 an hour as the base rate. The company operates a merit plan of wage increases based on the employes' individual skill.

Altho the plant is far outside the city, transportation to and from work is relatively easy, with 92 per cent of the workers participating in a share the ride program. Employes are represented by a national union, membership in which is not compulsory.

LT. J. S. LAMSON DEAD IN FRANCE, PARENTS LEARN

SECOND LT. JOHN S. LAMSON, 23, of 108 N. Garfield av., Hinsdale, was killed in action in France Nov. 10, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Lamson, were advised yesterday by the war department. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Doney, 3433 S. Western av., were notified by the war department yesterday that Pvt. Doney had been awarded the Purple Heart.

MEMORIAL mass for Pvt. Daniel R. Ferguson, 33, will be celebrated at 9:30 a. m. Saturday in St. Bonaventure's church. He died in France on Oct. 20 of wounds received in infantry action at Aachen. Pvt. Ferguson, a graduate of Lane Technical High school, was an employe of the Chicago bureau of streets before joining the army in 1943. He is survived by his widow, Lorraine, 1419 Wolfram st.; a son, Thomas, 22 months old; his mother, Mrs. Mary Ferguson, 2757 Clybourn av.; and two sisters.

Toll of Raid on Manila Increased to 126 Planes

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Nov. 21 (AP).—American carrier based planes destroyed 126 Japanese aircraft Saturday in attacks on Manila, said a bulletin today from Adm. Nimitz's headquarters. The revised figures were issued on the basis of new reports from Vice Adm. J. S. McCain's task force. Earlier figures had set the Japanese losses at 118 planes.

MRS. ASTOR O.K.'S RUSSIA; REDS OF ENGLAND? UGH!

Wouldn't Be Caught Dead with One.

LONDON, Nov. 21 (AP). — Mrs. Nancy Astor spoke her first public words of praise for Russia today, but added: "I wouldn't be caught dead with a British Communist."

"Communism in Russia has taught the people to read," she told a press conference commemorating her 25 years in the house of commons.

"A people can't think or reach God until they learn to read. I don't dislike Russian communism. It has changed the European policy of keeping the people poor and ignorant—look at Spain and Italy."

Red Freedom "All Tommyrot."

She said France is not a great country—"not even the French believe that, but we will give them a chance to become great." Nor, she added, is Russia a free nation—"that's all tommyrot."

The former Nancy Langhorne of Virginia, wife of a British peer and first woman to sit in parliament, acknowledged there was a Cliveden set which met her at Plymouth estate, Cliveden, now a Canadian hospital. She said it might be revived after the war.

"The Cliveden set was a round table, where women met members of parliament to discuss problems," she said. "It was a political circle that Lord Beaverbrook couldn't get in."

The Cliveden meetings once were widely described as favoring appeasement, but Mrs. Astor called them "really constructive; they caused thinking."

Her Policy: Tie to U. S.

After asserting that her entire foreign policy was to draw Britain and America closer together, Mrs. Astor said she did not favor an easy peace for Germany but hoped that all Germans would not be considered Nazis.

"We have been casting our pearls of democracy and equality before swine," she said. "Europe needs a reformation, it needs a salvation army more than any other kind of army."

PLANE BUILDER SAYS CAA HOLDS FATE OF 'CUBS'

More lenient civil aeronautics administration regulations applying to the private plane owner will be necessary before the "flivver" plane can be as popular a means of family transportation as is the automobile, W. T. Piper, president of an airplane manufacturing company bearing his name, said last night in a talk before an employes' forum at Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Piper said that the aviation industry suggests the post-war creation of 2,900 small airports for cub type planes. "A good sod field with a windsock, along a town's main street, will be adequate," he said.

Enthusiasm for the helicopter is premature, he said. He predicted that the craft will not be practical for at least 15 years, and said helicopters now are too expensive for the average purse and too difficult to operate.

GIRL USING HAIR DRYER IN BEAUTY SHOP IS ROBBED

Miss Sophie Bernstein, 18, of 1660 S. Harding av., was robbed of a diamond engagement ring valued at $750 and her wristwatch, worth $40, last night as she sat under a hair dryer in a beauty shop at 3844 W. 16th st., Fillmore st. police reported. Miss Bernstein and her sister, Charlotte, 13, were alone in that section of the shop when the armed robber walked in the door. Charlotte ran to the back room, where Mrs. Margaret Davis, the owner, was assisting another customer, Miss Faye Hoffman of 1535 S. Hamlin av., and informed them of the robbery. Mrs. Davis and Miss Hoffman ran out the back door, followed by the hoodlum, who, they told police, yelled at them to make no outcry or he would kill them. He then disappeared.

COL. M'CORMICK URGES CONTROL OF G.O.P. BY WEST

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 21 [Special]—Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE said in an interview here today that "the west, which created the Republican party, must regain control of it and then it can come back into power."

To the question, "What do you think of the recent election in the United States," asked by the Montreal Gazette, Col. McCormick replied:

"Dewey was a very weak nominee. That is not shown by his being defeated, but by the fact that he ran behind practically every other Republican candidate who was elected and when they were defeated he was defeated by a larger majority.

Only One New Yorker Elected.

"There has never been but one Republican nominee from New York elected, and that was Theodore Roosevelt. He was first elected as Vice President and then had the whole power of office for reëlection. The same is true of Coolidge. The Republicans who have been elected President were not from New York. Lincoln and Grant from Illinois, Garfield and Hayes from Ohio, Harrison from Indiana and Harding from Ohio. Hughes, Willkie, and Dewey from New York were all defeated.

"The explanation is plain that the New York point of view is not the national point of view. New York with its great banks, trading companies, brokerage houses, and the headquarters of a very large preponderance of the industries has much power in the Republican national convention but very little influence with the American voters.

G. O. P. Always Nationalist.

"The Republican party has always been the nationalist party. The early movers for secession in New England and New York were federalists. The secession of the south was Democratic.

"If Dewey had been elected at all he would have had to run as a nationalist, instead of which he took Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policy and a good many of his domestic policies and left the issue between youth and inexperience and age and experience.

"I do not think a lot of the people who were active in getting the nomination for him wanted him elected, any more than they wanted Willkie four years before. The Republican party is cohesive, constructive.

Minorities Support F. D. R.

"Mr. Roosevelt has shown great political acumen in bringing to his support many minorities with special interests — the south which wants to retain the committee chairmanships in a congress which is anti-Negro and has strong feelings about property rights. He also has the northern Negroes and the Communists—and the big city machines.

"The Republican party must be rescued from the domination of the big New York banks and the corporation heads whose interests are as much adverse as they are in parallel with the rest of the country. The west, which created the Republican party, must regain control of it and then it can come back into power."

CURB RUSSIA, APPLY ATLANTIC CHARTER TO POLAND, LEADER ASKS

The principles of the Atlantic Charter should be made to apply to all our allies, and there is no reason one ally should profit at the expense of another as Russia is doing in her unilateral settlement of the Polish territorial question, Charles Rozmarek, president of the Polish American congress, asserted yesterday.

In a public statement which he said reiterated the position taken by his organization at its national convention in Buffalo, N. Y., last August, Rozmarek, who lives at 4019 Wellington av., declared that America's best interests lie in dissuading Russia from her present policies of aggression.

LEMME SHOW YOU HOW TO MAKE AN OMELETTE

YOU, TOO, CAN BE AN EGGS-PERT!

Bud Bowman

FIRST, TAKE A BOWMAN EGG—take two, as a matter of fact, for each person. Take three if they're as crazy about the flavor of Bowman Eggs as I am! They're the best-tasting eggs! Anyway . . .

FOR A FANCY PUFFY OMELETTE, separate the eggs—yolks in one bowl, whites in another. For each egg, add a tablespoon of cream to the yolks, a shake of salt and pepper, and beat until they're light colored. Then beat whites separately until they stand in peaks. (And while you're at it, notice how much fluff you get from big, delicious Bowman Eggs!)

FOLD 'EM ALL TOGETHER—don't stir!—just fold . . . and pour into the frying pan in which you've melted a little precious Bowman Butter. Cook gently over a low flame until the fluff is well set and the underside a golden brown. Move to broiler, and let the top brown lightly.

THEN EAT! With strawberry preserves or melted cheese! Fresh-tasting Bowman Eggs sure make a tasty omelette, 'cause they're examined for freshness the very day before delivery to your door. It's easy to see why Bowman milkmen stop at so many Chicagoland homes . . . with Bowman Eggs as well as other Bowman products.

Piece of a German Shell 'Demotes' Major General

SIXTH ARMORED DIVISION COMMAND POST, France, Nov. 21 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Robert W. Grow of the sixth armored division, was "demoted" in a split second yesterday. German mortar fragment sliced one of the two silver stars from his helmet, leaving him looking like a brigadier. Another splinter creased his helmet. The general was unhurt.

Bishop of London May Be Archbishop of Canterbury

LONDON, Nov. 21 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill soon will recommend to the king a successor to the archbishop of Canterbury. London speculated today that the new primate would be the Rt. Rev. Geoffrey Francis Fisher, now bishop of London. Others mentioned are the archbishop of York and the Bishops of Winchester and Chichester.

BEER CONTAINING FLUORINE SEIZED BY FOOD BUREAU

Boston, Mass., Nov. 21 (AP).—Andrew W. Allison, chief chemist of the food and drug bureau, said today that thousands of cases of beer and ale are being seized and destroyed as "unsafe" in various parts of the country.

Allison said the beverages were manufactured by the Commonwealth Brewing company of Springfield, Mass., and were found to contain fluorine, a member of the chlorine family, which is "in itself poisonous, depending upon the amount used."

In Springfield, Thomas F. Gallagher, president of the brewery concern, said that production of beer had been halted when word of the government action was received, and was resumed later with a modified formula.

The seized brands were listed as Oxford brand ale and beer, Gold Medal Tivoli beer, Dartmouth Creak ale, New England ale, and Bay State beer.

HERE'S HISTORY UNDER A MICROSCOPE

Miss Hodder

A history of everything in five volumes! That's the assignment Will Durant, author and philosopher, pledged himself to carry out. He has just published the third in this ambitious series, entitled "Caesar and Christ" ($5.00). It's a big book, giving a minutely detailed account of third century Rome, and describing with photographic clarity the architecture, literature, language and customs. Miss Hodder, manager of the Palmer House Book Shop, says you won't want to miss a syllable of this book, because the author gives almost poetic beauty to cold, historical facts.

Another book that's going to get itself talked about is Erskine Caldwell's "Tragic Ground" ($2.50). The poor, ignorant peasant, Spence Douthitt, is a pathetic but compelling figure as he wanders aimlessly through the pages—completely unable to understand the forces which bring his narrow little world crashing around him. This is stark realism stuff, but a "must" for Caldwell fans.

Then there's the personal war front "diary" we've all been waiting for—"Your Kids and Mine" ($2.00) by actor-comedian Joe E. Brown. Many fine books have been written by entertainers who visited the battle areas, but the lovable Joe seems to have injected into his writing a greater sensitivity, a more inspiring message, than did his colleagues. Perhaps this is because he talked with our kids, not as a celebrity, but as a father who had lost a son in this war.

Be sure to see these books at the Palmer House Book Shop, and while you're there, why not select your Christmas cards? Miss Hodder's cards seem lovelier than ever this year, and enthusiastic shoppers are picking them off by the dozen.

You'll find a warm welcome and friendly attention to your needs at all these Handy Book & Gift Shops: Hyde Park Book Shop (1457 Hyde Park), Post Office News (37 W. Monroe), Merchandise Mart, Board of Trade Bldg., Field Bldg., Daily News Bldg., Palmer House.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 13 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the critical way people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

F. D. R. SIDESTEP ON TREATY VOTE TOLD AT INQUIRY

Seaway Pact Described as 'Agreement.'

BY PHILIP DODD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—The constitutional provision for approval of treaties by a two-thirds vote in the senate can be sidestepped by the President by submitting international agreements to congress as executive agreements rather than as treaties, a senate commerce subcommittee was told today by a state department representative.

The statement was made by Green H. Hackworth, state department legal adviser, at a hearing called to determine whether the St. Lawrence river seaway and power project, now before the committee as an executive agreement, should be considered a treaty and referred to the foreign relations committee for action.

Majority Vote Required.

A dangerous precedent would be set should congress approve the St. Lawrence project as an executive agreement, Sen. Overton [D., La.], chairman of the subcommittee, said after Hackworth's statement. Sen. Bailey [D., N. C.], chairman of the commerce committee, who sat with Overton's group, said such action would open the way for the President to submit the international aviation agreement and even the peace treaty to congress as executive agreements.

Executive agreements require a majority vote of both houses of congress for approval. In cases where no congressional appropriation is required, or where no new federal agency is needed to put the agreement into effect, no congressional approval is required.

Hackworth told the subcommittee congress has only two choices in considering the St. Lawrence and other executive agreements—it can "take it or leave it."

Decision Up to President.

"Who decides whether an international instrument shall be designated a treaty or an agreement?" asked Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], a member of the subcommittee.

"The President decides that," replied Hackworth. "If the document is sent to congress as an executive agreement, it is an executive agreement. If it is sent as a treaty, it is a treaty."

"Then it is not necessary to amend the Constitution to remove the provision for a two-thirds senate vote on treaties," said Vandenberg. "All that is needed is a President who wants to avoid the constitutional provisions."

"What if the President ignores constitutional traditions and decides that what might be a treaty should be an executive agreement — does that make the leopard change its spots?" asked Overton.

"It does," Hackworth said.

1909 Treaty Recalled.

Hackworth did not cite the 1909 boundary waters treaty between the United States and Canada. That compact provided for development of boundary streams and tributaries by agreement. Advocates of the present St. Lawrence project have argued it can be approved by executive agreement under terms of the treaty, altho many of the proposed dams would be on that portion of the river which lies in Canada.

The project was presented to congress in 1934 as a treaty between the United States and Canada. Sen. Burton [R., O.] asked Hackworth why it came up now as an executive agreement instead of as a treaty.

Expenditure Termed Factor.

"Because congress has the power to control commerce between this and other nations and because a considerable expenditure of money will be required for the project," said Hackworth. "If it were a treaty, there might be some question about the house appropriating money. If the house approves the project as an agreement, it could be assumed it would be willing to vote the necessary funds."

The king of England and the statute of Westminster, under which the British commonwealth of nations was formed in 1930, came up for discussion when Bailey noted that the king was listed as one of the high contracting parties in the agreement. He wanted to know why the king was included.

"Because he is ruler of Canada," said Hackworth.

"O, no he isn't," declared Bailey. "Canada is ruled by a sovereign parliament. I refer you to the statute of Westminster as proof, and I ask, Mr. Chairman, that the statute be made a part of the record of this hearing."

200 Circuit Court Divorce Hearings to Be Advanced

Judge Michael Feinberg in Circuit court said yesterday that on Friday he will begin hearing 200 divorce cases originally scheduled to be called between Jan. 16 and Feb. 10. Only 100 bills for divorce were filed last month in Circuit court, compared with 1,600 in Superior court. Judge Feinberg is known to some divorce lawyers as a "strict" judge. He estimated he will hear 14 cases a day.

TEAMSTERS ASK DISMISSAL OF 2 SUITS FOR LIBEL

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21 (AP).—The AFL teamsters' union and its president, Daniel J. Tobin, today asked dismissal of libel suits seeking a total of $400,000 filed as an aftermath of the "battle of the Statler."

The suits, filed in federal court by Naval Lt. Randolph Dickins Jr. and Lt. Comdr. James H. Suddeth, grew out of an article published in a union magazine, the International Teamster. It was an account of a fight at the Statler hotel the night of President Roosevelt's opening campaign address Sept. 23.

In their answers the union and Tobin said the magazine is published only for members, is not a commercial publication, and carries no advertising. They also contended the article was not published with any malicious intent and that it was truthful.

QUAD'S MOTHER FINALLY ABLE TO IDENTIFY THEM

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 21 (AP).—The three weeks old Philadelphia quadruplets are becoming less of a mystery to their mother.

Mrs. Kathleen Cirminello, in her first interview at the lying-in unit of Pennsylvania hospital since the foursome was born on Nov. 1, said today she is just now beginning to distinguish one child from another. Eileen is the first of the three girls and a boy she could tell by name—she has a mole on her head.

The 30 year old mother, who weighs 104 pounds, plans to leave the hospital tomorrow. The quads, still in incubators, will stay there until they weigh approximately 6 pounds each. Maureen now tips the scales at 3 pounds 9 ounces; Kathleen, 3 pounds; Eileen, 3 pounds 6¼ ounces, and Michael, 3 pounds 8½ ounces.

NEW DEAL SEEKS 'SURE' SENATORS FOR PEACE PLAN

Greases Committee's Machinery.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21 (AP).—The administration intends, when it organizes the new congress, to make sure there is a solid majority on the senate foreign relations committee supporting the creation of international peace keeping machinery, it was learned today.

Altho it will be January before anything can be done officially, Democratic leaders have begun conning lists of eligibles for five probable committee vacancies.

Three Democratic Vacancies.

The Democrats probably will fill three of these, represented by the departing Senators Reynolds [D., N. C.], Gillette [D., Ia.], and Clark [D., Mo.]. The Republicans may have two spots to fill. These now are occupied by Sen. Nye [R., N. D.] and by Sen. Davis [R., Pa.] and both will be vacant if a check of the service vote shows Davis defeated.

Without counting these five, Chairman Connally [D., Tex.] figures he has 12 sure votes on a 23 member committee for any administration supported treaty that reasonably could be expected to come out of the higher-up conference scheduled to finish the work begun at Dumbarton Oaks.

"Certain" Votes Wanted.

There are several other probable supporters of the international security organization on the committee, but the administration hopes to make the preliminary legislative approval doubly certain by filling the vacancies with three Democrats who have taken strong public stands in favor of such a world council.

Among those mentioned as possible selections by the majority steering committee are Senators Hatch [D., N. M.], Lucas [D., Ill.], McFarland [D., Ariz.], and Maybank [D., S. C.].

On the Republican side, Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire, an advocate of post-war international coöperation, looks like an almost certain choice. The other spot might go to Burton of Ohio, Gurney of South Dakota, or Wiley of Wisconsin. Of these, only Wiley has been strenuously critical of administration foreign policies.

Sen. Ball Out of Running.

Sen. Ball [R., Minn.], who supported President Roosevelt's successful bid for a fourth term because he said he liked the latter's stand on foreign policies, had little hope his Republican colleagues would vote him a place on the committee. Ball apparently will get some silent and unobstrusive punishment for his bolting tactics.

Singer Seeks Probation in $60 Theft from WAVE

An application for probation was entered for Mrs. Naomi Montoya, 20, of 1512 N. La Salle st., a night club singer, yesterday when she testified before Judge Frank E. Donoghue in Women's court that she stole a purse belonging to WAVE Lillian Frantz of Los Angeles, Cal., in a night club in a loop hotel. Mrs. Montoya, mother of an 11 months old baby, made restitution of $60 and a compact taken from the purse.

BARRETT TO GET CHANCE TO HAND OUT JOBS EARLY

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 21 [Special].—Edward J. Barrett, Democratic secretary of state elect, won't have to wait until he is inaugurated in January to put Democrats on the state pay roll. Richard Yates Rowe, Republican secretary of state, said today he would invite Barrett to start patronage activities during December. The two men will confer tomorrow.

Rowe, who became secretary of state by appointment in June, said the automobile department has a hundred fewer than the customary number of employes. With a rush of automobile license applications starting, he said, added help will be needed in a few weeks.

Rather than ask Republicans to work temporarily until Barrett is inaugurated, Rowe said that all the new appointees could be Democrats if Barrett would name them. Supervisory positions will remain in Republican control.

Gas Dealer Suspended for Duration of Rationing

John Bernard, owner of the gasoline station at 3240 E. 95th st., was suspended from business for the duration of rationing yesterday by Sherman Steele, office of price administration hearing commissioner. Bernard was accused of obtaining 2,800 gallons of gasoline on counterfeit coupons. He did not appear at the hearing.

POLICE TESTIFY IN BROWN DERBY OWNERSHIP QUIZ

A hearing to determine whether the Brown Derby tavern at 104 S. Wabash av. is owned by Samuel L. Rinella, an ex-convict, or his brother, August Rinella, was opened yesterday by the city liquor license appeal commission. Mayor Kelly revoked the Brown Derby's license Oct. 12 after the Chicago Crime commission protested that Samuel Rinella was the actual owner, altho his brother signed applications for licenses. Police Inspector Edward J. Daley testified that he investigated complaints that customers were not treated properly in the tavern. The hearing will be resumed today.

GUARANTEED WAGES.

A good deal is being heard at the CIO convention here about the guaranteed annual wage. The idea is an appealing one, suggesting as it does a day when no one will have to worry about the loss of his job or his income.

No doubt the proposal seems practical because considerable progress has already been achieved toward the desired goal. Only a relatively few people, like movie stars and others possessed of unusual talents, can count on an income guaranteed by contract, but vast numbers of ordinary people have a high degree of security in their jobs. Even at the pit of the depression, there were many more people at work than in idleness, tho few escaped a reduction of income.

Certainly there are some industries in which a guaranteed income for the great majority, if not all employes, might be instituted without too much strain. The change in the pay rolls of many of the public utilities between good times and hard times is relatively small. The same is true to an even greater degree of school systems and many other public services which continue thru boom and depression with relatively little alteration in the demand for their services. Probably the annual incomes of all the employes of such enterprises could be guaranteed with no more than a 5 or 10 per cent reduction in present wages to provide the insurance fund.

But these are not the people who particularly need the protection of a guaranteed wage. Where it would be helpful is in the feast and famine industries, like steel, and there the cost of a guaranteed wage would be very large. Who would do the guaranteeing? The employing corporation cannot because it hasn't the money. Only wishful thinkers who have never examined a balance sheet and an income account can suppose that the steel companies are in a position to carry the load. It is certain that the employes would not accept a guaranteed wage low enough to make the scheme work at their expense. Is it intended that the government shall guarantee wages? That could very easily mean an additional burden of 15 or 20 billion dollars on the national budget in a period of mild business recession and that addition to the debt or the tax bills would itself lead to further business depression, and therefore to further demands on the treasury to pay wages to the idle.

Practically speaking, if the government assumed this responsibility it could meet it only if the burocracy had the power to order men and women to work where it wanted them to work, at wages which they would have to accept and under government dictated working conditions. If Stalin guarantees annual wages, that is the way he does it. In systems such as his there is no place for trade unions as we know them or for collective bargaining.

Those who recommend the guaranteed wage pretend that the plan of itself would be sufficient to stabilize the economy and prevent depression. How, then, do they explain the depression which began in 1929 when every one was employed, confidence in the future was high, and no one was worrying about the loss of his job? Evidently, full employment of itself gives no assurance of a continuance of full employment.

THE PEARL HARBOR REPORTS.

Now that the election is out of the way, there is no further excuse for delay by the army and navy in submitting to congress reports fixing responsibility for the Pearl Harbor disaster which ushered in the war. Boards of inquiry were appointed by both services on instructions from congress to investigate the debacle, and they were ordered to report their findings forthwith—to congress, not to their superiors or to the secretaries of the two departments.

The navy department reported well in advance of the election that the report made by its board was on hand. The report, however, was kept in the possession of high ranking officers and of the secretary, and they made known the fact that they had classified most of it as "secret" or "top secret." Material classified in this fashion may not, under department regulations, be released to outsiders, even if they are the people's representatives in congress.

Congress should exercise the utmost vigilance in seeing to it that the reports which eventually are submitted to it do not contain important excisions justified on the old grounds of military security. There is nothing about the Pearl Harbor story now which can possibly benefit the enemy, but there may be a great deal which some people, for reasons of political expediency, would like to hide. Sen. Ferguson of Michigan has recognized that there may be significant omissions in the reports of the two services and for that reason has urged that the senate undertake an independent inquiry in which all relevant facts would be considered. He said that the army and navy reports cover only phases of the problem limited to actual operations, with all political and diplomatic factors apparently disregarded.

What the public wants now is the truth, not a further display of skill in covering things up. Adm. Kimmel and Gen. Short, who for almost three years have been compelled to bear the blame for Pearl Harbor without being permitted to submit a defense, are entitled to their day in court.

TOO MUCH PUNKIN.

Barney Wood, a rancher living out of Lordsburg, N. M., came to town with a 100 pound pumpkin, announcing that he was going to divide it among the pie makers of that old frontier post. This probably did no harm in Lordsburg, since the housewives of that community undoubtedly know what kind of a pumpkin it was that Barney raised, but some one ought to warn the war brides.

What Barney brought to town, girls, was a cow pumpkin. There are some dairymen who protest that even this is a misnomer. Cow pumpkins make the milk look rich, but they sometimes make it taste like cow pumpkin. The pie pumpkin is a little fellow, also called a sugar pumpkin. The latter name is none too descriptive. You still need plenty of sugar in the pie.

The safest procedure in making a pumpkin pie is to eschew the whole pumpkin tribe and buy a Hubbard squash, one of the big, warty green or blue-green ones. Don't try to cut it up with a butcher knife, or you probably will cut your wrist, or fingers. Use a hatchet.

All these are things that a child of the last generation, raised in a well run kitchen, knows by observation. We're afraid some of today's brides didn't have such careful upbringing.

TANKERS AND PEACE.

Lt. Gen. Somervell's annual report notes that one ton in every two of the supplies sent overseas this year has consisted of gasoline and other petroleum products.

Wide as the recognition has been that this is an oil war, the proportion will still be surprising to many. It emphasizes the extent also to which it has been a war of supply and, above all, of this one class of supplies among many. Mr. Churchill, a number of months ago, made a witty but largely truthful analysis of modern warfare when he said that we have made our armies so mobile that they can be moved at all only with the greatest difficulty.

Armored columns can engage in two and three hundred mile penetrations, as they did in France, but these forays, at a speed never before imagined in warfare, are possible only after the most arduous building of petroleum reserves, and the moment the modern army outruns its supplies it is vastly less mobile than any army in history. A tank out of gasoline is useful as a pillbox, but that is all. The daring improvisations of other years, such as Sherman's march to the sea and Napoleon's quick transfer of his Grand Army to the Austrian campaign after Trafalgar had ended his hope of an invasion of Britain, cannot be repeated in modern warfare. Our armies go dead on their feet if they are cut off from supplies for more than a few days.

In the course of supplying gasoline, lubricating and fuel oil needs on the score of fronts on which we are engaged, the United States has developed the greatest fleet of tankers that the world has ever seen. This is an advantage which we must retain for our future security. The tanker is as essential to modern naval warfare as the battleship or carrier. Our fleets in the Pacific have made themselves more or less independent of their bases. They take their store and repair trains along with them when they fight. They refuel at sea and can stay on the ocean battle line longer than fleets have been able to do since the age of sails.

The control of ocean tankers offers one means of preventing nations from making war. We shall certainly want to restrict the tanker fleets of both Japan and Germany, just as we mean to restrict their navies after the war.

A DEFINITION FOR PEACEMAKERS.

Sen. Ball of Minnesota is found making this complaint about prospects for senate ratification of the Dumbarton Oaks proposals for international organization: "One of the things we are up against this time that the Versailles peacemakers were not up against, in creating the league of nations, is the fact that the league, after all, did fail in the '30s, and each of the great powers has very serious doubts as to whether this attempt will succeed. Therefore, each one is playing, in a sense, two foreign policies—one based upon collective security and the other based upon individual national security. That is, they are not putting all their eggs in either basket at this stage of the game, and that makes things a little difficult."

Sen. Ball has recognized something that anybody ought to be able to recognize. It bothers him. He does not like to admit that in ordinary prudence nations have always been forced to depend upon themselves for their own security. They can't entrust the job confidently to anybody else, for this is a cruel world. We are offering a further bit of wisdom for the senator's consideration: the definition of war submitted by Ambrose Bierce in "The Devil's Dictionary." It is:

"War, n. A by-product of the arts of peace. The most menacing political condition is a period of international amity. The student of history who has not been taught to expect the unexpected may justly boast himself inaccessible to the light. 'In time of peace prepare for war' has a deeper meaning than is commonly discerned; it means, not merely that all things earthly have an end—that change is the one immutable and eternal law—but that the soil of peace is thickly sown with seeds of war and singularly suited to their germination and growth. It was when Kubla Khan had decreed his 'stately pleasure dome'—when, that is to say, there were peace and fat feasting in Xanadu—that he heard from far

Ancestral voices prophesying war.

"One of the greatest of poets, Coleridge was one of the wisest of men, and it was not for nothing that he read us this parable. Let us have a little less of 'hands across the sea,' and a little more of that elemental distrust that is the security of nations. War loves to come like a thief in the night; professions of eternal amity provide the night."

Lights burn in the political camps, and sounds of great activity are heard in the night time. It is the ghost writers, sharpening retorts and blunting rejoinders.—Detroit News.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts 5 points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. Solder is a mixture of lead with which one of the following?
   Copper Silver Tin Aluminum.
2. Dextrose would be classified as which type of food? Fat Protein Sugar Starch.
3. Which one of these eggs can be ready for the table first, if you begin counting time from the moment you light the gas jet of your stove?
   Hard Boiled Poached Fried Soft Boiled.
4. Litmus paper can be used in the home to detect the presence of Salt Grease Alcohol Acid.
5. Strings hanging down from the cross towers over railroad tracks are to warn trainmen that they are approaching Station Curve Water Tower Overhead Bridge.
6. With our attention being focused on foreign geography, we should not forget the scenic beauty of the United States, so try to associate the mountain peaks named in the left hand column below with the states in which they are located. You are entitled to one point for each correct judgment.

[a] Pike's Peak	[v] Georgia
[b] Mount Hood	[w] Washington
[c] Mount Shasta	[x] Oregon
[d] Mount Rainier	[y] Colorado
[e] Stone Mountain	[z] California

A FELLOW NAMED COWARD.

Noel Coward's incomprehensible lapse of taste in sneering, by the printed word, at Brooklyn's bullet-torn sons on the beach at Salerno causes us to revive the story about the curse that he placed upon Chicago. He was much younger then, and not widely known in the exhibitionist world, but the affair made a stir along the rialtos from here to London. Chicago injured Mr. Coward's finer feelings by tittering at him as actor and also by staying away in large numbers from a play of his authorship. He took an oath that never again would he permit us to gaze upon his countenance across the footlights. Moreover, the stout fellow has kept that vow for nearly 20 years.

* * *

In the winter or spring of 1926 Mr. Coward unveiled himself here in a small but excited play called "The Vortex," which glanced at the sad moral condition of post-war London. It dealt with a mother who was careless about her love life, and a son who was so offended by her flagrancies that he had increased his daily ration of morphine. Mr. Coward, as the son, said cutting things to his mammy, and in the big scene, when he was beside himself with narcotic twitchings and petulance, he played the piano at her venomously. He clutched the keys with his talon hands and ripped off hysterical jazz at his misbehaving, unrepentant parent. Curtain.

* * *

The drama critics were kind; they said the play was "important," failing to see that it was merely a cross-grained cut off the old ham-bone. Hamlet, too, had been sore at his adulterous mother, and had thrown a one-act play at her. Mr. Coward did not improve the situation by using the piano as an instrument of contempt.

* * *

The paying customers promptly said "No" to "The Vortex." The verdict was concisely stated by a hard-boiled Randolph st. first-nighter, who muttered in our ear with a gangster accent: "That guy ought to be slapped down." It is regrettable that Mr. Coward never heard such an appraisal from the common man. The memory might have checked his flippancies about Brooklyn boys who were not enjoying their gunshot wounds.

MARTHA GOES TO HEAVEN.

I hope there is work to do in Heaven.
I would not sit all day
In a golden chair with folded hands.
I do not want to play
Hour after hour on a golden harp
(Tho tender the song may be)!
With never a task to do, I know
It wouldn't be Heaven to me.
When I am weary of song and peace,
And weary, perhaps, of rest,
Surely my eager hands can find
The tasks that I love the best.
Surely an angel can praise the Lord
In many more ways than one
Let me offer my praise when my song grows stale
With the work of my hands well done.

Footnote to a Nobel Prize.

Johannes V. Jensen of Denmark, the latest Nobel literary prize winner, made his first visit to New York in 1896, and late in 1902 reached Chicago when eastward bound on a trip around the world. While not yet internationally lionized, the stylist, author, and newspaper correspondent made quite a stir among his countrymen here. It took him hardly a couple of weeks to write a four-act drama, "Trods" ["Defiance"], which was staged by amateurs on Feb. 1, 1903.

For some months Jensen rusticated at Henry L. Hertz's country home in McHenry, and there he wrote "Madame D'Ora." Following the example of Frank Norris in that book and his next, "Hjulet" ["The Wheel"], he glorified the "beauty" of American machine technique.

Later he wrote a critical appraisal, "The New World." Until a year or two before the present World war he visited America off and on, but only for short stays of rest and rather incognito.

HIS FATHER'S FOOTSTEPS.

He knew this country, too. This war-torn land,
Nancy, St. Lo, and Metz. I feel his hand
Just as a little lad, when tired of play,
He led me gently home at close of day.
The weary march, I feel his step beside,
Comforting, steady, matching stride on stride,
Sharing the heavy pack, the chilling rain.
The bullet's whine, the bomb, he shares again
With me. . . . Here in this far-off land
We face the east together, hand in hand.

This cigaret shortage reminds me that if women had not been set a naughty example by the Spanish infanta, Eulalia, about 50 years ago maybe there would now be more cigarets for the men. This gay lady came to see the Columbian Exposition in Chicago, bringing the cigaret smoking custom of her countrywomen. Up to that time our female smokers were of the demimonde.

I'm just beginning to realize that I'm not the man I used to be, that being shot up takes something out of a fellow, altho he may feel all right now. I was told when I left the hospital I could file a claim for compensation, but I thought I'd try to get along without it. Did I make a mistake in not filing? Is it too late to do so?"

It is never too late for a veteran to file a claim for compensation justly due him. You showed an admirable spirit in wanting to try and get along without the compensation, but there is a growing feeling that it is best for every veteran who has a justifiable claim to file as early as possible to establish service connection. Once service connection is established, the veteran can please himself about receiving compensation. If the matter is postponed to some indefinite time, the veteran may find it much more difficult to establish definitely the all-important "service connection."

DON'T ADD TO THE BURDENS OF THE LIVER.

SOME of these days we will come to appreciate the splendid job which the liver performs. As a rule, it proceeds about its business quietly and without fuss—that is, unless it is abused.

It is called upon to do more work and carry on more functions than any other vital organ.

Its two main jobs are to "condition" most of the nutriment which is absorbed from the alimentary tract and to provide an extremely useful secretion [the bile] which has much to do with digestion. Not only are foodstuffs revamped, strained, and adapted to the use of the body, but the structure stores products which can be converted quickly into energy. Carbohydrates are warehoused as glycogen [animal starch], while protein is held within the cells so that it can be speedily utilized, if and when needed. A substantial percentage of fat, is hidden away so that it too can be poured forth in order to meet tissue demands.

Among other duties we may recall that it acts as a reservoir for certain metals and vitamins and assists in the formation of new blood cells. This gives us some idea of its importance and the huge amount of labor which it performs.

Why does the liver become diseased? The reason is not far to seek. The organ serves as a great sieve, in an effort to protect its owner from poisons. Human beings and animals are constantly taking in harmful substances which must be neutralized and excreted. Furthermore, bacterial toxins require dilution and destruction. In addition, if the solution of food does not go quite far enough, dangerous compounds may be formed.

Since all these noxious agents pass thru the liver, it is the first to "spot" them and recognize that they are ominous. Its task, then, is to filter out these lethal materials and prevent their entrance into the circulation. Fortunately, it can destroy many toxins or convert them into harmless mixtures.

This apparatus may well be considered our main safeguard against disease. But, in its effort to protect, it may lose some of its efficiency. In other words, improper articles of diet may harm its cells. We should be careful, therefore, in our selection of both food and drink. Moreover, we may well be cautious about what we ask the liver to accomplish.

While regeneration of its cells may take place under proper management, it will last far longer than the normal span of years unless something has come along to injure it severely. Thus we attempt to forestall cirrhosis [hardening] by sparing the structure overloads as well as irritation.

Yes, it is a beneficent—almost self-regulating — bit of machinery and it will carry on its activities with ease and dispatch unless it is grossly mistreated. The abstemious eater rarely encounters trouble. But the one who gormandizes, who takes everything in sight and calls for more, just isn't playing fair. The same applies to the steady tippler.

MARY WINTER.

And a Little Child Shall. . . .

A British soldier in North Africa was approached not long ago by a ragged Belgian child selling trinkets. He started to wave the boy on when he noticed a medal engraved with a Christian name on the child's right arm. Then he realized he had seen him before. It had been three years ago at Dunkerque, and the child had been cowering beside a ditch where his parents lay machine gunned to death. Out of it the child had emerged without memory and without speech. Somehow he had reached Africa.

This monstrous incident is mentioned only as illustrative of that great tragedy underlying the war which can well be the tragedy of the future—the roving bands of homeless, hungry, orphaned, battered children who fill Europe and Asia. They steal. They attack shops. They assault wayfarers. They manage to live.

From time to time a few handfuls of these children are brought to the United States. Recently, when the Committee for the Care of European Children brought such a boatload, one child, a boy with eyes of hollow misery, stood by the shiprail and talked to a director.

"Why can't children who have no homes build up a legion like the French Foreign Legion?" he demanded. "Then we could fight for the rights of children everywhere."

What are the rights of children? Affection, security, shelter, understanding, the mere right to live at all? For a child to have to say "Then we could fight for the rights of children everywhere . . ." is a horrible thing.

Once, 700 years ago, Europe was full of homeless children. Their fathers had fallen in the tragic Third Crusade. The Holy City was still in the hands of the Saracens despite four crusades, it was the summer of 1212, and the children of Europe, led by two shepherd boys in France and Germany, took matters into their own hands.

The French boy, Stephen of Cloyes, said that the Lord had appeared in a vision to tell him that the Holy Cross could be redeemed only by the hands of innocent children. Soon thousands of children flocked to his leadership and marched thru France carrying crosses made of branches and banners torn from their clothes. At last 30,000 of them reached Marseille where, Stephen had promised, the waters would roll back so they might cross. But the waters did not part. Instead, the children waited and drifted, hungry, ill, and dying, until two "charitable" merchants offered to ship them without payment in seven large ships.

The names of the two merchants, Hugo Ferrens and William Porcus, went down in infamy with that of Herod, for two ships sank in a storm with all lost, and five reached Egypt, where the children of the French crusade were sold into slavery to the Saracens and the Turks.

The German crusade fared no better. It was led by Nicolas, a child from Cologne. He and his 20,000 followers crossed into Italy and reached Genoa, still full of faith and exultation, on Aug. 25, 1212. Here they walked from dock to dock, port to port. Winter pressed down, and thousands died. Those who lived finally gained passage and they, too, ended in the slave marts.

Now, those were children who set out to fight not only for the rights of children but for the rights of man as well, and nothing was left of them but one boy who escaped from slavery 18 years later and came back to tell of it . . . one boy, and a broken echo in the Pied Piper of Hamelin. Who can say the world has advanced in seven centuries and 32 years when children, its only hope, must still be its victims?

HE'S NOT FIGHTING FOR COMMUNISM.

Newport News, Va., Nov. 17.—As a naval officer returning from the combat zones, I am much disappointed in my fellow Americans to see them tolerate the new moves to prohibit freedom of speech. Just a few days ago, I noticed in one of the local papers a story that the National Broadcasting company had advised Radio Commentator Upton Close of the termination of his services with that network. It is clearly evident that Washington brought pressure upon NBC to remove the voice of this fearless commentator. Upton Close has done a remarkable job in informing the American people of many dangerous steps which our government has been taking to communism. The OWI couldn't be more pink if the staff was selected by the Kremlin. That division of our government has tried for some time to silence Mr. Close.

The men of our army and navy are not fighting for communism. We are fighting for Americanism. However, it looks as tho after we finish the job overseas we'll have to start at home, too.

Congratulations to your great newspaper for continually reminding the public of the unwholesome activities of the New Deal crowd in Washington. We hope to be civilians by 1948 and at that time, we'll join you in retiring the New Deal to obscurity!

TAKE THE NUMBER.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—In reply to "Post-office Discourtesy" by Blanche Bowington: All postal workers who serve the people are required to wear their badges, with serial numbers, in plain view.

Whenever one of those employes shows any discourtesy, make a note of his or her serial number and send it in to the postmaster. That employe will be suitably disciplined.

I have been a clerk in the postal service for more than 15 years and until recently, when it became necessary to hire help indiscriminately, such lapses on the part of government employes were rare indeed. We are trying to orientate these new people to this intricate business of getting out your mail.

TURN IN THE EMPTIES.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—We have a very serious cigaret shortage. It is charged that this is a result of hoarding and of sales practices in certain places. Why not require each purchaser of a package of cigarets to turn in an empty package before the sale is made—the way we used to turn in empty shave cream tubes? This would be a cure for hoarding. It would give OPA investigators an accurate means of checking actual sales. And what is more, the paper wrappers would contribute tons of valuable paper for the waste paper drive.

THE RULE THEY DIDN'T USE.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—It is now brought to our attention that since 1926 army-navy regulations have provided for appointment of an over-all commander in areas of divided command during periods of crisis. The President did not appoint such a commander in the critical weeks immediately preceding Pearl Harbor.

LIBRARY LECTURES.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 17.—J. C. P.'s letter to you, dated Nov. 2, with respect to the one-sided library lectures, is absolutely the whole truth and nothing but the truth. This practice, one-sided lectures, not only applies to the main library, but to the outlying libraries on the south side as well.

It has always been my understanding that the assembly halls of the regional public libraries were for the benefit of the public, and if there was to be a controversial subject, both sides could be heard. However, on the south side the librarians seem to have a definite prejudice for one side of an issue, and nothing can be discussed unless it meets with the approval of the regional librarian. When one of the regional librarians was approached, she informed us that she got her instructions from downtown, which, after being carefully checked, we found was not the truth.

NO VOTES FOR BUROCRATS.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Why don't you publish the truth about the election? Mr. Roosevelt got 2½ million more votes than Mr. Dewey. Mr. Roosevelt had 3½ million payrollers in his machine who could probably control some 10 million votes. In plain English the general public elected Mr. Dewey, and it was the payrollers who elected Mr. Roosevelt.

An amendment to the Constitution, providing that no one holding public office should be allowed to vote to perpetuate himself in office would go a long way to stop the building up of these dangerous machines. Disfranchise all burocrats, of all parties.

CIO CONVENTION HAILS WALLACE AS 1948 LEADER

1,500 Cheer 'Champion of the Common Man.'

The appearance of Vice President Wallace before the national convention of the Congress of Industrial Organizations in the Stevens hotel yesterday took on the aspects of the launching of his Presidential campaign for 1948. He addressed the delegates as the "champion of the common man" on a political premise of 60 million jobs—60 million workers—60 million voters.

Tumultous applause greeted the Vice President as he entered the Grand ballroom and cries of "We want Wallace" and "Forty-eight" were heard above the uproar raised by 1,500 delegates, alternates, and visitors who filled the main floor and balcony.

Murray Introduces "Champ."

Wallace was introduced by President Philip Murray as the "champion of the common man" and the political principles enunciated by the Vice President were accepted by the CIO delegates as the platform on which they will campaign in four years.

The Vice President urged that "you who see full employment and a permanent peace as two main objectives move toward the practical job ahead in 1946 behind Roosevelt," but delegates made it plain Wallace would be their leader in 1948.

Wallace said the Nov. 7 election gave President Roosevelt "a directive from the American people to use the full power in his great office to get congress to enact the necessary legislation to carry out the economic bill of rights."

Assails Entrenched Wealth.

The battle for full employment will be more difficult than the finishing of a successful war, Wallace warned, adding "the obstacles are the reactionaries and that type of entrenched wealth interested in monopoly and scarcity as a source of profits. We must fight them wherever we find them."

Wallace dismissed the war with one brief reference: "We are not far away from victory in the war." He spoke on the CIO program immediately following Lt. Gen. Somervell, army supply chief, who urgently stressed the need for increased production in war supplies.

"Many people have the idea that the nearer we come to victory, the less stuff we need," said Somervell. "Actually, just the opposite is true. The faster we move and the harder we hit the enemy, the more stuff we use up and the more we need to maintain our offensives."

Repeal of Labor Act Urged.

The convention reaffirmed labor's "no-strike pledge."

Other resolutions called for repeal of the Smith-Connally act, amendment of the Hatch act to permit government workers to engage in political activities, extension of social security thru the Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill, and increased opposition to state anti-labor measures.

The delegates condemned the national war labor board for its failure to recommend revision of the Little Steel formula, urged a board membership that would "provide a forum for a peaceful and equitable disposition of all disputes," and particularly assailed the "activities and policies of Gerard Reilly," a member of the board.

They urged as the guiding principle for reconversion tax programs "the continuation of current tax rates on corporations and personal incomes above $5,000 a year."

MRS. EVELYN B. RUSKIN.

Mrs. Evelyn B. Ruskin, 18, of 1624 S. St. Louis av., was booked on three charges of confidence game yesterday after she admitted passing three worthless checks totaling $181 in three currency exchanges. Police said she forged the name of Frank A. Kiessling, 7316 S. Dorchester av., a former employer, to the checks.

PROFESSORS ASK FULL INQUIRY ON TEXAS U. MORALS

Rainey Is Defended in Homosexual Quiz.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21. (AP).—The American Association of University Professors today said the "real reasons" behind the dismissal of Dr. Homer P. Rainey as president of the University of Texas are as yet undisclosed.

Commenting on testimony by Orville Bullington, university regent, that Rainey had not been diligent in weeding out a "nest of homosexuals in the faculty," the association said:

"Since Mr. Bullington's charge with reference to homosexual cases is of a kind likely to become a red herring across the trial of evidence pertaining to certain undisclosed reasons for Dr. Rainey's dismissal, reasons which at this juncture we of this association believe are the real reasons, it is important that your committee give especially careful consideration to Mr. Bullington's charge concerning homosexuality before proceeding to consideration of other charges and that the committee's findings with reference to this charge be announced at the earliest possible date."

Message to Investigators.

The association's statement was telegraphed to Chairman Penrose Metcalfe of the Texas senate committee investigating Dr. Rainey's dismissal.

Dr. Ralph E. Himstead, general secretary of the association, said the real reasons for Dr. Rainey's ouster involved interference by the regents with the president's office.

The association's statement said: "Evidence indicates that Dr. Rainey was diligent with reference to the [homosexual] situation.

"Took Steps Promptly."

"It appears that he took appropriate steps promptly to provide careful investigation of facts and that, in light of facts, he brought about disassociation from the university of the persons concerned.

"In dealing with cases of perversion or immorality, any university administrator, who would act wisely and justly in accordance with the practice and standards of a great university, must first secure evidence. This we believe Dr. Rainey did in the case of homosexuality at the University of Texas."

HOLD WIFE WHO SAW MATE KILL ALLEGED RAPIST

Watertown, N. Y., Nov. 21 [Special].—A first degree murder charge was lodged today against Mrs. Lillybell Foster, 26, whose husband, Marine Corp. Arthur D. Foster, 28, last Thursday fatally stabbed a man she had accused of raping her.

District Atty. Carl J. Hynes of Jefferson county said the charge is based on the theory that the wife is equally guilty with the husband because she accompanied him on a search for the alleged rapist and identified him with the words, "There's the fellow who raped me."

Joins Husband in Jail.

Corp. Foster, a veteran of 16 months of Pacific warfare who was wounded by shrapnel on Bougainville, has been held in the county jail on a murder charge since the night of the stabbing. His wife was locked up tonight.

Foster's victim was Robert E. Hodkinson, 35, married and father of five children. He was seated with his wife in a restaurant when Foster, home on furlough, entered the place and attacked him with a commando knife when he was pointed out by Mrs. Foster.

Mrs. Foster told police she was raped by Hodkinson last Sept. 17 when the man offered her a ride home and drove her into the country. Hodkinson threatened to "do away with her" and her children if she reported the incident, she said.

Wife Weeps in Court.

Mrs. Foster was in tears when arraigned today and unable to speak. Her hearing was adjourned to Friday afternoon.

The Fosters' three children, Beverly, 8; Patricia, 3, and Arthur Jr., 17 months, are being cared for by Mrs. Foster's parents.

ASSAIL F. D. R.'S 'INDIFFERENCE' IN RAIL STRIKE

War Suffers, Loss Soars in Suburb Tieup.

ers now unable to use the North Shore Line, he said.

The strikers quit their jobs in protest against a decision of an emergency mediation panel appointed by President Roosevelt, which granted them an increase in pay of 5 cents an hour. The workers had asked for 9 cents an hour, basing their claim on the increase in pay granted early this year to employes of the steam railroads.

Officials of the two electric lines assert, in reply, that steam railroad workers have been granted wage increases of only 19 cents an hour since Jan. 1, 1941, while the men on the two electric lines would have received an increase of 19½ cents for the same period if they had accepted the 5 cent raise awarded by the President's emergency board.

The North Shore line and the C., A. & E. also contend they should not be classed with the steam roads, which make most of their profits on freight hauling, while the two electric lines are almost wholly passenger carriers. Average fares on the electric lines are only 2 cents a mile because the bulk of the riders use commutation tickets at rates less than 1 cent a mile, the companies explained.

Dispute Goes Back to 1942.

The wage dispute goes back to the spring of 1942 and strike threats have been made periodically, but none of the parties concerned—the railroads, the workers, and the strap hangers—really expected the strike to occur. Everybody agreed that railroad strikes in war time are inconceivable and felt sure that the President would take over the lines if a showdown came.

The trainmen even were operating on this theory the day before the walkout, when they jokingly told passengers that "an army colonel will be running this railroad tomorrow." But no colonel showed up. The impossible strike happened.

It was explained in Washington that the President may seize railroads under his war powers if the army or the navy certify to him that a strike is endangering the movement of men or supplies for war purposes. No certification has been made that the current strike involves the war program. Officers at Great Lakes naval training station and at Fort Sheridan said the two huge training centers were moving their traffic over the North Western railway, and that no soldiers or sailors were affected except men on passes from the posts or men who lived off the posts.

War Traffic Is Heavy.

North Shore line officials, however, estimated that 40 per cent of their traffic was military and naval personnel and 40 per cent was workers in war plants. The C., A. & E. estimated that 50 per cent of its passengers were employed by companies directly concerned in war work.

Motormen and conductors on the two lines are now paid 92 cents an hour. Collectors receive 80 cents an hour. These wages are wholly inadequate under present living conditions, according to D. B. Miller, vice president of the firemen and enginemen, and J. A. Zanger, vice president of the trainmen, who have directed the unions' negotiations.

Miller asserted that the 5 cent an hour wage increase ordered by the emergency board and accepted by the railroads would mean a pay boost of only 60 cents a week for a trainman with a wife and two children, because it would place him in a higher income tax deduction bracket. Also, the wages are far below those paid for comparable jobs on steam railroads, he said.

Company officials disagreed on both these points. They disavowed any blame for the federal income tax and they explained that steam railroad wages are based, in part, on the necessity for trainmen to live away from their homes during part of every week. All employes of the suburban lines can live at home, they said.

An important factor in the strike situation is the weak financial position of the two lines, which have been in receiverships for many years. The North Shore line is now being reorganized in bankruptcy proceedings, and the C., A. & E. is still in receivership.

Both railroads have been operating in the black during the last two years, but have been plowing profits back into badly needed track and equipment improvements. Company officials said these improvements were started after Chairman Vinson of the national stabilization board made what they thought would be a final ruling on the wage dispute.

Won Pay Boost in 1943.

In March, 1943, an emergency panel appointed by the President recommended an increase in pay of 16 cents an hour for employes of the two lines, but Vinson cut the award to 14 cents on the ground that a 16 cent boost would exceed the Little Steel formula used as the base for the wage stabilization program. Again, in March, 1944, Vinson declined a request of the two brotherhoods that he reverse his position.

The 14 cent wage increase was made retroactive to June 1, 1942, and has been in effect since then. By adding the 5 cent increase recently spurned by the workers, their total pay boost has been 19 cents an hour, and this is ½ cent an hour more than the total raises granted steam railroad men in the same period, officials of the electric lines said.

STRIKE IN GARY MILL CALLED OFF AFTER IT MAKES 5,500 IDLE

The strike of 39 pit crane men at the Gary works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation ended last night when the strikers voted to return to work on the midnight shift pending a settlement of their dispute, but the walkout at the company's South Chicago plant spread to 500 employes.

The Gary strike started Monday and caused the layoff of 5,500 employes, halting production of steel needed for war materials. The strikers objected to the company's withdrawal of nine spell men, who relieve the crane men when the cabs become too hot. Company officials estimated production loss in the strike at 25,000 ingot tons of steel.

Joseph Goin, subdistrict director of the United Steel Workers [CIO], and P. V. Martin, the company's director of industrial relations, will meet in the Gary hotel at 1:30 p. m. today to discuss a settlement of the dispute.

The South Chicago strike, which started Sunday when eight welders objected to a supervisory transfer, did not halt operations at that works. The strikers were reported endeavoring to enlist the narrow gauge railway crews, threatening to shut down the works.

MOTHER GONE; BABY BECOMES WARD OF COURT

A 9 month old boy named Patrick became the ward of the Juvenile court yesterday. Previously, United Charities had tried to locate his mother, an unwed girl of 24, who was said to have come here from Seattle, Wash. She had kept Patrick in a foster home until she disappeared July 4, after which United Charities looked after him.

1,000 STEEL MEN STRIKE OVER USE OF NEW MACHINE

Watervliet, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP).—A union spokesman said today a work stoppage involving about 1,000 rolling mill employes of the Allegheny Ludlum Steel company's plant here resulted from a dispute over installation of an automatic conveyor. He described the walkout as "entirely unauthorized."

He said members of the CIO United Steel Workers of America, local 2478, left their jobs because of a personnel reduction due to the "technological change."

Installation of the conveyor, he said, resulted in elimination of seven men.

ARREST SAILOR AFTER CRASH IN FLEEING POLICE

Seaman Richard Stephenson, 20, stationed at Great Lakes, quarreled with his girl friend when he took her to her home at 33 N. County st., Waukegan, at 2 a. m. yesterday. Policemen Joseph Brenze and Edward Meunier, summoned by the girl's parents, ordered Stephenson to drive to the station, intending to release him after a reprimand. Stephenson tried to get away and ended by crashing into an ornamental light pole and overturning his car. He was jailed on charges of lacking a driver's license, reckless driving, destruction of public property, and driving thru a traffic light and two stop signs. He was freed on $100 bail later and faces a hearing Saturday.

NUDE WOMAN FOUND BY WIFE IS FINED $200

A fine of $200 and costs was imposed on Mrs. Lucille Connelly, 37, of 5960 Union av., in Women's court yesterday when Mrs. Ruth Boday, 5317 S. Carpenter st., testified she found Mrs. Connelly asleep in the nude in her bed when she returned home Oct. 12. Mrs. Boday's husband, Ralph, 42, was there too, she said.

The door, said Mrs. Boday, was locked. She asked her son, Harold, 20, one of the couple's four children, to climb thru a window and unlock the door.

Ralph told the court Mrs. Connelly had "a couple of beers" and was afraid to go home so he suggested she sleep in his house.

"Don't tell me that," snapped Judge Frank E. Donoghue and levied the fine. A motion to vacate was set for Nov. 28.

STATE APPROVES SUPER-HIGHWAY ON CONGRESS ST.

Won't Commit Self on Amount of Aid.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 21 [Special].—Wesley W. Polk, chief state highway engineer, gave the green light today to the proposed Congress st. super highway from Chicago's west side to the loop but declined to commit himself as to how much money the state would put into the project. He did promise, however, that the state would help finance it.

Purchase of additional right of way, preparation of plans for a new bridge across Congress st., and use of the bottle necked post office concourse were decided upon at a conference attended by Polk and Chicago, Cook county, and federal engineers.

Because of a 1942 promise by Gov. Green to approve the Congress st. site, Polk gave assurances to the Chicagoans that the state would help finance the super-highway. The Congress st. route, however, has been protested by Chicago civic leaders who term it a real estate promotion and assert that the city's growth requires that the super highway location should be further north, in the vicinity of Lake st.

Heavy Right of Way Cost.

From the lake front to the city limits at Austin av., the Congress st. highway at current estimates would cost $40,782,000, of which $20,882,000 would go for the right of way.

The city of Chicago was authorized to proceed with right of way acquisition from Desplaines st. to Ashland av. Cook county is to buy the necessary land from Canal st. to Desplaines st.

Philip Harrington, Chicago commissioner of subways and superhighways, said the city has allocated about 12 million dollars for the project. William Mortimer, engineer representing the Cook county highway department, said the county is using $4,800,000 for similar purposes. City and county funds come from their share of federal aid and state gasoline tax funds.

Bridge Job Approved.

Oscar E. Hewitt, city commissioner of public works, was told by Polk to go ahead with plans for the Congress st. bridge over the Chicago river.

Between the river and State st. the right of way has been arranged for, with two exceptions. One of them is the Western Union building and the other is the La Salle st. station.

In addition to Hewitt and Harrington, Chicago was represented by Lloyd M. Johnson, commissioner of streets and electricity; Charles Deleuw, consulting engineer; James Markey, chief engineer of streets; Stephen Michudau, chief bridge engineer; J. R. Butler, engineer of subways, underpasses, and overpasses; A. J. Schafmayer, engineer of sewers, and U. F. Turpin, assistant project engineer.

Frederick N. Johnson and R. H. Harrison represented the federal public roads administration. Among the state officials called in by Polk was James C. Moreland, 41st ward Republican committeeman, who is state land appraiser in Cook county.

City Allotted $2,500,000 for Congress St. Highway

Chicago has been allotted $2,500,000 from state motor fuel tax funds for construction and the purchase of right-of-way for the proposed Congress st. super-highway, City Clerk Schreiber was notified yesterday by the state department of public works. An allotment of $300,000 was made earlier for engineering and surveying costs. The money allowed yesterday was the first to be used in the acquisition of right-of-way west of the Chicago river.

CRASH DEATHS HELD ACCIDENT.

A coroner's jury yesterday held that the deaths of Timothy Cahill, 36, of 4244 N. Clark st., and Herbert Brooks, 31, of 1751 Cornelia av., in an automobile-street car collision Sept. 19 at Western av. and Grace st., were accidental.

WAR LABOR TOLD BY M'NUTT: DON'T FUMBLE BALL

Victory Still Is Far Off, Says WMC Chief.

BY GEORGE HARTMANN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Orleans, La., Nov. 21.—American labor and industry have done a magnificent job of war production to date but their responsibility must continue and gain momentum, because the war is far from over, Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the war man power commission, told the 64th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor today.

The WMC chairman said many Americans—workers, foremen, managers, executives, and housewives—have lost the deep sense of national responsibility that existed prior to D-day. He urged they should not fumble the ball now.

"Some Americans have already hitched up the victory bandwagon and gone for premature victory hayrides," McNutt stated.

Message from Roosevelt.

A message from President Roosevelt was read to the convention by William Green, president of the AFL, in which he also lauded AFL members for their war record and paid tribute to farmers and employers for "producing the weapons, materials, and supplies needed by American fighting men."

"I know there will be no letdown in this task by any group of patriotic Americans," continued the President's message, "and I know that such coöperation will continue after the war is won so that we can win a peace for the world which will be just and lasting and in the interest of safety, protection and well being of generations yet unborn."

Blames State Laws.

McNutt blamed the laws of individual states for workers' failure to respond to leave jobs in less essential industries to work in foundries.

"In some states a worker who responds will lose his security against unemployment," he said. "In some other states, the patriotic worker who accepts a negotiated transfer requested or urged by the WMC will lose his unemployment insurance rights and in still others the unduly restrictive character of the disqualification provisions in many state unemployment insurance laws will have just this effect."

He assailed state legislatures for failure to liberalize such laws.

"I say that this is fumbling the ball on the 10 yard line," shouted the WMC chief.

He promised the 600 delegates at the convention there would be no national conscription act for labor because "we Americans believe in volunteer effort and volunteer responsibility."

KELLY SCOTCHES REPORT HE WILL ENTER CABINET

Mayor Kelly returned to the city hall from a week's vacation yesterday and said he was not surprised that the war is still on despite the reëlection of President Roosevelt. A few days before the election the mayor was reported to have predicted that Germany and Japan would give up in two or three days if the commander in chief were elected for a fourth term.

"How about it now?" reporters asked the mayor.

"Why, I never said that," said Kelly. "I said the reëlection of President Roosevelt would be so disheartening to our enemies that they probably would be asking for peace in two or three weeks."

The mayor said he went to New York and Washington, D. C., on his vacation, but did not see the President. He denied a rumor that he will be appointed postmaster general and that Sheriff Mulcahy will become mayor.

"Postmaster General Walker is going to stay where he is," he said, "and I am going to stay in Chicago."

LAWYERS PLAN WGN BROADCASTS ON ISSUES OF DAY

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 21 [Special].—William Doll, chairman of the public relations committee of the American Bar association, announced today that the association will sponsor a series of 13 Sunday afternoon broadcasts entitled "Let's Face the Issue." The program of broadcasts is partly designed to "restore to American lawyers their lost leadership in national affairs," he said.

The series will replace the "You Can't Take It With You" program on the Mutual Broadcasting system from 5 to 5:30 p. m. beginning Sunday with a broadcast from W-G-N, Chicago, Doll said. Disposition of government war plants after victory will be discussed on the first program.

Programs will consist of two parts, the first being a colloquy between economists or other specialists on issues of the day, and the second a cross examination of the speakers by lawyers, who will then sum up the case for the listening audience which will act as jury.

LODGER STABBED; DIES.

Police investigated yesterday the fatal stabbing of Charles Harvey, 63, in a darkened dormitory of the Pacific Garden mission at 646 S. State st. early in the day. Fellow lodgers told police they heard a scuffle and moans and found Harvey with a wound in his abdomen. He died in County hospital a few hours later.

WLB THREATENS PHONE STRIKERS WITH U. S. ACTION

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21 (AP).—The war labor board tonight directed that the striking Ohio telephone operators return to work immediately or face government seizure of the facilities.

N. P. Feinsinger, WLB hearing chairman, gave union officials until 10 a. m. tomorrow to decide whether they would recommend that members of the Ohio Federation of Telephone Workers, an independent union, return to work.

A union spokesman in Cleveland last night said the strike will continue beyond today's 10 a. m. deadline set by the national war labor board "unless further word is received from the WLB or unless the government takes possession."

Feinsinger said the work must be resumed before the labor board could undertake a disposition of grievances.

Alternative "Probable Seizure."

"The only alternative," Feinsinger asserted, "is probable government seizure. In this case, work would be resumed under the same terms as prevailed at the time the strike started."

The board's directive came after an executive session. Union officials declined to say immediately what they would do, telling the board they would give their answer tomorrow.

Leaders of the union said tonight the WLB could end the strike "in one minute" by ordering dismissal of workers transferred to Dayton at higher compensation.

"Intolerable" Situation.

Robert G. Pollock, president of the federation, said the presence of the 100 or more operators transferred to Dayton at higher rates was "unbearable and intolerable." He questioned the right of the board "or any other government agency" to order the strikers back to work beside those who have continued to work "for a bonus of $18.25 a week."

The strike started in Dayton last Friday when unionists protested the payment of $18.25 extra each week to outside workers. The additional money was said by the Ohio Bell Telephone company to cover certain living expenses of persons brought from out of town.

Withhold Michigan Walkout.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 21 (AP).—The Michigan Telephone Employes federation voted its "willingness to strike" in support of a walkout of affiliated Ohio operators in a mass-meeting here tonight, but withheld further action pending WLB developments in the Ohio case.

HOUSE TO PROBE 'FORCED' SALE OF RADIO STATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—Defying undercover suppression efforts, a special house committee today voted to open public hearings tomorrow into charges that a New York radio station owner was forced to sell his property to a prominent New Dealer at a bargain price.

The inquiry was suddenly terminated ten months ago by the Democratic majority on the committee when it became evident that high administration officials might be involved in revelations, which would have political repercussions.

Extraordinary efforts were made to prevent a resumption of the investigation, it was learned.

The hearings, to be continued thru next week, are expected to develop the charges of Donald Flamm, former owner of New York radio station WMCA, that he was pressured into selling his station for $850,000 to Edward J. Noble, former undersecretary of commerce to Harry Hopkins.

Boy, 11, Playing on Track, Struck, Killed by Train

Thomas Habielewicz, 11, of 1326 Cleaver st., was killed instantly yesterday when he was struck by a northbound North Western train at Blackhawk and Ada sts., while playing on the tracks with several other children.

WOMAN EXPERT CALLS FERNEL'S CREAM 'FAILURE'

Tries It for Five Days; Isn't 'Slenderized.'

"Slenda Cream," a product which Jean Paul Fernel, 54, former plastic surgeon, told his customers would remove double chins and reduce the hips and abdomen, would do nothing of the sort, Dr. Minnie Oboler Peristein, skin specialist, testified yesterday before Judge Michael L. Igoe in federal District court.

Dr. Peristein knew the cream wouldn't reduce any one, she said, because she tried it on herself for five days and all it did was irritate the skin. It might even, she said, enlarge the bust instead of reducing it.

Cure-All "a Laxative."

And as to Fernel's product known as Vitalgen, which he claimed would "do everything from overcoming liver sluggishness to giving luster to the eyes and sheen and life to the hair," it was nothing more than a mild laxative, Dr. Peristein, who is skin specialist at County hospital and professor of dermatology at the University of Illinois medical school, testified.

Fernel is on trial on charges of violating the federal food and drug act by selling medical preparations which the government contends were misbranded.

On cross-examination, Samuel Hoffman, attorney for Fernel, attempted to question Dr. Peristein on the claims of an advertised soap, but Judge Igoe sustained an objection to the question.

In Jail for Lack of Bond.

Fernel, who lived at 1543 N. Wells st. but who now is in county jail, unable to make bond, also faces a year and a day in federal prison and a $500 fine under a sentence imposed by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan in November, 1943, when Fernel was found guilty of similar charges.

Fernel lost his license to practice medicine in 1938 when a patient on whom he had performed a face lifting operation charged that instead of beautifying her the operation marred her features.

Jean Tennant to Be Wed to Capt. Tennant

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE news that Miss Jean Tennant and Capt. Thomas Tennant of the air transport command are to be married Saturday will come as a surprise, as no previous announcement of their engagement has been made. The ceremony will be a small one for relatives only at 4:30 p. m. in the Highland Park home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Lufkin Tennant.

Capt. Tennant, who is not related to his fiancee, is the son of Mrs. Thomas R. Tennant of Hammond, Ind., who will be here for the wedding, at which the Rev. Frank Fitt of Detroit will officiate. A small reception will follow. Miss Tennant, who has been pursuing a career in New York, was educated at the Roycemore school and Finch Junior college. Capt. Tennant attended the Asheville school and Washington and Lee university.

The bride's sisters, her twin, Mrs. Hamil Reidy, and Mrs. Robert A. Morris of Washington, D. C., will be present at the wedding. Mrs. Reidy is living with her mother now that Lt. Reidy has gone overseas with the navy.

White Elephant Party.

The dowager who traded a seed pearl dog collar for a ticket of admission to yesterday's games party in the Casino, given by the White Elephant rummage shop committee of Children's Memorial hospital, thoughtfully provided a packet of extra pearls in case the purchaser should break one of the delicate strands. Her offering and other choice pieces of jewelry which will be priced in time for the shop's Christmas sale Dec. 5 were singled out for display yesterday in four illuminated cases. The exhibit, which included diamond drop earrings, twin amethyst bracelets set in gold, a jeweled cigaret case encrusted in sapphires and rubies, and a handsome amethyst cross, was so tempting that it would have given a pickpocket a bad case of frustration.

Box after box of treasures for the shop passed thru the hands of Mrs. Frederick W. Upham, Mrs. William B. Greenlee, Mrs. Charles K. Foster, and Mrs. Samuel T. Chase. A thimble shaped silver cup marked with Jefferson Davis' initials and a lavish Sheffield tray were among the items they found when they unwrapped the packages.

When the tea hour arrived, Mrs. Foster and Mrs. James C. Hutchins took their places at either end of the tea table, which had been decorated by Mrs. Frank Hibbard in panels of chartreuse, cherry red mats, and twin boxwood Christmas trees whose bases were circled in chartreuse and cherry toned fruits.

The party was planned by Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, chairman of the committee, and Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, with Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes and Mrs. Hopewell Rogers as their vice chairmen. Some of those who enjoyed their efforts were Mrs. Secor Cunningham, Miss Emily Larned, Mrs. Rudolph Prussing, Mrs. Chauncey Blair, Mrs. J. Ballard Moore, Mrs. William H. Mitchell, Mrs. Philip D. Armour Jr., Mrs. Richard T. Crane, Mrs. Orville J. Taylor, Mrs. James R. Offield, and Mrs. Marshall L. Brown.

On Today's Calendar.

The Crystal room of the Drake hotel will be a gay place this afternoon when the Highland Park auxiliary of the Cradle society entertains at a benefit cocktail party at 5 o'clock. Adding to the merriment will be the judging of hats worn by feminine guests by a committee of four men. The winner will be given a new bonnet. Mrs. Charles DeLeuw is chairman of the party. Proceeds will go to the Cradle in Evanston.

Enrique de Lozada, a Bolivian who taught at Harvard university and Williams college, will speak at a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations today in the mural room of the Morrison hotel. His subject will be "There Is No Latin America."

Louis Bromfield will speak on "The Loveliest Houses I Have Ever Seen," at 11 a. m. today in the Arts club. His talk is one in a series presented by the Illinois chapter of the American Institute of Decorators.

A Thanksgiving cabaret dinner dance tonight in the Hotel Moraine-on-the-Lake will open a series of evening parties annually attended by young persons on the north shore. Serving on the committee this year are Mrs. Harold O. Barnes, Mrs. Edwin L. Brashears, Mrs. Thomas Chace, Mrs. Ogden Cook, Mrs. John Cory, Mrs. Fred John Duncombe, Mrs. Denison B. Hull, Mrs. Rufus R. Jeffris, Mrs. Calvin Selfridge, Mrs. Charles W. Sherman, Mrs. David H. Simpson, Mrs. Russell T. Stern, Mrs. Harry B. Sutter, Mrs. William W. Thompson, and Mrs. Kenyon Clark Underwood.

Engagement News.

When Miss Mary K. Burlingame arrives in Wilmette next Wednesday on a 14 day leave from San Diego, Cal., where she has been stationed as an ensign in the WAVES, she will be wearing an engagement ring. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Burlingame, will give a tea in their Wilmette home Dec. 3 to celebrate her engagement to Lt. Richard F. Young of the naval reserve. Miss Burlingame, who met her fiancé in California, was graduated from New Trier High school and from Ohio Wesleyan university. Lt. Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund E. Young of Berkeley, Cal., received his degree from the University of California at Berkeley and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He is on active duty in the Pacific.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Forbush of Brockton, Mass., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Louise, to Robert O. Beatty of the marine corps reserve, son of Vernon D. Beatty of Chicago and the late Mrs. Beatty. Miss Forbush, a graduate of the Walnut Hill school in Natick, Mass., is a senior at the University of Michigan. Her fiancé was graduated from the Shattuck school in Faribault, Minn., and attended Dartmouth college. He now is enrolled in the officer candidate class at the University of Michigan, from which he will be graduated in February.

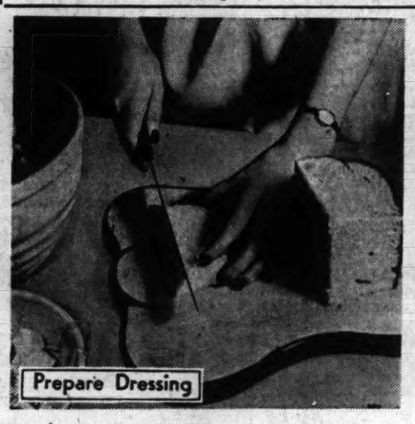
How to Prepare and Roast Thanksgiving Chickens



Prepare Dressing

Stuff Chickens

1. To make a savory bread dressing for the Thanskgiving chickens, cut a pound loaf of bread and ⅓ pound margarine into cubes. Combine with ⅓ cup finely chopped onion, ⅓ cup finely chopped celery, 2 teaspoons (or more) salt, ¼ teaspoon white pepper, ¼ cup chopped parsley, and ¾ teaspoon sage (optional).

2. Add no liquid to dressing, as chicken juices provide moisture. Finished product will be light and fluffy. Fill cavities which have been wiped with a damp cloth and salted. Stuff necks of birds, too, with a little dressing. Recipe makes enough stuffing for two 5 pound chickens. Any extra dressing may be baked separately.

Roast Uncovered

Ready to Carve

3. Sew or skewer openings and truss birds neatly with skewers and string. Brush well wiped skin with melted margarine and place chickens on a rack in roasting pan. Do not cover pan; do not add water. Roast at 325 degrees and allow 30 minutes per pound. Baste several times with melted margarine.

4. To test cooked poultry for doneness, never pierce with fork. Move the leg by holding the end bone; if drumstick thigh joint moves easily, the bird is done. Do not carve chickens immediately as they slice more easily after a short interval of standing. Garnish with crisp greens and cranberry jelly on lemon slices.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Acorn a la King.
[Serves six.]

2 acorn squash
1½ pounds veal, cubed
1½ cups water
2 whole stalks celery, chopped
1 bouillon cube or 1 teaspoon beef extract
1 cup cooked peas
½ cup cooked slivered carrots
Salt, pepper
1 small can button mushrooms
Parsley

Wash and split squash lengthwise, scrape out seeds and pulp, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place in shallow pan. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees for 40 to 60 minutes, or until soft. Place veal in tightly covered pan with water and celery; simmer about 1¼ hours, or until tender. Remove celery, add bouillon, and thicken stock to make gravy. Add seasonings, carrots, and peas. Fill hollows of squash with meat, top with mushrooms, return to oven until slightly brown. Garnish with parsley.

Two Become Brides Today in Winnetka

Wedding bells will ring in Winnetka today for two brides, Miss Lois Mason, daughter of the Frederic Ogden Masons, and Miss Ann Marie Williamson, daughter of the George H. Williamsons.

Miss Mason and Lt. [j. g.] Charles Carstairs Towers of the naval reserve planned their wedding suddenly when he was transferred from the Glenview naval air station to Dallas, Tex. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 p. m. in the Children's chapel of the Winnetka Congregational church, with a reception following in the Mason home.

Here for the ceremony are Lt. Towers' mother, Mrs. Martin B. Saportas of New York City, and his brother-in-law and sister, Comdr. and Mrs. Herbert Riley of Washington, D. C., who will serve as best man and bridesmaid. Another bridesmaid will be Miss Mason's cousin, Miss Sylvia Mason, and Miss Ann Johnson will be maid of honor. Ushers will be Lt. Philip Fisher and Lt. John Dearstyne of the naval reserve. Lt. Towers, who is the son of Vice Adm. John H. Towers, on duty with the navy in the Pacific, and his bride will drive to Dallas after the wedding.

For her marriage to Ensign Roland LeForrest Miller at 8:30 p. m. in Christ church, Winnetka, Miss Williamson will wear a wedding gown trimmed with heirloom rose point lace and carry an antique rose point and mother of pearl fan. A reception will follow in the Williamson home.

Mrs. Emma L. Miller has come from Peoria for her son's marriage, and also here are the bride's godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Milton Mullens of Forest Hills, N. J. Ensign Miller will receive his commission today from the naval training school at Northwestern university. He and his bride will drive to New London, Conn., where he will report for duty Dec. 2 and she will resume her studies at Connecticut college.

Following their marriage last Saturday in the Howes Memorial chapel in Evanston, Capt. Ralph Ferguson Leach of the marines and his bride, the former Harriet Scheuerman, left for Fort Lauderdale, Fla., on a month's wedding trip. The bride, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles S. Scheuerman of Wilmette, was graduated from Northwestern university in 1939 and since then has spent most of her time in Florida with her parents. Capt. Leach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Leach of Elgin, received his degree from the University of Chicago in 1938. He recently returned from two and a half years in the Pacific, and he and his bride will live near Camp Lejeune, N. C., after he reports to his new post Dec. 20.

Announcement is made of the marriage Oct. 14 in St. Philip Neri church of Miss Virginia Woodward, daughter of Mrs. William Woodward of E. 74th st., to John S. Gilbert of the naval reserve, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gilbert of Chicago. The bridegroom's brother, the Rev. Robert Gilbert, came from New York to perform the ceremony, which was followed by a breakfast in the Windermere East hotel and a reception in the home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Woodward. Mr. Woodward, who formerly was on duty at the Glenview naval air station, has reported to his new post at Bremerton, Wash., and his bride is living temporarily with her mother.

Lots of Turkey, Says OPA; Not So, Says WFA

Thanksgiving 1670

Thanksgiving 1670 was a feast of turkey as tempting as modern day festive boards, according to a display in the Paul Revere room of the Chicago Historical society museum. In the display's setting of pre-Revolutionary furnishings a dining table is laid with pewter and lusterware beside a great fireplace. The exhibit will be open the rest of the week, but the Historical society building will be closed Thanksgiving day.

You probably will find a turkey today in your favorite butcher shop, if you take the word of the office of price administration. But the chances are against you, if you depend on the word of the war food administration. However, if you are one of many thousands who don't like to take chances, you already have bought a chicken, or a duck, or maybe a goose for Thanksgiving.

On the optimistic side, George Maier, meat and fowl specialist of the area OPA, said yesterday that last year's turkey problem—and solution—are repeating themselves: That producers are waiting until the last week, to get every possible ounce on their birds, and then bringing them to retail markets themselves to gobble up the 6 cents a pound wholesalers' profit.

F. R. Simpson, WFA marketing specialist, however, said that despite increasing shipments of turkeys from seven midwest states, arriving in Chicago by both rail and truck, many dealers will have few turkeys or none at all, but will have ample supplies of other fowl. Simpson said the turkey supply is and will be at least 50 per cent short of normal and that some dealers have canceled orders for turkeys because they couldn't sell them if they arrived late.

Even the chain food stores, which ordinarily buy from large distributors, are divided on the question. Officials of one, the National Tea company, said they had some turkeys and expected more today, but buyers for the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company said they had found none and didn't expect any.

At any rate, according to Mr. Maier, if you find a turkey you very probably can buy it at the ceiling price of 51 cents a pound with the head, feet, and feathers off, but otherwise not dressed.

The only violation case filed yesterday by Marion W. Isbell, area director, was a suit in federal District court at Hammond, Ind., asking an injunction against Mrs. Lulu Jablonski of Lake county, Ind., seeking to restrain her from selling turkeys she raises at over ceiling prices. Isbell said two OPA agents watched her sell 1,180 pounds to Maurice Udolph, a butcher at 7308 Rogers av., at 1¾ cents a pound over the ceiling, plus a side payment of $50.15.

Despite the situation on the civilian front, soldiers and sailors at home and abroad will be well supplied. Thirty million pounds of turkey have been shipped overseas for Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Year's dinners, and an additional 15 million pounds have been obtained for use in continental United States and nearby islands, the Chicago quartermaster depot announced.

Additional turkey was processed and packed in 12 ounce cans to be shipped to German held prisoners by way of Switzerland for distribution by the American Red Cross, the depot said. A similar provision for Americans held prisoner by Japan is expected to be made thru Vladivostok. Other turkey supplies were dropped by air to American forces in Burma.

The master Thanksgiving menu for the army and navy, to be served in the United States and equaled as nearly as possible thruout the world, consists of grapefruit juice, roast turkey with giblet sauce and sage dressing, mashed potatoes, string beans, corn, cranberry sauce, celery, olives, hot rolls, butter, pumpkin pie, apples, tangerines, candy, nuts, and coffee.

Inquiring Camera Girl

By Maryon Zylstra

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. T. C. Methvin, Dexter, Ga.]

THE QUESTION.

What is the most amusing peculiarity you have noticed in a boss while dictating?

WHERE ASKED.

Wrigley building.

THE ANSWERS.

Evelyn Bergquist, secretary, 1507 Bryn Mawr av.—He wasn't a habitual smoker but whenever he sat down at his desk to dictate, it became a nervous habit with him. I think he did it merely because he liked to light the cigaret. He'd light one after another. This was before the present cigaret shortage, of course.

Norma Reisin, secretary, 1305 N. Washtenaw av.—In the first place my boss would get off to a good start by lighting a big, long, black cigar. With the cigar and the letter nothing could stop him. The more interested he became the faster he talked. If he was angry, he dictated in an angry tone.

Susan Grothier, secretary, 2323½ Commonwealth av.—While dictating he often says things that do not pertain to the subject matter. For example, "Dear Mr. Smith: I can't get over the way that girl walks." That's a passing thought and isn't to be taken down, But I have quoted things he didn't mean to put in letters.

Martha Van Berkum, secretary, 66 Cedar st.—A former boss had a very amusing peculiarity. He'd dictate a short while, then turn around in his swivel chair and think with his back turned to me. When he thought of another sentence, he'd turn again and dictate. Before he'd finish he'd go around several times.

Marjorie Lewis, secretary, 4815 Kimball av.—He constantly shuffles papers on his desk. If there are no papers on his desk he churns thru the ones in the desk drawers. Sometimes he's looking for something and other times he does it unknowingly. By the time he gets thru he has papers all over.

Jean Cooper, secretary, 912 Margate, ter.—When there's a lot to be done he starts out with enthusiasm. If, after dictating for quite a while, there is no apparent decrease in the amount of work he buries his face in his hands, shakes his head slowly, and says, "Oyi Yoi Yoi." Then he goes to work again.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Man of the Hour.

For names in business what do you think of this one: Mr. Cigarette Camelle, Durham, N. C.?

CIVIL SERVICE FILE CLERK.

Sweet Tooth.

Maybe you've often wondered, as has this addled brain, how telegraph operators contrive to fling messages across the continent so they arrive in anything approximating the original wording.

Recently a Chicago family was startled to receive an urgent telegram from the son, leaving college to go into the army. The wire asked that a large fruit cake be sent immediately. The mother, puzzled over this sudden appearance of her son's sweet tooth, dutifully sent a fine, handsome fruit cake—in all possible haste.

The boy had wired for a large suitcase.

The Meanie.

In answer to the inquiry regarding what has become of the old fashioned girl who worked in an office and didn't smoke—one of them is happily married to the "pick of the crop" of the salesmen from her office—and getting quite a kick out of the current cigaret shortage.

OLD FASHIONED
WHITE COLLAR GIRL.

Those Questions.

May I add a few words on the why and wherefore of seemingly superfluous questions on application blanks?

Taking it from the employer's point of view, of primary importance is the question, "What is the least you'll work for?" That, my gal, means, if you're hired at all, it probably will be for the amount you list in answer to that question. Even had the employer been willing to pay more, he'd be foolish to do so after you've already committed yourself at the lower figure.

Of equal importance is the question, "Can you operate a switch board, addressograph, adding machine, calculator, typewriter, teletype machine, etc." If the answer is yes and you indicate you are capable of operating practically every machine used in an office—and have a knowledge of bookkeeping, shorthand, and law as well—the employer mentally rubs his hands in glee. You stand a chance of being hired at the minimum salary in the capacity of "clerk" or "typist"—and finding yourself all but running the business single handed—at a clerk's salary.

Furthermore, the question regarding what your father does [or did] for a living indicates how many raises you may ask to remain satisfied. If you should make the mistake, as I did, of honestly listing "retired" after the question, you'll find the response may be that any one whose father is retired isn't in too great need of money. Therefore, raises will be harder to get.

Too, whether you live at home, or pay room and board makes quite a difference. Even tho your work and abilities may be equal, you may find the girl living away from home demands higher pay.

Finally age is of primary importance, not because women are less able to perform their duties when older but because they may ask more money.

N.U. Head Hits 'Adolescents' in Universities

New Michigan Provost

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 21 (AP).—Dr. James P. Adams, 49, vice president of Brown university, Providence, R. I., has been appointed provost of the University of Michigan, President Alexander G. Ruthven announced today. Dr. Adams replaces E. Blythe Stason, dean of the university school of law, who has resigned to devote full time to duties as head of the law school. The provost is the chief university officer next to the president. Dr. Adams is expected to take office Jan. 1.

Sharp criticism of "the one or two American universities" that admit high school sophomores was contained in the annual report to the trustees on the state of the university which President Franklyn B. Snyder of Northwestern made yesterday.

[The two institutions of higher learning that admit high school students after their sophomore year are the University of Chicago and St. John's college, Annapolis, Md. President Hutchins of the University of Chicago is a member of the board of directors of St. John's.]

"We believe that the secondary schools of America, with all their faults, are better qualified to educate adolescent boys and girls than are colleges and universities, with all their faults," he commented.

It is unfair, Dr. Snyder argued, to transfer high school sophomores to university campuses, where the intellectual, social, and physical standards are established by much older men and women. Moreover, it is unwise, in his opinion, to deprive these boys and girls of the privilege of leadership which might be theirs in the senior year of high school.

"Hence," he said, "we shall continue our present practice of asking the high schools to 'prepare' young people for Northwestern, and of admitting to Northwestern only those whom we think capable, without undue coddling, of growing to full stature as educated men and women."

He added that in selecting 1,400 for matriculation this fall the university was forced to decline admission to 2,600 others.

On the general subject of admission standards and practices, he said that it is Northwestern's obligation to admit only such students as will profit by membership in the student body and contribute to the welfare of the student body.

"We do not define education in intellectual terms alone," he asserted. "We think of it, especially on the undergraduate level, as—to paraphrase Arnold—an inward, general, and harmonious development of all the powers of the human personality."

The university president reported that all operating expenses of 1943-'44, amounting to more than 10 million dollars, were paid out of current income. Gifts for the year totalled $6,536,599, he said, of which about $2,800,000 came from the estate of the late Walter P. Murphy. The budget for this year, he explained, made possible a large number of salary increases and the appointment of some 30 new faculty members. He said that a university committee, headed by Dean Kenneth Olson, was making a study of Northwestern's future.

"I'm a hostess in a busy restaurant.

"Making a good impression is part of my job. I can't risk even a hint of perspiration.

"FRESH is one deodorant I can count on to keep me dainty even through those nerve-racking rush hours. FRESH stopped my perspiration worries for good!"

'Personal and Private'

SYNOPSIS: John Ranger, owner of Circle-JR ranch, and three cattlemen go in search of rustlers who shot and killed Rod Spillman. On the way to the crossroads store Sandra and Nelson Ranger are intercepted by bandits. Two rustlers, riding warily out of the hills, scrutinize the valley, then signal for the herd to move on. Four armed men appear in the valley. In the rustlers' attempt to get away, one of them is killed and a stranger is taken prisoner. Uhlmann and Sholte are anxious to hang the stranger, believing he is one of Scarface's bandits, but John Ranger and Russell Hart prevent it. Uhlmann keeps guard over the captured cowboy, Sloan, while the others drive the recovered cattle. Bill Hays warns them of the approach of Pablo Lopez' raiders. During the encounter Sloan escapes and rescues Sandra and Nelson from the bandits and escorts them back to Blunt's, where the men are hoping to hang him. John Ranger comes to his aid and dresses his wound. When Sloan's innocence is established he refuses to shake the hand of Pete Sholte.

INSTALMENT IX.

RECOGNIZED.

Cape Sloan rose, a wiry brown man with a dynamic force in him that was arresting. His gaze traveled with leisurely contempt over Sholte and rested on the pachydermous face of Uhlmann.

"In a moment, Mr. Ranger." His steady, narrowed eyes were still on Uhlmann. "It was my left shoulder the greaser cut," he mentioned, slurring the words gently. "My right arm is good as ever, if anybody wants to find out."

Ranger stepped swiftly between the German and Sloan. "Cut that kind of talk, both of you," he ordered sternly.

Sloan's smile was grim. "You in particular stay away from me, Sholte," he said. "My promise still stands. You can't call me a rustler and get off scotfree."

The Circle-JR ranch house was a long, low, rambling building that had been constructed bit by bit, new wings being added as the owner became more prosperous. Deep porches ran around the front and sides, with vines climbing trellises to give protection from the broiling heat of midday. The house was furnished comfortably and with taste. There was a piano in the sitting room, and along the walls were well filled bookcases. In the bedroom to which Nelson took the guest cheer'tu' chintz curtains had been hung.

As soon as Sloan had washed away the dust of the journey he was called to supper. He was starting to sit down when a huge black man in an apron came in from the kitchen carrying a platter of fried chicken. The Negro's staring eyes giggled at him. It was a bad moment for Cape Sloan. His stomach muscles tightened. For a second or two he missed what Ranger was saying but he picked up the sequence and answered before the cattleman noticed. During the rest of the meal he gave his surface mind to the conversation at the table. His deeper thoughts were concerned with Jim Budd and the consequences of this unfortunate meeting.

Since he was a convalescent, Sandra insisted that he retire early. While he was undressing a knock came on the door of his room. It was Jim Budd who tiptoed in after his invitation to enter.

Sloan looked at him from the bed where he was sitting. He wondered what winds of mischance had blown the Negro here.

"And to think I had to bump into you," he said.

"Yassuh," Jim agreed. "We sure done come a long way to meet up."

"How do you happen to be working at the Circle-JR?"

"Why, when they turn me loose I kinda jes' started driftin' east, as you might say. Mister Ranger lookin' for a cook. Me, I workin' in a restaurant at Benson where he come in, an' we fix up for me to do the cookin' here."

"If they knew you had been in the pen they wouldn't keep you a day."

"I reckon that's c'rect. But I wouldn't know. Mister Ranger sure a fine man, an' the little missis she the finest lady in the land. Mebbe they might keep me. You wouldn't go for to tell them, Mister Webb."

"The name is Sloan." He frowned at the honest dish face of the cook. "I don't know. I'll have to think about that."

"I ain't any bad man. I never wuz. That fellow Candish I gouge was a mighty bad killer. He jump me."

Sloan knew that was true. He had wounded Candish in self-defense. No doubt he was devoted to the family for whom he was now working. The ranch guest felt a wry sense of sardonic amusement at the way he had inverted their roles. He was the one who would be in danger if the truth were known. For he had escaped before his sentence was finished.

"Mister Webb—"

"Sloan," interrupted the ranch guest.

"All right, Sloan then. You wuz Webb when you wuz in the pen at Yuma with me, but if you say Sloan that all right with me. What I wanna say is that I done served my time in prison for wounding Candish. When they turned me loose I came 'way out here to make a fresh start. I'm doing fine. I'm with good folks I would do a heap for. I never done you any harm. Why for do you want to stir things up and get me flung out on my ear?"

"I don't want to throw you out of a good job where you are giving satisfaction, Jim. But I want to play fair with the Rangers, too."

There was a faint gleam of grinning irony in Jim's reply. "I reckon then you'll want to tell them all about yourself, too, Mister We—Sloan."

"No, Jim, I don't want to do that. I'm here just for a short visit. I don't want them or anybody else to know about my stay in the pen at Yuma. We all knew there that you aren't a bad man, Jim. You ought never to have been convicted. I don't see how it can hurt the Rangers for you to stay here. You really like them?"

"I ain't got any folks of my own—never did have. Here's where I wan' to stay the rest of my life."

"That is fine, Jim. We'll call bygones bygones. What about me? Can you keep that big grinning mouth shut and not let anybody know you've ever seen me before?"

"Sure I can. Llsten, Mr. Webb—Sloan."

"Sloan," corrected the other. "Be sure to get that right."

"Yessir. Well, I think a powerful lot of Miss Sandra. When you rode in hell for leather and saved her from a whole passle of bandits you ce'tainly went up to the head of the class with me. My big mouth is done already padlocked."

At the Circle-JR the guest took life easier than he had done for many a day. Sandra did not let him get up with the family but saw that Jim prepared a breakfast for him long after the others had eaten. He lounged about the place and let the sunny hours slip away in pleasant indolence.

Nelson hovered around him a good deal. The boy was passing thru an attack of hero worship and was drawn to Sloan as a moth to the lamp. The young man had what it takes to win a boy—a touch of recklessness, cool courage, an easy, indifferent grace, and back of him a life lived dangerously.

Of the Golden Girl he caught only glimpses during the day as she flitted to and fro about her work. Since her mother's death two years before she had been mistress of the ranch. The supplies for the house and for the boys at the bunkhouse were bought by her. Sloan was surprised at the efficiency with which she did her job.

Thru the Looking Glass

Ever notice that when you switch from the bright colors of your summer wardrobe to the somber ones of your winter costumes your hair always seems to need brightening up? Dull clothing colors seem to make dull hair look duller.

The best way to beat this dreadful problem of lusterless hair is to correct the condition and to shampoo and brush until your arms ache. But there are little external aids to hair luster that you can lean on to some extent, too.

One of our own favorites is a solid brilliantine, made by a fine manufacturer, that does double duty. In its own nice way it helps a bit to counteract the dryness that is responsible for hair dullness; it's made of good oils that help give sheen to oil hungry hair that lacks it. But it isn't sticky actually, nor does it give the hair that greasy, stringy look that's even worse, if anything could be, than the aggravating lack of luster.

This is what you need when you dress up in dark clothes to give your hair a quick shine and to make it manageable. Being solid, it's awfully easy to use; you simply rub a little on the palms of your hands and slick up the hair strands and the hair ends. They become instantly more docile and they acquire an attractive gleam.

This brilliantine is fine for the working woman, who can keep the glass jar of it in her desk for use when she restores her face and tidies her hair during the day. But it's particularly good if her hair is the dry, dull looking kind that seems all stiff brittle ends and does nothing at all to flatter her face. Sheen on hair does a great deal to make the face it frames look younger and fresher.

Childhood Is Enriched by Little Rituals

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"For Lettice there was continual pleasure in the ritual of life. She liked to observe it even in trifling things: Small ceremonies that were repeated till they grew rich in associations and charged with the memories of 'last time.' Now one piece of the journey, inseparable from the arrival at Westford, was the taking of refreshment at Owen's shop. Whenever she gave her unvarying order for tea, jam sandwich, and queen cakes, Lettice recalled other occasions . . . often alone, sometimes taking the children."

It isn't until one is grown or nearly grown, I think, that one dwells articulately on the loved familiar rituals of special occasions. I have noticed with my own young persons that it is only now, since they have left childhood behind, that they talk more about, "at Thanksgiving time we always did this," or, "Don't you remember how at Christmas time we always did that?" As the "Lettice" of my quotation expressed it to herself, "small ceremonies . . . repeated till they grew rich in associations and charged with the memories of 'last time.'"

Children who are brought up in a completely matter of fact way do not have these memories. On the other hand, children in whose past certain little customs and ceremonies have always been part of special holidays, cherish these memories. Of course they enjoy them at the time, because they have such capacity to live in the present. But it is in retrospect usually that they "savor" those lovely or amusing experiences, those family "rituals" which grow richer with repetition.

I have written in this vein before, but it usually has been related to Christmas, which was always, with us, the biggest day. But in some families Thanksgiving looms as large. Even if there is heaviness in your heart this year, try to preserve some of your usual observances and rituals connected with Thanksgiving in the children's minds, for their sakes.

[The quotation in this article is from a new and delightful book, "The Captain's Wife," by Elluned Lewis, published by the Macmillan company, New York.]

Natural History Museum Announces Recent Gifts

Among the recent gifts to the Chicago Natural History [formerly Field] museum is a collection of seven chalcedony intaglios from ancient Carthage, a green jade ring, and a citrine cane head, presented to the H. N. Higinbotham Hall of Gems and Jewels by the late Mr. Higinbotham's daughter, Mrs. Richard T. Crane. At the same time the department of anthropology received a collection from the estate of the late William F. E. Gurley, and zoölogical specimens were sent from the Solomon Islands and New Guinea by Pvt. William J. Beecher, Maj. Henry J. Bennett, and L. A. Psekany.

Musical Arts Series Opened by Smeterlin

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Jan Smeterlin, the Polish pianist, played whimsical and idiomatic Chopin to open the Musical Arts Piano series in Orchestra hall last night, replacing Josef Lhevinne, who is ill. A specialist in his compatriot's resourceful repertory, Mr. Smeterlin approaches it with admiring affection, a lively technique, and a basic gayety chiefly concerned with the alluring surface of the piano. He is no man to probe to the bones of music, or to reveal its headier splendors, but he knows its charms of fluency and sparkle, and he speaks Chopin's language. If he drops a word or blurs a sentence, he knows the idiomatic short cut to the meaning.

You might have guessed much of this in advance, even if Mr. Smeterlin had been a stranger, merely by looking at his program. He is a scherzo man. He likes its crisp brilliance, set off by the contrast of the voluptuous, the somber, or the dreamy, as Chopin felt the mood. He listed four of them, including the brilliant one in E major and the irresistible one in C sharp minor, and he played the great Sonata in B flat minor as much for its scherzo and the presto of the "gossiping hands" as for the gravely lovely statement of the opening theme and the somber funeral march which, in suddenly serious mood, he carved out of an unwonted richness of tone, somewhere between granite and the softness of velvet in mourning.

But in general Mr. Smeterlin was not so much concerned with the sustained effect of a big work as with sketching in miniature. He delighted in turning apt phrases, in playing two handed leapfrog with cascading scales, and in beguiling the ear with touches of wit. His playing of the B-flat minor mazurka had almost a droll touch, and the Etude in E minor had a staccato glint that seemed to be Smeterlin at his happiest, which often was also his most enjoyable. And did you happen to notice that he bows like Lily Pons, with a lot of gay little bird nods in between the deeper bends?

Girl Scouts Become Santa's Helpers for Annual Fund Drive

Girl Scouts sponsored by the Volunteers of America turned out as Santa Claus' helpers yesterday. At the Volunteers' headquarters, 2841 Washington blvd., they helped to open boxes of some new Santa Claus suits and to get them ready for use Saturday, when the first Santas will go on the streets to solicit contributions from then until Christmas.

The donations go to fill Christmas baskets supplied by the Volunteers of America for Chicago's needy and to help with year around welfare and youth work of the organization. Spokesmen said that despite the number of available jobs many people still need help, including the sick and those otherwise unable to work.

The new Santa Claus outfits are made of red velveteen, trimmed with fluffed rayon to simulate white fur bands. The black oilcloth boots have white furry bands at their tops.

Camera Club Pays Visit to Tribune Color Studios

Thirty-five members of the Camera club at Horace Mann High school, Gary, visited the color studios of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE last night. Edward H. Johnson, studio chief, conducted them on the tour. The visitors included students and instructors.

Household Forum

—By Louise Bargelt—

Mrs. Bert S., Chicago—If you are a novice at washing your husband's shirts you will find that you have fewer wrinkles to iron out if you hang the shirts by the tails and let the breeze play on the material.

Mrs. Ted A., Kokomo, Ind.—My husband uses our garden sprayer to wet down ashes when he cleans out the furnace. For years he had a special hose for the purpose, but now that it has given out he finds the garden sprayer a good substitute.

Minnie H., Chicago—I keep a list of the articles on my clothes closet shelves. I tack this list on inside of closet door, changing list as articles are removed and new ones stored.

Mrs. Beth G., Springfield, Ill.—My son insists it saves him work if he applies a little dry corn starch on our car after he has waxed it. He uses a piece of cheesecloth for the work. The cornstarch also produces a high luster, he says.

Novel Potholders

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Crocheted ornamental and useful potholders are found in every well ordered household. The rosy red tomato and the luscious looking grapes against a green leaf background will do much to intrigue visitors to the kitchen, and prove serviceable to the cook.

For instructions in crocheting the novelty potholders, No. 1167, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th av., New York, 1, N. Y.

Marjorie Burgess' Recital Has Good and Bad Moments

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

Marjorie Burgess, a soprano, who formerly hailed from Evanston, gave a recital in Kimball hall last night that had at least some unusual program material to recommend it. It had, too, the sometimes notable and sometimes inexplicable accompaniments of Andre Skalski.

Wagner is not the best writer of songs with which to begin a program, and consequently Miss Burgess was hardly warmed up to the requirements of "Schmerzen." "Träume," on the other hand, called forth a warmth of tone and a degree of feeling that was not matched by anything we heard her sing later, and would have been wholly successful had it not been for Mr. Skalski's fast tempo and strange ideas of phrasing. Neither the Brahms song nor Strauss' "Cäcile," which completed the opening group, were distinguished in style or vocal manner.

Of the four songs by the American composer, Mary Howe, two were in German, one in French, and only one, about a rag picker, was considered worthy the language of Shakespeare and Steinbeck. It mattered very little, tho, for they were unvocal and musically arid. Two of the bad boys of English music, Lord Berners and Arthur Bliss, turned up with better but by no means important material, and Miss Burgess made the former's "Cradle Song" and the latter's "The Buckle" decidedly interesting.

Miss Burgess has musicianship and taste, and if her voice ever gains the warmth it now lacks, she may turn into achievements what are now only possibilities.

Increased Meat Supply for Schools Approved

Suppliers of specified meats will be permitted to apply for increased sales quotas to meet the needs of public and parochial school cafeterias in the future, the office of price administration said yesterday. With more mothers going into war work, the number of lunches served in school cafeterias are increasing, the OPA explained. Sellers of fabricated beef and veal cuts, ground beef, and miscellaneous beef items may apply for new quotas to the national office of the OPA in Washington.

75 SPARS Attend Tea to Mark Anniversary

Seventy-five SPARS stationed in Chicago and ranking officers of other women's services yesterday were on liberty from their jobs to attend a late afternoon tea in the Wedgwood room at Marshall Field & Co. marking the second anniversary tomorrow of the women's reserve of the coast guard. A birthday cake was cut and mannikins presented a style show of lounging and sports fashions.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 21.—Zasu Pitts can never be accused of stranding a company on the Pacific coast. She handed in her notice on "Ramshackle Inn" more than two weeks ago, but she'll play the troupe back east rather than quit the show here. To do that she turned down a great deal of money and a fine part in Rene Clair's "Ten Little Indians." . . . At her home she gave a sort of welcome home party for the Tom Girdlers, Frank Freemans, Barney Balaban, Hal Wallises, and Agnes Moorehead and husband. Quite a gathering. Frank Freeman told me Zasu's young daughter, Ann, who recently was graduated from Stanford, turned down a $75 a week contract. She doesn't want to act. Sensible girl that. And Zasu acted out how she learned to stand on her toes in one week to play the toe dancer in "You Can't Take It with You." That scene must be on the screen and soon—it's a riot. Leaving her home I noticed that Jimmy Melton had parked one of his Stanley Steamers in her garage. Can't you see Pitts trying to manage that on Hollywood blvd. during Christmas traffic. . . . Art Linkletter of "People Are Funny" fame will do a picture with Jack Haley built around the show for Pine and Thomas.

Like Old Man River.

Eddie Norris, mixed up in the battle of the balcony, is rehearsing a New York play, but Eddie's lawyer is going nerts. He went to New York to take Norris' deposition, but on arrival there learned the district attorney here had decided to drop the case. He returned and as he landed the case had been re-opened. Even tho it has been re-opened, you can bet your bottom dollar it will be dropped again. I'm told many of the participants in this case had a pre-dawn dancing party at Sunset plaza the other morning. . . . Bill Eythe, who plays opposite Tallulah Bankhead in "The Royal Scandal," will emerge a star. Taloo has finished and gone east, but Bill hasn't. Bill hates horses. He doesn't know it yet, but he's going to have to ride one and in tight pants, too. . . . Talent runs in the Disney family. You all know what Walt is famous for, and his daughter, Diana, could be a concert pianist. . . . Larry Adler tells me that Sgt. Earl Brown, Paul Draper's former valet, was the only guy he met in the South Pacific who got a group of the boys together to talk politics. 'Twas called "colored political action group." Had 350 members. Brown asked Larry to entertain the boys during a session. He did, but got off quickly. He felt he was slowing up the proceedings. They weren't interested in music—only discussion.

Seeing the Town.

At Mocambo, which also was packed, Vincent Youmans was buying dinner for Joan Early, who's bound to be picked up for the movies. She has that placid look, smiles at everything, only half of which she understands. She's bound to be a star. . . . Steve Laird paid a bet to Dwight Whitney for being there. . . . Chef at the Town House had no regard for my figure. Insisted upon making me a Gertie Lawrence special dessert, which he whipped up for her in Chicago. It's vanilla ice cream floating in a lake of hot rum with browned sugar and shaved orange rind. Oh, yum. . . . Vivian Blaine finally got a real part in "Nob Hill." Says she's beginning to arrive. The treasury department asked her to make a week's personal appearances for the war loan drive. . . . Walter Colmes, who used to be a member of my staff, is producing and directing "Johnny March" for Republic. Smart lad. . . . I'm not surprised Metro is pointing up the love story between Van Johnson and Phyllis Thaxter rather than glorifying B-25s in "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo." In "American Romance" the studio glorified steel. It isn't doing as well as glorified flesh. . . . Joel McCrea tells it on himself and Richard Dix. They were in Birmingham, Ala., on a hospital tour. The boys were feeling pretty pleased with themselves after a warm reception and were relaxing in one of the reading rooms when five flyers from a B-29 came in. One asked Dix his age, then asked Joel his. Joel said he was 39. The flyer said, "How long have you been in pictures?" "Fifteen years," said Joel. "You're just about on your last five, aren't you?" said the pilot. That pilot doesn't know a Hollywood leading man's life begins at 40. . . . Frances Dee is in New York to do a stage play opposite Ralph Bellamy.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead, five of clubs.

Many players form an early impression about a hand and nothing that they learn from the subsequent bidding can deflect them from their one-track course. In today's hand the first two rounds of bidding were eminently sound, but South's bid of three no trump was inexcusable. He had formed the preconceived notion that this was a three no trump hand, and the fact that partner warned him distinctly against it made no impression. It is true that the South hand is of the no trump type, but that does not excuse him for having failed to listen to North's description of his hand.

North's hand was obviously unsuited to no trump play or he would not have taken the trouble to bid three diamonds, he would have bid three no trump. South's proper bid at this point is three hearts, which North would carry to game. Only two heart tricks and a diamond would be lost. At the no trump contract, against the club opening, South was helpless to take more than seven tricks.

South argued that he could not raise the hearts because he did not have normal trump support. This argument was without basis. The three heart bid is not a raise, but a mere preference. It says in effect, "Partner, you must remember that I refused to raise your hearts. I preferred to bid two no trump because I would like to play this hand at no trump. If, however, you insist upon playing it as a suit, we might just as well play it at hearts as at diamonds, because I have just as many. However, I would appreciate your taking me back to no trump if you possibly can."

It was also suggested that North should not permit the hand to play at no trump. This is not good reasoning. North has already shown that he desires to play the hand at a suit and has been overridden in his judgment by South. To dispute any further would be a babying gesture towards his partner.

A good general doctrine to follow is that when your partner has shown two suits, try within reason to show a preference, particularly where your preference is for a major.

South has already stated that he desires no trump. To repeat it by bidding three no trump is in effect telling the same story twice.

TOMORROW'S PROBLEM.

Short Models in House Coats Gay and Smart

BY REA SEEGER.

Short house coats, designed just like the full length models and then sliced off at the knees, are always smart and surprisingly practical. This year's models include snug padded and quilted numbers, made of brilliant prints, precise dotted rayons, gleaming satins, and a few stripes. Gayest of all are eye catching authentic Scotch plaids. They're snappy gift items, too, ideal for the gal who stays at home or for the career girl who spends the week-end around the house.

These coats are easy to slip into when you have to help the youngsters who are due at school around 8 o'clock. Also they're warm enough for wear when you dash out with the pup early in the morning or late at night.

The plaids are knockout, huge double crossed plaids in red, green, yellow, and bright blue, against such unusual background colors as red, gold, blue, and off-white. The black velvet collars and cuffs that dramatize the full length affairs are not used on the short models, but the wide, convertible collar of the same plaid as the coat makes effective revers and dashing wide cuffs. Both long and short coats have tie sash belts and a single side seam pocket. They are unquestionably the gayest, most colorful house coats in town.

If you require something less eye blinding, try the very feminine knee length coats of solid color in either flame red or navy blue. These are padded and quilted, lined with strong contrast color, have simple, long sleeves, a high, round, collarless neckline, and a neat buckled belt. More feminine models are made of dainty floral printed rayons featuring white or pastel backgrounds, with sprigs of flowers in pink and blue with green leaves. These, too, are simple in detail and padded for extra warmth, altho all are light as a feather.

CROP INSURANCE BILL FLAYED AS 'TREASURY RAID'

Termed Scheme to Boost Burocrat Pay Roll.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—Proposed legislation to revive the New Deal's defunct crop insurance program ran into opposition today from both sides of the house in the opening debate on the measure.

Rep. Tarver [D., Ga.] warned in a floor speech that reënactment of the insurance plan would result in a "raid" of millions of dollars on the federal treasury without appreciable benefit to the nation's farmers. He termed the measure a plan to increase the federal burocracy by recreating the Federal Crop Insurance corporation.

Tarver recalled that the wheat and cotton insurance programs, started in 1939 and killed by congress in 1943, cost the taxpayers $31,963,000 in administrative expenses, or more than the total net benefits of $31,150,000 paid to insuring farmers.

Few Take Insurance.

Under the old program, Tarver continued, less than 10 per cent of the cotton farmers and fewer than one-third of the wheat raisers chose to buy federal insurance.

Tarver sought to kill the bill by offering an amendment to strike out the enacting clause, but was voted down.

On the Republican side, Rep. Murray [Wis.] said the new bill has the same defects as the old measure. By providing insurance for only three crops—cotton, wheat, and flax—the measure discriminates among farmers, he charged. Moreover, he added, the proposed program covers three relatively plentiful crops instead of scarcer products.

Chairman Flannagan [D., Va.] of the agriculture committee, leading the fight for the bill, argued that farmers are entitled to government crop insurance, because they cannot buy such protection in any private company. Altho only three crops are included in the proposed law, he said, it is contemplated that others will be added after insurance experiments are made with them in a few representative areas.

Limitation Set.

The bill, as reported by the agriculture committee, would authorize farmers to insure 1945 crops of wheat, cotton, and flax up to a maximum of 75 per cent of their average yields, with a limitation that the total insurance cannot be greater than a farmer's actual investment in his crop.

As tentatively amended by the house today, the insurance could not be sold in any county unless at least 50 farms in the county, or one-third of the farmers in the case of counties with few farms, participate.

The bill further provides for "trial" insurance programs on a similar basis in not more than 20 counties for each of these crops: Corn, tobacco, rice, peanuts, soybeans, sugar beets, citrus fruits, tame hay, oats, barley, rye, dried beans, potatoes, and other vegetables.

A house vote on the measure is expected tomorrow.

F.D.R. SAYS HE JUST 'DAMNED' VOTE MACHINE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—President Roosevelt today denied he had taken the name of the Lord in vain just before casting a ballot for a fourth term for himself in the polling booth at the frame town hall of his boyhood home at Hyde Park, N. Y.

The chief executive acknowledged he said "damn" when the pull-rod of the voting booth stuck, but insisted that he hadn't preceded it with another short word.

At his news conference Mr. Roosevelt was asked if he had said "anything sinister" in the voting booth. Since the election ministerial organizations have complained against use of Presidential profanity reported by a magazine.

The report in the magazine had said:

"From the green-curtained voting booth came a clank of gears as the main control lever jerked irritably back and forth. Then a voice, familiar to all of the United States and to most of the world, spoke distinctly from behind the curtains: 'The ——damned thing won't work.'"

FLYER'S BABY DIES; HE NEVER SAW HER.

Patricia Lee Jerrems, 3½ months old, daughter of Lt. Raymond Jerrems, a flyer believed to be on his way home from Italy, was found dead in her crib early yesterday in her home at 7514 S. Wolcott av. The mother, Alice, said her husband never saw the baby.

ROWE REVEALS VOTING MARGINS IN COOK COUNTY

Cook county pluralities of Democratic candidates for seven state offices in the election Nov. 7 were announced by Secretary of State Rowe yesterday as follows:

Thomas J. Courtney for governor, 188,483 votes; Edward C. Hunter for lieutenant governor, 228,287; Edward J. Barrett for secretary of state, 337,680; William Vicars for state auditor, 221,404; Earl W. Merritt for state treasurer, 234,404; Sveinbjorn Johnson for attorney general, 218,025, and Casimir Griglik for Supreme court clerk, 213,539. Barrett alone was elected.

A Prayer of Thanksgiving

God of our fathers . . . at this Thanksgiving time our hearts are filled to overflowing . . . our eyes, once wet with tears, are drier now . . . and broken hearts are surely mending because of Thy blessings unto us. A mighty fortress is our God! . . . And that Divine guidance which has always been our priceless heritage is showing us the way! For this we offer thanks. Thou hast stood beside our leaders . . . our loved ones, departed . . . and those who have remained at home. Thou hast given us courage and led us victoriously into battle . . . to build those things which Thou hast taught us to be righteous! For this we offer thanks. May we in turn bring to Thee, as proof of our devotion, the day when righteousness shall cover the earth . . . as the waters cover the sea.

CROWLEY HEADS ALL-AMERICA CONFERENCE

START POLL TO PICK BIG NINE'S MOST VALUABLE

Tribune Football to Go to Winner.

Honor Roll

WINNERS of The Chicago Tribune silver football trophy, given annually to the player voted the most valuable in the Western conference, follow:

1943—Otto Graham, Northwestern.
1942—Dave Schreiner, Wisconsin.
1941—Jack Graf, Ohio State.
1940—Tom Harmon, Michigan.
1939—Nile Kinnick, Iowa.
1938—Howard Weiss, Wisconsin.
1937—Corby Davis, Indiana.
1936—Vernon Huffman, Indiana.
1935—Jay Berwanger, Chicago.
1934—Pug Lund, Minnesota.
1933—Joe Laws, Iowa.
1932—Harry Newman, Michigan.
1931—Clarence Munn, Minnesota.
1930—Wesley Fesler, Ohio State.
1929—Bill Glassgow, Iowa.
1928—Chuck Bennett, Indiana.
1927—Ken Rouse, Chicago.
1926—Benny Friedman, Michigan.
1925—Tim Lowry, Northwestern.
1924—Red Grange, Illinois.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Who are the most valuable football players to their teams in the Western conference? And when these nine young men are chosen by their teammates, which one of them will be elected the most valuable player in the Big Nine?

Each of the nine players chosen as most valuable to the respective teams will receive a miniature white gold football. The most valuable player in the conference will be given a sterling silver football, actual size, which will be presented by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for the 21st year.

Squads Will Pick Stars.

All conference teams will complete their schedules Saturday. The four conference games are headlined by the championship contest between Michigan and Ohio State in Columbus, O., and also include Illinois at Northwestern, Minnesota at Wisconsin, and Indiana at Purdue. Iowa finishes its season with the Iowa Seahawks.

As soon as possible after Saturday's games, each university squad will meet to elect its most valuable player. In a score of years this has come to be the highest possible award because the recipient is chosen by his teammates, who know far better than any one else his value to the squad thruout the campaign.

There are no restrictions on the voting at each of the universities except that the ballot is secret.

Merit Alone Counts.

In the customary mine run of conference and national honor teams, veterans receive more consideration than first year players. Moreover, there always is the tendency to spread out the selections to include as many teams and sections as possible. In selection of the most valuable player, position and year of competition are immaterial. All nine most valuable players—the honor team of the Western conference—may be linemen or backs.

Announcement of each of the most valuable players will be made in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. When the panel of nine men is completed, the most valuable player in the conference will be chosen. The final standing of the teams will have no bearing on the selection. Contribution to team play is the sole basis for selection.

Otto Graham 1943 Choice.

Twenty-one votes will be cast to name the conference's most valuable player. The electors are the nine conference coaches, nine officials of the conference, Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics for the Big Nine; Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, and the writer.

Otto Graham, Northwestern's great half back, was named the most valuable player in the conference for the 1943 season. Graham now is in pre-flight training at the University of North Carolina. Otto was the 20th player honored in the annual selections, which began in 1924 when Red Grange, Illinois' famed half back, was chosen. Nile Kinnick of Iowa, who was chosen most valuable in 1939, has given his life in the service of his country.

Gardiner Hospital Wins Touch Football Title

Gardiner General hospital won the touch football championship of group 2 of the 6th service command yesterday, defeating Fort Sheridan, 13 to 0, in a game played at 48th st. and the lake. The winners' touchdowns were made by John Prioletti and Ray Krzoska on pass plays, the former's being a forward-lateral for a total of 71 yards.

Marion Rated First in N. L.; Nicholson 2d

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—Martin Marion, shortstop of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, today was named the most valuable player in the National league in 1944 by a margin of one vote over Bill Nicholson of the Chicago Cubs in the annual balloting of a 24 man committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

In the closest finish since the current vote tabulation system was adopted in 1938, the lean 6 foot 2 inch infielder from Iva, S. C., picked up seven first place votes to four for the Chicago outfielder, but the graduated point allotment closed the gap to make the final point total read Marion, 190; Nicholson, 189.

Fred [Dixie] Walker of Brooklyn, batting champion with an unofficial .357 mark, finished third with 145, nine points ahead of Stan Musial of Bill Nicholson. Martin Marion.

St. Louis, who took top honors a year ago. Two pitchers, Bucky Walters of Cincinnati and Rookie Bill Voiselle of New York, tied for fifth at 107.

Mueller in 7th Spot.

Ray Mueller of Cincinnati, who caught every one of the Reds' 155 games, was ranked next with 85, followed in the first 10 by Walker Cooper of St. Louis, 72; Mort Cooper of St. Louis, 63, and Bob Elliott of Pittsburgh, 57.

Marion was the third successive Redbird to capture the coveted award, following Musial in the 1943 and Mort Cooper in 1942—becoming the first shortstop to be honored in the history of the poll dating back to 1924.

Despite a batting average of only .269 Marion accounted for 64 runs batted in, but it was his brilliant fielding which tabbed the southerner as the No. 1 man in the circuit.

27 for Cavarretta.

On the basis of 14 points for a first place vote, nine for second, eight for third, and so on down to one for tenth, the final totals of players receiving 10 or more points in addition to those named were:

Rip Sewell, Pittsburgh, 49; Babe Dahlgren, Pittsburgh, 33; Frank McCormick, Cincinnati, 32; Phil Cavarretta, Chicago, 27; Ray Sanders, St. Louis, 25; Mel Ott, New York, 20; Jim Tobin, Boston, 13; Johnny Hopp, St. Louis, and Ron Northey, Philadelphia, 10.

Canadiens Tie for Lead; Beat Bruins, 4 to 3

Boston, Mass., Nov. 21 (AP).—Montreal's Stanley Cup Canadiens moved into a first place National Hockey league tie with the Toronto Maple Leafs tonight by gaining their third consecutive triumph over the Boston Bruins, 4 to 1, before 12,000 in Boston Garden.

LOUIS EXPECTED TOMORROW FOR EXHIBITION BOUT

Staff Sgt. Joe Louis will arrive tomorrow morning from New York for a three round exhibition bout in Chicago Stadium Friday night. The heavyweight champion, who refereed a fight in Baltimore on Monday, will meet Dan Merritt, Cleveland heavyweight slugger, who remains on the card despite a defeat suffered in Marigold Gardens Monday night. Louis is on furlough from the army.

It will be Louis' sixth exhibition on his present tour. He opened the campaign Nov. 3 by knocking out Johnny Denson of Indianapolis in Detroit.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

CONNIE MACK has maintained for years, ever since 1931 in fact, that he expects to win another American league pennant before he retires. . . . His activities in the last few weeks would indicate that he may be counting upon 1945 for the fulfillment of his dream. . . . First, he arranged a working agreement with the Toronto club of the International league; then he made a bid for the Minneapolis franchise in the American association. . . . That deal did not materialize, but his efforts indicate the trend of his thoughts. . . . For many years, the A's have been labeled the second worst club in the circuit, their only rivals in mediocrity being their fellow occupants of Shibe Park, the Phillies. . . . This season, however, Mack's outfit finished just a step out of the first division, without the aid of Class AA connections. . . . Late in the campaign Connie paid $25,000 for Catcher Jim Pruett, an Association standout at Milwaukee, and Hal Peck, another Brewer star, is believed to have set him back as much or more. . . . All of which adds up to a snappy slogan—"Watch Connie's drive in '45!" . . . Catcher Bob Swift of the Tigers likes the town so well he has purchased a home in Detroit after a single season on the Briggs payroll. . . . He is working this winter in a war plant. . . . Both the Giants and Dodgers are reported bidding for the Cubs' Lou Novikoff. . . . When the same report bobbed up last winter, a north side fan remarked "And I'll bet Mel Ott hopes Leo Durocher gets him or vice versa." . . . The Redskins have a new marching song titled "Wahoo."

Frank McCormick of the Cincinnati Reds needed 20 home runs in 1944 to raise his major league total to 100, so he made 20 home runs. . . . Paul Dean is taking his basic training at the Fort Riley [Kas.] cavalry replacement training center. . . . Oris Hockett, Cleveland Indians outfielder, is the latest major leaguer to go for bowling. . . . He joined a league five this fall. . . . Paul Hartnek, the Omaha heavyweight, holds three college degrees—a B. A. from Creighton university; a Ph. D. from Stanford, and a master's from Minnesota. . . . Peter Clapper, son of the late Raymond Clapper, nationally known newspaper columnist, is quarter back for the Pottstown [Pa.] High school football team. . . . George Christensen, who used to play with the Detroit Lions, always watches a game from behind the goal posts. . . . When asked what was the matter with the 50-yard line, George replied, "No football player watches a game from there." . . . Naval academy football players leave their bunks at 6 a. m., whether there is a game scheduled that day or not.

The Bare Facts.

The Wake's percentage of correct picks for last week's major college football games was .805, based on 33 winners, eight losers, and one tie. The figures:

C. Y. O. BOXERS BID FOR TITLE SPOTS TONIGHT

24 Fights Carded; Finals Dec. 6.

BY FRANK MASTRO.

The 14th annual Catholic Youth organization amateur boxing tournament will enter its semi-final phase tonight in C. Y. O. center gymnasium, 31 E. Congress st.

Approximately 24 bouts, 10 in the open class and 14 in the novice, will be held on the third successive night of the eliminations.

Winners this evening will advance to the championship round in Ashland auditorium Dec. 6.

Last Night's Qualifiers.

Among last night's open qualifiers for tonight's competition were Paul Yee, Chinese Catholic mission bantamweight; Ted Spicer, St. Sabina middleweight, and Curtis McDaniel.

Others included Ray Lonergan, St. Matthews featherweight, who captured the 1943 C. Y. O. novice bantamweight medal, and Pvt. Vince Pellegrini, Fort Sheridan lightweight. Both drew byes.

One of the most impressive victories last night was scored by Nori Kitaoki of Holy Name cathedral. Nori floored Don Lonergan, novice lightweight and a brother of Ray, for the count in the first round. Another novice 135 pounder to flash better than average skill was Bob Shubinski of St. Leonard, Berwyn. The 17 year old, who is a senior at Morton High school and one of Coach Joe Jahelka's most promising prospects, defeated Dan Rizzo of St. Mel High school in three rounds.

McDaniel Former Champ.

McDaniel, former two time C. Y. O. middleweight champion, was entered in this weight for the third time but was forced to step up one division when he was unable to make the class maximum of 161 pounds. His rivals will be Art Raby, also of St. Anselm; Este Lemon, Precious Blood, and Jesse James, Holy Family.

Don Philbin, St. Joseph parish of Summit, Ill., and Nate McLin, St. James [29th st. and Wabash av.], will vie for honors with Spicer.

EVEN S. R. O. SIGN TAKEN DOWN FOR ARMY-NAVY DUEL

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 21 (AP).—The Maryland War Finance committee, snowed under by an avalanche of applications for tickets to the Army-Navy football game here Dec. 2, announced today it would accept no more requests because its allotment already had been exceeded.

More than 15,000 individual ticket requests have been received since yesterday, the first day a $25 war bond sale receipt was valid for enclosure with a ticket application.

Officials estimated there were enough additional requests in the Baltimore postoffice and in the mail to exceed the undetermined quota.

Orange Bowl Cards Tulsa, Georgia Tech

Miami, Fla., Nov. 21 (AP). — Once beaten Georgia Tech and twice defeated Tulsa, which staged a thrilling football show in the Sugar bowl at New Orleans last New Year's day, will be matched again in the Orange bowl Jan. 1.

President Van C. Kussrow of the Orange Bowl committee announced the signing of Georgia Tech this afternoon and followed up tonight with confirmation that Tulsa had accepted a bid.

Beat Tulsa Last Jan. 1.

The Engineers whipped Tulsa, 20 to 18, with a fourth period touchdown last Jan. 1 in the most exciting battle of the Sugar bowl series.

Georgia Tech has piled up 183 points against 54 in defeating seven out of eight 1944 opponents. The Rambling Wreck lost only to Duke, in a major upset.

Still to be played, however, are games with Notre Dame and Georgia.

Tulsa has lost two high scoring engagements, to Oklahoma A. and M. and to the Iowa Seahawks, but has scored 270 points against 112.

Third Bowl Game for Tech.

It will be the third bowl appearance in consecutive years for Georgia Tech and the fourth for Tulsa.

Tech lost to Texas in the Cotton bowl of 1943. Tulsa defeated Texas Tech in the Sun bowl game of 1942, then lost to Tennessee in the 1943 Sugar bowl.

BOWLING AT ITS BEST

GETS $125,000 CONTRACT FOR 5 YEAR TERM

League Office to Be in New York.

Congratulations!

ELMER LAYDEN, commissioner of the National football league, issued this statement on being informed yesterday of the acceptance by Lt. Comdr. James Crowley of the position of commissioner of the All-America conference:

"As an old teammate and classmate, I congratulate Jim and wish him luck. Professional football is vastly different from any job he ever has undertaken. His biggest task will be to keep his owners interested thru at least five years of deficits and disillusionment. As the major league has taught me, it's the first 20 years which are the hardest."

BY ARCH WARD.

Lt. Comdr. James Crowley, for more than 20 years one of the nation's most popular football figures, yesterday accepted a contract to serve as commissioner of the All-America conference, newly organized major professional football league, for a period of five years.

Lt. Comdr. Crowley, who is athletic officer and football coach at Sampson naval center, Sampson, N. Y., recently returned from 16 months' service in the Pacific. He will assume office as gridiron commissioner as soon as he is discharged from the navy. The league's headquarters will be established in New York.

Crowley, left half back of Notre Dame's famous Four Horsemen back field of 1924, became a football coach immediately after his graduation from the university and he served with extraordinary success at the University of Georgia, Michigan State college, and Fordham. He directed the North Carolina Pre-Flight eleven in 1942 after enlisting in the navy.

Sees Bright Future.

In accepting the presidency of the All-America conference Crowley yesterday said:

"I am thrilled, indeed, over my selection as commissioner of the new major football league. I believe in the future of professional football. I have studied carefully the personnel of the All-America conference membership. It includes men of outstanding enterprise, integrity and determination to give fans in their various communities the best that professional football can offer.

"It is a happy coincidence that Elmer Layden and I again will be playing in the same game, altho on different teams. He did a lot of blocking for me in undergraduate football and I hope he will continue to do so in post-graduate football. There is room for two major leagues and I know we will work out our problems for the mutual interest of our respective groups."

He'll Preside at Meeting.

While terms of Crowley's contract were not disclosed, it is reported he will receive $125,000 for five years. He will preside at the next meeting of the league, which is scheduled for New York, Dec. 9 and Dec. 10.

Franchises in the All-America conference have been issued to New York, Chicago, Baltimore, Buffalo, Cleveland, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. Applications from Boston, Miami, Atlanta, and Detroit will be considered at the New York meeting.

Crowley's services in the Pacific have been widely commended by naval men in that theater. He was recreation officer of the 3d fleet for the first eight months of his overseas duty and for the last eight months was attached to Adm. Halsey's staff as welfare and physical fitness officer for the whole South Pacific area.

The quick wit and good humor that made Crowley popular as a banquet raconteur helped many an American sailor and marine to stave off loneliness in the Pacific. Which recalls the story of the time Sleepy Jim, as Crowley was known in his undergraduate days, was caught by a Notre Dame priest out of bounds in South Bend.

He Even Stopped Rockne.

"Crowley," ordered the reverend father, "I'll give you three minutes to get back to the campus."

Jim looked down the road in the direction of the campus, at least three miles away. Slowly he shook his head.

"I don't think I can make it in

COLLINS CO-OPERATES.

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—Ted Collins, radioman and owner of the Boston Yanks of the National Football league, said tonight he had released Lt. Comdr. James H. Crowley from his contract to become peace time coach of the Yanks in order that Crowley might accept the presidency of the All-America conference. At the same time, Collins said that Herb Kopf, now coaching the Yanks, would become the permanent coach.

$100,000 IS GOAL OF EVANS CADDIE EDUCATION FUND

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The sum of $100,000 to be used in furthering the education of deserving caddies at Northwestern university and other topflight institutions, was the goal announced yesterday by the national Evans caddie scholarship fund of the Western Golf association in a special meeting in the Midday club. At the same time, association officials also stated the W. G. A. Open tourney, last held in the winter of 1942, would be resumed on the 1945 summer circuit at a middle western club.

The Evans caddie scholarship Foundation, originated by Chick Evans of the Edgewater club, is one of the most unusual projects in golf. Of the boys who have benefited by it since its inception at Northwestern in 1930, 32 now are in service, some of them carrying ranks as high as lieutenant commander and major.

Maintain Home on Campus.

All have distinguished themselves scholastically. One, Bill Begley, recently discharged after three years in the army with the rank of first lieutenant, plans to complete his work for a degree next semester. In 1939, directors of the W. G. A. purchased a house on Sherman av. in Evanston, which still serves as a permanent home for the Evans caddie scholars.

The board of the Western association never has awarded an Evans scholarship until the applicant's background has been investigated thoroly and he has passed an oral examination by the board. The awards are made only to those former caddies who would otherwise be unable to obtain an education.

Butz Heads Committee.

The campaign committee for the $100,000 drive is headed by T. C. Butz, former W. G. A. president. Heading the sponsors' committee is Jerome P. Bowes Jr., while the chairman of the individual gifts committee is M. G. Fessenden.

The Western will inaugurate its campaign at a dinner and meeting to be held in the Lake Shore club at 6:30 p. m. on Dec. 1. Every golfer interested in aiding in the Evans caddie fund is invited to attend, regardless of whether he plays at a private club, a daily fee or park course.

INJURY FORCES BENNETT OUT OF WILDCAT LINEUP

Tackle Lost to N. U. for Illini Game Saturday.

Northwestern's plans for fashioning a defense to stop the high geared Illinois attack in Dyche stadium Saturday suffered a setback yesterday when it was learned that Steve Bennett, star tackle, would be unable to play because of a head injury sustained in the Purdue game two weeks ago. The husky Green Bay [Wis.] freshman had developed into one of the best linemen on the team and his loss will weaken the defense play of the Wildcats materially.

SELLOUT AT PURDUE.

La Fayette, Ind., Nov. 21 [Special].—A sell-out crowd of 30,000 already is virtually assured for the 47th game of the Purdue-Indiana football series here Saturday, C. S. Doan, manager of ticket sales, said today.

While the ticket office rush continued, Coach Cecil Isbell continued his repair job on a Purdue back field that has been almost as badly riddled as the seat supply. Boris [Babe] Dimancheff, acting captain and outstanding back field star, still is confined to the hospital with a knee injury.

THOMPSON NAMED CAPTAIN.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 21 [Special].—Jerry Thompson, the University of Wisconsin's bantam full back who has been playing at left half for the last two weeks, has been named acting captain by Coach Harry Stuhldreher for the Minnesota game here Saturday. Thompson, who has been the Badgers' most consistent and best ground gainer all season, played sensational ball against both Iowa and Michigan. He will be at full back against the Gophers since Earl [Jug] Girard is back for the left half duties.

IRISH PREPARE FOR TECH.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 21 [Special].—The Notre Dame's football squad worked out in the snow and rain today, preparing its defense for the game with Georgia Tech on Saturday in Atlanta.

Coach Ed McKeever warned the Irish athlete youngsters to watch out for the deceptive ball handling of the Tech backs, and stressed defense against the passing of Frank Broyles.

Bob Kelly worked out today, but still is far from top shape. McKeever hopes to start him against Tech, but today alternated Nunzio Marino and Kelly at the right half back job.

Cubs and Sox Agree on Four Spring Games

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs and the White Sox, despite the little unpleasantness brewed at their French Lick camp last spring, will not forego the chance to provide their constituents with a pre-season peek in Chicago next April. They are going to put on a spring series of four games locally but, according to Vice President Jim Gallagher of the Cubs, there will be no additions such as exhibitions elsewhere with Mr. James Dykes' seventh placers.

Instead of getting most of their preliminary polishing by playing the Sox, who, incidentally, will have to train elsewhere than French Lick, which they occupied jointly with the Cubs the last two springs, Gallagher has an improved scheme on which he now is working. The Cincinnati Reds expect to drop in at French Lick for a series and the Cubs hope to go to Cape Girardeau, Mo., for a series with the Browns, American league champions.

The Cubs and Sox will stage their first meeting in Comiskey park on April 12, move to Wrigley field April 13, back to the Sox park for the 14th, and to Wrigley field for the conclusion on the 15th, a Sunday date. Then the Cubs will merely have to hang around their own baseball plant until the following Tuesday, at which time the world champion Cardinals will be on hand to assist in opening the National league season.

LEADERS WILL MEET TONIGHT IN CLASSIC LEAGUE

Thompson Restaurants, current leaders of the Classic league, will attempt to increase their one game margin tonight when they clash with the fourth place Du Bouchett Liquors in the top attraction of the program at Congress Arcade, 2047 N. Milwaukee av. The teams were originally scheduled to appear at Gold Coast Recreation, but that plant has been shut down for a week due to damage caused by a fire a week ago.

Thompsons, who hold a one game edge over second place Chapin & Gore with their 20 and 12 record, expect a stiff argument from the Du Bouchetts, only four games out of first place with a 17 to 16 mark.

Chapin & Gore faces Jerry Skovie's Prima Beers, and third place Congress Arcade meets the defending champion, Meister Brau quintet, in other better than average matches. The remainder of the schedule: Monarch Beers vs. Keeley Half and Half, Washington Shirts vs. Sunkist Pies. Standings:

	W.	L.		W.	L.
Thompsons	21	12	Monarch Beers	16	17
Chapin & Gore	20	13	Prima Beers	15	18
Congr's Arcade	18	15	Wash'on Shirts	15	18
Meister Braus	17	16	Keeley H. & H.	14	19
Du Bouchetts	17	16	Sunkist Pies	12	21

ADDRESS K A 854, TRIBUNE

West Coast to Enter Trio in Tenpin Meet

Jim Toomey, husky, gray haired San Francisco city fireman, will lead a trio of entrants from that Pacific coast metropolis in the fourth annual All-Star individual match game bowling tournament, to be sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and the Bowling Proprietor's Association of America in the Auditorium Service Men's center from Dec. 2 thru 10.

Toomey has been tumbling tenpins for 30 years, in the last 25 of which he has maintained a 195 average.

On the trip to the Auditorium Service Men's center, Toomey will be accompanied by Dale Ward, the personable young coast guardsman, and Bill Kratter, the pipe-smoking painter from San Francisco. Both Ward and Kratter competed in last year's All-Star tourney, Dale being one of the most popular competitors in the big field as he fought his way into the finals and finished 10th in the match play field.

The San Francisco leader in the trials there, wherein he outshot Ward, who had been guaranteed a place in the 1944 show as one of the seeded bowlers, has been a member of the San Francisco fire department for the last 19 years. Jim took part in the inaugural tournament in the Coliseum in 1941, finishing in 34th place. He holds the distinction of being the only man in bowling to defeat Ned Day in a 30 game match, accomplishing the feat in 1942, when he won the San Francisco Bowling Writers' event.

Cochran Cuts Hoppe's Lead in Cue Match

Challenger Welker Cochran of San Francisco cut 22 points from the lead of Title Holder Willie Hoppe of New York yesterday in 50 point afternoon and night blocks of their 1,500 point match for the world's three cushion billiards championship at Bensinger's recreation. Cochran won the afternoon block, 66 to 50, in 39 innings, and took the evening block, 56 to 50, in 67 innings to make the standings: Hoppe, 1,200; Cochran, 1,124.

The match will be concluded at Bensinger's with the playing of afternoon [3 p. m.] and evening [8:30 p. m.] blocks today, Friday, and Saturday. Cochran had a high run of eight to seven for Hoppe in a fast afternoon contest in which Welker once rallied for 20 points in six innings. Frequent safeties slowed the evening play, in which each contestant had a high run of five. The score by innings:

AMERICAN GEAR TO PLAY IN PRO BASKET LEAGUE

The American Gear Manufacturing company will sponsor the Chicago entry in the National Basketball league this winter, Maurice A. White, president of the company, said yesterday. The Gears will play 15 home games in the Coliseum, 1513 S. Wabash av. Jack Tierney, former coach at St. George High school, who will have charge of the team, already has lined up several well known players.

BIG CROWD HEX WON'T HANDICAP PACKERS SUNDAY

BY EDWARD PRELL.

The fact that the Green Bay Packers have lost two of three big National Football league games this season has taken some of the glamor from their western division triumph. They not only lost them, but were shut out each time.

A crowd of 45,553 watched the Bears knock the Packers back on their heels in Wrigley field, 21 to 0, and end their dreams of a perfect campaign. Last Sunday the Polo Grounds bulged with 56,481 who saw the Wisconsin eleven flounder and lose to the Giants, 24 to 0. In their first big game of the season, the Packers managed to whip the Bears, 42 to 28, but only after having blown a 28 to 0 lead.

Get Big Crowd Jitters.

This is not the first time the Packers have been whipped before huge crowds in Wrigley field and the Polo Grounds, leading some pro football followers to believe that the villagers get stage fright when they visit the nation's two largest cities.

The Packers shouldn't have big crowd jitters Sunday in Comiskey park when they close their regular season with the Card-Pitts, but, if they do, it won't make any difference, because Green Bay can win this one or leave it alone, as the western race is over.

Brock Is Their Inspiration.

One sharp observer, who has followed the Packers closely for years, charges their sag to the absence of Lou Brock, the veteran half back who came to Green Bay from Purdue six seasons ago. Brock, he declares, is the inspirational force in the Packers' back field. He was not playing when the team was humiliated by the Bears and Giants.

In fact, Lou has missed his team's last four games and yesterday, when the Packers passed thru Chicago, he visited Dr. Daniel Leventhal, the orthopedic surgeon who has been patching him up since his Purdue days. Dr. Leventhal, who operated on Brock's right knee in 1940, said that an operation will be necessary on his left knee because of torn cartilage. It will be postponed until after the Packers' championship game.

LANE WINS, 6 TO 0, OVER TILDEN FOR SOCCER CROWN

Lane Tech won its fifth consecutive City league soccer championship in Lane stadium yesterday by beating Tilden, 6 to 0.

Roy Murray scored two goals in the first half and Walt Eisen registered in the second half.

ELLER—Morris Eller. In fond and loving memory of our dear father, who passed away one year ago today.
LOVING CHILDREN.

FRANK—William F. [Whitey] Frank. In memory of my beloved husband, who passed away one year ago today.
The blow was hard, the shock severe,
I never thought his death so near,
Only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
LOVING WIFE, HULDA.

JANES—Thomas W. Janes. In loving memory of my dear husband, who left one year ago today, Nov. 22, 1943.
My heart still aches with sadness,
My eyes shed many tears,
God only knows how I miss you, dear,
All thru this lonely year.
LONESOME WIFE, NELLIE.

LAMBERTON—Florence Le Tourneau Lamberton, who passed away seven years ago today. Sweet are the memories that never fade
Of one we loved, but could not save.
FATHER, MOTHER, AND FAMILY.

950 MILLION PLAN FOR IMPROVING CITY SUBMITTED

A list of proposed post-war projects which would cost 950 million dollars was submitted by H. Evert Kincaid, executive director of the Chicago plan commission, at a meeting of the city planning advisory board in the Civic Opera building last night.

The suggestions included a public health program calling for the establishment of 30 infant welfare stations at a cost of $9,809,000; expenditure of 110 million dollars for sewage and sanitation; a 155 million dollar rapid transit program embodying subway improvements and extensions, and construction of an express highway system, including Congress st. and high speed routes to the northwest, southwest, and south, at a cost of 184 million dollars.

The proposals, none of which has reached the blue print stage, were put before the commission for further discussion of their value in providing post-war employment.

IF A MEX MEETS MEX, THE BOTTLE WORKS ITS HEX

Fortunately, They Have Patient Families.

It was a happy family of Mexicans that rolled into Chicago Monday night in a battered old truck. For six months they had toiled in the beet fields near Keno, Wis. Now they were going home to Monterrey in old Mexico, their pockets jingling with money.

In the cab of the truck sat Jose Rios, 35, who drove his wife, Narcisa, 28, Jose's father, Rafeal, 65, and Rafeal's wife, Sophia, 48. Chattering and laughing in the rear of the truck were Jose and Narcisa's four children, Maria, 11; Ramon, 8; Jose Jr., 5; and Flora, 3.

Last summer they had stopped to see Rafeal's brother, Aurelio, 50, who lives at 1410 Sangamon st. They decided to stop again and let Aurelio see how they had prospered, and bid him good-by.

Tears of Joy; Then Bottles.

Jose parked the truck at an intersection and he and Rafeal set out to search for the house of Aurelio

CHINA'S NEEDS ARE LIMITLESS, SAYS FEA AID

Advises Planning for Peace Trade.

China's needs after the war will be "practically limitless" and it is vital that American manufacturers plan now to take advantage of that vast market, E. G. Whittaker, special consultant of the China-America Council of Commerce and special advisor to the far eastern division of the foreign economic administration, said yesterday.

Whittaker and S. H. Lebensburger, director of the requirements and supply branch of the FEA, spoke at a luncheon of the Illinois Manufacturers' association in the La Salle hotel.

Whittaker said that China's cash purchases from other countries necessarily would be restricted, but expressed hope that the fund agreed upon at the international monetary conference would form the basis for sound loans and investments in China.

Warns of Stiff Competition.

He warned that other countries which have had long experience in trading with China, especially Great Britain, would provide strong competition for the United States and emphasized the importance of immediately planning a vigorous effort to promote American products in China. Chicago, with its volume and diversification of industries, could play an important role in that trade, he asserted.

"It is time now to start building a post-war trade with China," he said. "There is a great need for competent business analysis of economic changes, legal and tariff conditions, governmental policies, and transportation and other basic factors involved in commercial relations with China.

"China is ready to start an industrialization program in rather short order to carry thru rapidly after the war. Its long range plans already are laid out. This industrialization will require vast quantities of textile machinery, electrical equipment, machine tools, locomotives, steel rails, structural iron, mining machinery, road building equipment, and facilities for water, motor, and air transport. Modernization of Chinese agriculture would mean development of a new market for farm machinery, equipment for irrigation projects, and machinery to develop the production of fertilizer."

Intelligent Trade Policy Urged.

Lebensburger asserted that to maintain a high rate of employment the United States must have a sound and intelligent international commerce policy. One of the first needs is that the government make certain there are no impediments to post-war trade.

"In order to have a large foreign trade the United States must be willing to accept big imports as a complement to expanded exports," he asserted. "It must have tariff policies to facilitate a larger volume of imports to provide foreign funds to buy our products."

Discussing civilian supplies, he said that the government had hoped for a "great flood" of civilian goods in 1945, but that it may be a "mere trickle," because the hoped for victory was coming slower than expected.

CHICAGO CORP. STOCK OFFERING IS QUICKLY SOLD

A special offering on the Chicago Stock exchange of 29,598 shares of Chicago Corporation common stock yesterday was oversubscribed, Glore Forgan & Co., the marketing agency, announced. It was offered at 7⅞ with a commission to dealers of 20 cents.

Shareholders of Gruen Watch company authorized the issuance of 25,000 shares of $100 par 4½ per cent preferred stock to finance retirement of a 2 million dollar long-term bank loan.

A secondary offering of 3,500 shares of Ingersoll-Rand company common stock at 106¼ is being made by Shields & Co. with a dealer's discount of $1.60 a share.

Swedish, Finn Ship Lines Seek to Resume Service

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Swedish and Finnish shipping interests are seeking to resume services connecting with the United States, it was reported in London today.

ENGINEERS DEVELOP CHEMICAL PROCESS TO MAKE ALUMINUM

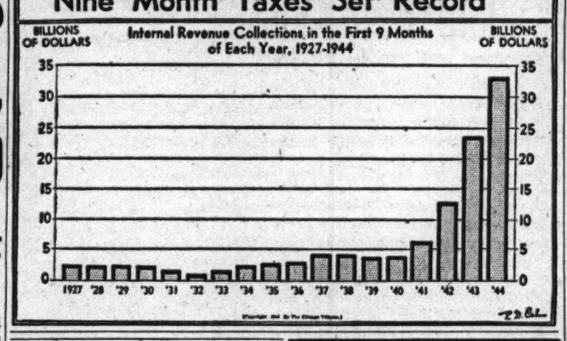
St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 21 (AP).—A new process developed by chemical engineers of the Tennessee Valley authority for producing aluminum from clay was described today at a meeting of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

Previous difficulty with the use of sulphuric acid which dissolved iron present in most clay has been overcome by chemically removing the iron thru its precipitation with manganous acid.

The process, developed by J. H. Walthall, Philip Miller, and M. M. Striplin Jr., all of Wilson Dam, Ala., percolates clay with sulphuric acid to form sulphate salts of aluminum and iron. Further operations remove the iron, silica, and other impurities. The final product is aluminum, which is electrolyzed to produce the aluminum metal. Sulphur oxides present are converted into sulphuric acid for refuse.

Quantities of chemicals lost in earlier efforts to produce aluminum from clay made the treatment uneconomical, the chemists reported.

Nine Month Taxes Set Record



Options, Stock Boost Voted by Nu Enamel

The Nu Enamel corporation's proposals to issue 50,000 shares of convertible preferred stock, increase its authorized common stock from 325,000 to 500,000 shares, and grant one or more present company executives options to buy up to 100,000 of the common shares were approved by stockholders at a day long meeting in the company's Chicago offices yesterday. The vote was 183,782 shares for the proposal, and 68,555 against.

The vote ended a brief proxy fight led by Harvey G. Leason, securities dealer, who contended the exercise of the common stock options would result in an unfair dilution of company earnings, and that the proceeds from the preferred stock would be expended on enterprises upon which stockholders were not adequately advised. He said sale of the preferred would net about $450,000 and would be used for "possible investment in the oil and gas industry and other corporate purposes."

Held "Vote of Confidence."

Altho he did not reply directly to these claims, L. Frank Pitts, president of the company, said he regarded the affirmative vote as an endorsement of the management's policies.

"The management has received an overwhelming vote of confidence from stockholders all over the United States," he said. "The management intends to continue expanding its activities in the paint and petroleum industries for the purpose of achieving further benefits to all stockholders."

Sought for Tax Purposes.

The company asked for the common stock options on the ground that existing federal income taxes do not permit adequate incentive to management thru salaried compensation. Under the plan approved by the stockholders, the executive or executives may purchase the number of shares they wish at $8 apiece until Dec. 31, 1947.

CERTAIN-TEED OFFERS 18 COMMON SHARES, $5 FOR SENIOR STOCK

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 21 [Special]—Directors of Certain-teed Products corporation, Chicago, today approved an exchange offer to holders of 6 per cent prior preference stock of 18 shares of common stock and $5 cash for each of the 48,641 preference shares outstanding. The offer will expire Dec. 28.

Stockholders had authorized the exchange offer at a special meeting earlier today and voted to increase the authorized common stock from 1 million to 2 million shares to provide for the exchange.

Rawson K. Lizars, chairman, said acceptance of the offer would enable the company to declare common dividends for the first time since 1928.

Last August holders of 18,732 shares of prior preference stock exchanged their holdings for 374,660 shares of common stock, absorbing all of the then authorized common shares.

BIGGER DEMAND FOR CORN LIFTS FUTURE PRICES

A marked upturn in the demand for corn to ship and the smallest receipts in more than a month combined with reports distillers may be permitted to use corn for beverage alcohol in January gave corn futures a strong undertone yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Prices moved up readily on buying by cash and commission houses and closed ⅝ to ⅞ cent a bushel higher. May sold at the highest price in about a month.

Short covering advanced rye futures about 1½ cents in early trading, but a reaction carried the market below Monday's close. Another buying wave developed late and the close was 1 to 1⅜ cents higher. Wheat was dull and finished unchanged to ⅜ cent higher. Oats gained ⅜ to ⅝ cent and barley ⅝ to ⅞ cent.

County Slices Depreciation on Machinery

County Assessor Clark yesterday announced discontinuance of the practice of allowing manufacturers a 10 per cent reduction each year in personal property tax valuations on machinery and equipment.

Under the new system, manufacturers as well as real estate owners will help make up the revenue lost to the county thru local tax exemptions granted to many war plants and housing projects because of federal government ownership.

"I have been assessor 10 years and machinery in use when I started in this office still is in use thruout the county," Clark said. "Under the 10 per cent depreciation plan it is carried on the books as worthless.

Listed at Only 2½% of Cost.

"One large plant is doing a 90 per cent of capacity business with machinery carried on the books at only 2½ per cent of its cost. Obviously that is not true. There has been little replacement of machinery and equipment since the war and if we didn't change our method of taxation little of it would carry a fair personal property tax valuation.

"We are proceeding on the theory that all machinery and equipment is worth at least 20 per cent of its cost new. The old basis was to figure the taxable value at 70 per cent of the cost and then to allow a 10 per cent depreciation deduction each year."

Ventures No Guess on Amount.

Clark said the change would raise the personal property tax assessment materially, but he would not venture a guess as to the amount. He said this was made necessary by recent federal court decisions exempting both real estate and equipment of large war plants from local taxes because title is held by the federal government.

Clark said much Cook county land and personal property had been taken off his books in this manner, and that other real estate had to assume the burden, part of which would be borne by personal property under the new plan.

The assessor also said he had a plan to obtain the power to tax the various public housing projects, but was not ready to disclose it.

INDUSTRIAL PAY LEVEL CLIMBS IN SEPTEMBER

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21 (AP).—Secretary of Labor Perkins reported today that weekly earnings for manufacturing industry workers averaged $46.25 in September, compared with $45.86 in August and $44.39 in September, 1943.

A.A.A. DEPLORES TRENDS TO U. S. HIGHWAY RULE

State Responsibility Held Preferable.

The American Automobile association took the position yesterday that recent trends in highway policies indicate a reduction in the importance of state highway departments, wide dissipation of road revenues, and the unsound shifting of taxation and responsibility for highways from the states to the federal government.

"At each level of government society is best served when that government administers functions in which there is a community of interest thruout its jurisdiction," the association said in one of the resolutions adopted at its annual convention in the Palmer House.

Proper Spheres Suggested.

"In highway construction, highways which are of local importance should be the responsibility of local government, and highways of statewide importance should be the responsibility of state governments. There are also highways of limited mileage, which, because of their importance in the nation's overall needs, collectively assume national significance and for which the federal government should make financial contributions and determine standards."

Federal aid highway policy should be confined to general purpose roads of national significance, it asserted, and all such roads should be within one federal aid system—clearly defined and strictly limited as to mileage.

Ask Independent Appropriations.

The association held that federal road appropriations should be a charge against general government revenue and should bear no relation to the productivity of the motor vehicle use tax, or the excise taxes levied on automotive fuels, motor vehicles, and accessories.

Altho the resolution indorsed the principle of federal-state road financing, it recommended reservations which would limit the federal share to 50 per cent of construction costs, including acquisition of the right of way, and prevent congress from earmarking funds appropriated to the states.

Other resolutions called for relaxation of gasoline rationing as soon as conditions permit and repeal of the $5 stamp tax on autos after the war.

Henry J. Brunnier, San Francisco, Cal., was elected president of the association.

OPA Moves to Tighten Price Controls in Clothing, Textiles

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21 (AP).—The office of price administration tonight was moving to tighten the price control machinery to halt a slight upturn in living costs.

The new control, expected to hold down textile and clothing prices, was regarded by some observers as an added indication that the government may delay any basic change in the Little Steel wage formula until Germany is defeated. More strict price control in the meantime is a "must" program to keep costs of essential commodities tied to wage levels.

Vinson Statement Speeds OPA.

OPA speeded work on the new regulation after Stabilization Director Vinson's statement Sunday that "wherever price and production controls are too lax—as is the case of textiles and clothing—we must tighten them."

This measure will be drawn to increase output of low-cost clothing by plugging loopholes that have caused manufacturers and converters to turn to production of higher priced garments, it was understood. Overfinishing fabrics to command a better price is one practice that may be eliminated, officials said.

The rise in living costs over the last six months was attributed largely to higher prices for clothing, principally as a result of the disappearance of much low-cost merchandise.

Bowles Cancels Meeting.

Price Administrator Bowles had planned to announce the new regulation at a news conference today. He canceled the meeting, however, explaining the program needed further polishing. Associates said it may be made public tomorrow.

A second policy which OPA, in conjunction with other agencies, may announce soon embraces sterner dealing with applications for so-called "extraordinary" price increases. These are boosts not provided for under the price control act, and require approval of Vinson and either the war production board or the war food administration, depending on the commodity.

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

K. T. Keller, president of the Chrysler corporation, yesterday announced the return of Lt. Col. Byron C. Foy, former president of the De Soto division, to serve as vice president and a director of Chrysler with residence in New York City. C. E. Bleicher, vice president and general manager of De Soto since 1937, becomes president and general manager of the De Soto division in complete charge of all operations. Keller said Bleicher had been chiefly responsible for Chrysler's large scale production of sections for B-29 Super Fortresses and before that for B-26 bombers.

C. E. Bleicher.

John M. Hancock, partner in Lehman Brothers, New York investment bankers, will discuss demobilization problems before the Economic Club of Chicago in the Stevens hotel Dec. 11.

United Air Lines announced the appointment of Harry W. Taylor as Chicago personnel manager to succeed Hal Furman, who now is manager of the company's employe suggestion conference.

Hugh Day Scully, Canadian consul general at New York, will discuss the aspects of Canadian-American relations before the Bond Club of Chicago in the Palmer House Dec. 1.

Eugene E. Wilson, vice chairman and president of United Aircraft corporation, has assumed temporarily the managership of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, it was disclosed yesterday. He took the post after the resignation of Scott Russell as general manager soon after the organization held a banquet in Chicago for members of the international civil aviation conference. Wilson will retain the post until the chamber, whose membership consists of manufacturers in the aviation industry, holds its annual meeting in Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.

Eugene E. Wilson.

For contributing to the winning of the battle of supply on the home front, the Socony-Vacuum Oil company's East Chicago, Ind., refinery received the coast guard's security shield of honor at a dinner in the Chicago club last night. The presentation was made by Vice Adm. R. R. Waesche, coast guard commandant, to Bryan S. Reid.

Stewart-Keator-Kessberger & Lederer, general agent in Chicago for Continental Assurance company, announced the appointment of Edwin O. Johnson as manager of the life insurance department. Johnson succeeded T. C. Gordon, who now represents the Continental companies at Geneva, Ill.

F. D. R. EXPECTS WAR TIME PAY TO BE RETAINED

Fewer Work Hours at Higher Rate.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21 (AP).—President Roosevelt expressed belief today that the tendency will be to retain weekly wages—"take home pay"—at war time levels when working hours shorten with the return to civilian production.

The President, at a news conference, described as "awfully good" a recent statement by Charles E. Wilson, president of General Electric company, that his company intended to maintain employes' earnings as far as possible when a 40 hour work week is resumed.

Many others are thinking the same way and the number is growing, Mr. Roosevelt asserted.

Fills in Pattern of Policy.

The President's remarks filled in the pattern of a two point administration wage policy apparently taking shape from the recent developments:

1. To "hold the line" with the Little Steel formula and keep general wage increases down to 15 per cent above January, 1941, levels at least until Germany is defeated.

2. To permit "straight time" increases large enough to maintain approximate existing weekly wages when war production is scaled back and a 40 hour week restored for employes now putting in longer hours and getting overtime "bonus pay."

30 Per Cent Hike for Some.

This would mean a 30 per cent increase in "straight time" pay, for instance, for the person working 48 hours a week and getting time and one-half pay for the last eight hours.

Mr. Roosevelt himself brought up the subject in connection with a plea for workers to stay on war jobs and get out the production of heavy shells and other critical items which Gen. Eisenhower has asked.

One reason workers are quitting Mr. Roosevelt remarked, is that they fear they won't have jobs after the war. But industry as well as government is working awfully hard to see that they do have jobs, he

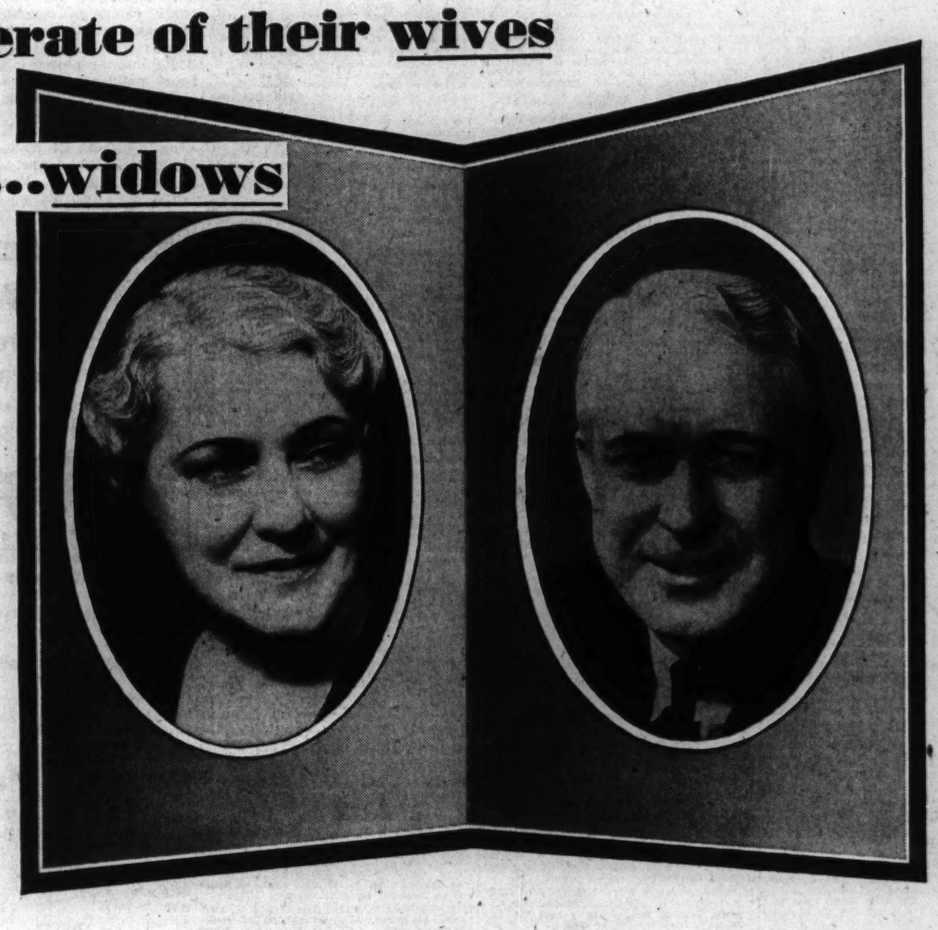
EXCHANGES CLOSE TOMORROW.

Banks and principal security and commodity markets, including live stock, will be closed tomorrow in observance of Thanksgiving day. Canadian and British markets will be open.

Men who are considerate of their wives

are often unkind to their...widows



Men who leave their wives possessions and wealth, with no plans for maintaining them, often leave cares and heartache too. For even the wife who fully knows her husband's plans and assets needs competent counsel and assistance in preserving his estate. . . . The considerate husband will carry his devotion beyond his own lifetime by a trust which protects his loved ones, and releases them from burdens with which they can hardly be familiar. A consultation with your attorney and one of our Trust Officers will indicate which type of trust best meets the needs of your family.

STOCK ADVANCE SECOND LARGEST IN TWO MONTHS

Turnover Is Increased in Broader Trade.

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—The stock market recovery was extended on broad buying today in one of the best average advances in more than two months. Rails and industrials generally rose fractions to a point or more on expanded volume.

The advance came in the face of much Wall street attention to the war loan drive. Year-end tax adjustments caused scant worry. Individual issues were propped by favorable dividends and earnings. Sentiment as a whole appeared buoyed by the good news from the western front. Confidence also revived on hopes for maintenance of the "little steel" wage formula and for tax benefits from the next congress.

Some Gains Trimmed.

Prices turned upward from the start. Dealings slackened after noon and gains were well in the majority altho top prices were reduced here and there.

The Associated Press stock composite was up 0.4, 55.2, second largest rise since Sept. 15. Of 888 issues registering, 524 rose, 150 were down, and 214 were unchanged.

Big debt reductions by important railroads, in addition to expectations of capacity traffic for western trunk lines even after Germany falls, stimulated the transportation group.

At peaks for 1944 or longer were Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, and General Steel Castings preferred.

RAIL BONDS GAIN MORE.

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—Railroad bonds extended previous gains by fractions to more than a point today. Other groups retained a fully steady undertone, but gains were smaller than yesterday. Trading was active, with total sales at $10,188,900, compared with $9,960,900 yesterday. The Associated Press average of 20 rails attained a new high at 93.4, its second in as many days.

CHICAGO PRICES RISE.

Prices rose as volume increased to 63,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Actively traded issues included Chicago and North Western, up ⅝; La Salle Extension at a 1944 high of 5¼, up ¼; Athey Truss Wheel, up ½; Chicago corporation, off ⅛, and Libby, unchanged. Among five 1944 highs reached was North West Utilities preferred, which closed up 3¼ at 41¾ after reaching 43.

Jewel Tea Sales Exceed Year Ago by 13 Per Cent

Jewel Tea company yesterday reported sales in the four weeks ended Nov. 4 of $4,474,877, an increase of 13.1 per cent from a year earlier. Sales in the 44 weeks ended Nov. 4 totaled $47,087,239, up 7.2 per cent.

WALGREEN COMPANY.

What has been Walgreen company's record of sales and earnings during the war years?—E. L.

Sales of this large retail drug store chain have increased each year since 1938. In the fiscal year ended last Sept. 30, they amounted to $119,989,000, an increase of 6.9 per cent from the $112,204,000 a year earlier. In 1938 the total was $67,725,000.

The growth in volume has enabled Walgreen to absorb much higher taxes and substantially increased pay rolls and yet maintain net income above the pre-war years. The profit margin after taxes, however, declined from 4.24 per cent of sales in 1940 to 3.36 in 1943 before contingency reserve deduction.

Per share earnings in 1943 were $2.20 [after contingency reserve of 39 cents a share]; 1942, $2.27; 1941, $2.25; 1940, $2.10; 1939, $1.97; 1938, $1.25, and in the six months ended last March, $1.16, compared with the same amount a year ago. Along with the increase in total sales, the total stores operated decreased from an average of 508 in 1939 to 469 in 1943. Of the 460 stores as of Sept. 30, 1943, a total of 183 was in Illinois, and the remainder in 38 other states.

Outstanding are 1,292,485 no par common shares, on which dividends subsequent to 1939 have been at the rate of $1.60 a share each year. Giving effect to the recent exchange or redemption of the former $4.50 preferred stock, there will be outstanding 65,000 shares of $4 preferred.

AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE

Don't You Believe It? We're Selling 'Em and Cheap, Too! Save $100 to $1,000
"AS GOOD AS GOLD"
We'll go out of "Our Way" to give YOU an honest square deal.
BECAUSE: [1] We're out of the high rent district.
BECAUSE: [2] We don't need fancy trimmings or high pressure salesmen.
BECAUSE: [3] You don't pay for silk curtains, marble floors.
